Title 3—

The President

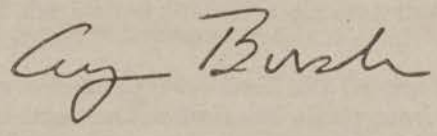
Proclamation 6055 of October 25, 1989

Country Music Month, 1989

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

With its origins in the folk songs of immigrants and workers, country music boasts a rich heritage as well as a wide audience. During Country Music Month, as we celebrate this uniquely American art form and salute the musicians and audiences who give it life, we recall a proud portion of our history and culture.



Over the years, country music has given eloquent expression to the American spirit. In its simple strains, we hear the voices of a people united by their faith, their love of freedom, and their appreciation for honesty and hard work. Yet, as varied as each of the men and women who compose it, country music also captures our Nation's ethnic and cultural diversity.

Today, country music is thriving not only in the United States, but around the world as well. Its popularity is a tribute to the generations of Americans who have graced it with their talent and vision.

The Congress, by House Joint Resolution 401, has designated October 1989 as "Country Music Month" and has authorized and requested the President to issue a proclamation in observance of this month.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GEORGE BUSH, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim October 1989 as Country Music Month. I call on all the people of the United States to observe the month with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-fifth day of October, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-nine, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and fourteenth.

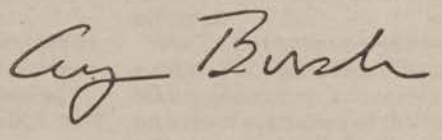
National Arab-American Day, 1989

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

For decades, Arab-Americans have made valuable contributions to virtually every aspect of American life: in science, medicine, education, business, culture and government. The works of many talented Arab-American artists and writers grace our museums and libraries throughout the United States. Since the first Arab immigrant came to these shores more than a century ago, men and women of Arab descent have shared with us the rich history and traditions of Arab culture.



With pride in their ethnic heritage and with great faith in the principles upon which this country was founded, Arab-Americans have added to the strength and diversity of American society. Arab-Americans occupy positions of leadership and responsibility throughout our system of government, setting a fine example of public service at the local, State, and national level.

Arab-Americans have also enriched our Nation with the quiet power of strong families and close-knit communities. Many have come to the United States in search of the blessings of peace and freedom. They have quickly seized the opportunities life in this free and democratic country affords, yet they have not forgotten their ancestral homelands. They join all Americans in the desire to bring peace and security to that troubled region. Industrious and determined, they have helped give us a more profound understanding of the rights and responsibilities we have as citizens of a free and prosperous Nation.

In recognition of the contributions of Arab-Americans, the Congress, by House Joint Resolution 241, has designated October 25, 1989, as "National Arab-American Day" and has authorized and requested the President to issue a proclamation in observance of this day.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GEORGE BUSH, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim October 25, 1989, as National Arab-American Day. I call upon the people of the United States to observe this day with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-fifth day of October, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-nine, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and fourteenth.

OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

Debarments, Civil Monetary Penalties and Assessments Imposed on Health Care Practitioners and Providers of Services or Supplies for Cited Offenses

AGENCY: Office of Personnel Management.

ACTION: Interim regulations with comments requested.

SUMMARY: The Office of Personnel Management (OPM) is publishing interim regulations to implement title I of Pub. L. 100–654, the "Federal Employees Health Benefits Amendments Act of 1988." Title I of Pub. L. 100–654 permits OPM to exclude from further participation in the Federal Employees Health Benefits (FEHB) Program any health care provider (1) convicted of fraud or various other cited examples of unethical professional conduct, or (2) determined by OPM to have committed various cited offenses against the FEHB Program, including the submission of false claims or excessive charges. In addition to debarment sanctions, OPM may also impose civil monetary penalties and assessments it deems appropriate for offenses under item (2). OPM has the responsibility to impose the sanctions noted above for offenses committed on or after January 1, 1989.

DATES: Effective Date: January 1, 1989.
Comment Date: November 29, 1989.

ADDRESSES: Written comments may be sent to Reginald M. Jones, Jr., Assistant Director, Office of Retirement and Insurance Policy, Retirement and Insurance Group, Office of Personnel Management, P.O. Box 57, Washington, DC 20044, or delivered to OPM, Room 4351, 1900 E Street, NW., Washington, DC.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John Ray, (202) 632–4634.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Title I of Pub. L. 100–654, enacted on November 14, 1988, permits OPM to bar a "provider of health care services or supplies," defined as a physician, hospital, or other individual or entity which furnishes health care services or supplies, from further participation in the FEHB Program if that provider has been convicted under Federal or State law:

(1) Of a criminal offense relating to fraud, corruption, breach of fiduciary responsibility, or other financial misconduct in connection with the delivery of a health care service or supply;

(2) Of a criminal offense relating to neglect or abuse of patients in connection with the delivery of a health care service or supply;

(3) In connection with the interference with or obstruction of an investigation or prosecution of a criminal offense described in (1) or (2) above; or

(4) Of a criminal offense relating to the unlawful manufacture, distribution, prescription, or dispensing of a controlled substance.

OPM may also bar a provider from further participation in the FEHB Program:

(1) Whose license to provide health care services or supplies has been revoked, suspended, restricted, or not renewed, by a State licensing authority for reasons relating to the provider's professional competence, professional performance, or financial integrity; or

(2) That surrendered such a license while a formal disciplinary proceeding was pending before such an authority, if the proceeding concerned the provider's professional competence, professional performance, or financial integrity.

OPM may also bar a provider for "FEHB Program-related offenses" when OPM determines that the provider:

(1) Charged for health care services or supplies that the provider knew or should have known were not provided as claimed;

(2) Charged for health care services or supplies in an amount substantially in excess of such provider's customary charge for such services or supplies, or charged for health care services or supplies which were substantially in excess of the needs of the covered individual or which were of a quality that failed to meet professionally recognized standards for such services or supplies;

(3) Knowingly made, or caused to be made, any false statement or misrepresentation of a material fact which was reflected in a claim; or

(4) Knowingly failed to provide any information required by a carrier or by OPM to determine whether a payment or reimbursement should be made or the correct amount of the payment or reimbursement.

In addition to a period of debarment for "FEHB Program-related offenses", OPM may also impose a civil monetary penalty of not more than $10,000 for any item or service involved and/or an assessment in lieu of damages of not more than twice the amount claimed for each such item or service. However, no debarment, civil monetary penalty, or assessment may be imposed based on any criminal or other conduct occurring before January 1, 1989.

In analyzing the various provisions of title I of Pub. L. 100–654, we recognized the need for a new Subpart to be added to Part 890, Federal Employees Health Benefits Program, to fully address such administrative matters as the manner in which debarred providers might apply to OPM after the expiration of the minimum period of debarment required by Pub. L. 100–654, the exceptions that might be made to the general rule that individuals covered by the FEHB Program can not use the services of debarred providers, the mechanics of the hearing process, etc. However, of necessity, we have concentrated our initial efforts on those areas of administration that needed to be formalized and in place at the earliest date possible. These appear to encompass (1) those relatively subjective areas of OPM determinations to impose sanctions for FEHB-related offenses and (2) the severity of the sanctions in general, i.e., debarments, civil monetary penalties, or assessments, be they imposed for criminal offenses or for FEHB-related offenses.

We do not believe it is necessary to publish the equivalent of standards for taking debarment actions against providers convicted of the numerous offenses cited in Pub. L. 100–654 or for those providers who have suffered the loss of their professional licenses. Nor do we believe it is necessary for us to elaborate on the language found in Pub.

L. 100–654 concerning the submission of fraudulent claims and the resultant debarment for these FEHB-related offenses. However, we do deem it appropriate to establish in our regulations the equivalent of standards that OPM will use in the more subjective areas of debarments, civil monetary penalties, and assessments for FEHB Program-related offenses related to excessive charges, over-prescribing, and the poor quality of care. In the following interim regulations we will also address the criteria for establishing the length(s) of debarment, the amount of civil monetary penalties and assessments in lieu of damages.

Waiver of Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Under 5 U.S.C. 553 (b)(3)(B) and (d)(3), I find that good cause exists for waiving the general notice of proposed rulemaking and for making these regulations effective in less than 30 days. Publication of proposed rulemaking would be impractical. The authority to debar and/or impose civil monetary penalties and assessments is granted OPM by recently enacted legislation and is tied to infractions committed on or after January 1, 1989. These regulations are needed immediately in order to effectively administer and enforce the new legislation.

E.O. 12291, Federal Regulation

I have determined that this is not a major rule as defined under section 1(b) of E.O. 12291, Federal Regulation.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

I certify that within the scope of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, these regulations will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. These regulations merely conform to the standards already in place for providers under the health care programs administered by the Department of Health and Human Services, such as Medicare and Medicaid.

Accordingly, OPM is amending part 890 of title 5 of the Code of Federal Regulations as follows:

PART 890—FEDERAL EMPLOYEES HEALTH BENEFITS PROGRAM

1. The authority citation for part 890 is revised to read as follows:

Authority: 5 U.S.C. 8913; § 890.102 also issued under 5 U.S.C. 1104 and Pub. L. 100–654; § 890.803 also issued under sec. 303 of Pub. L. 99–569, 100 Stat. 3190, sec. 188 of Pub. L. 100–204, 101 Stat. 1331, and sec. 204 of Pub. L. 100–238, 101 Stat. 1744; Subpart J also issued under title I of Pub. L. 100–654.

2. Subpart J is added to part 890 to read as follows:

Subpart J—Debarments, Civil Monetary Penalties and Assessments Imposed Against Providers

Sec.
890.1001 [Reserved]
890.1002 Definitions
890.1003 Standards for OPM determinations of excessive charges, overprescribing, and services or supplies of a poor quality in connection with claims presented under this chapter.
890.1004 Standards for determining either the period of debarment or the amount of civil monetary penalties or assessments.
890.1005 Effective dates and notices
890.1006–890.1009 [Reserved]

Subpart J—Debarments, Civil Monetary Penalties and Assessments Imposed Against Providers

§ 890.1001 [Reserved]

§ 890.1002 Definitions.

(a) For the purposes of this subpart, the terms convicted and provider have the meanings set forth in section 8902a of title 5, United States Code.

(b) Debarment means that services or supplies furnished by a specific provider will no longer be reimbursed by the various carriers or health plans under title 5, United States Code, or this Part.

(c) Sanction means any of the three penalties provided by section 8902a of title 5, United States Code, for the offenses cited therein. The three penalties are debarment, civil monetary penalties of not more than $10,000 for any item or service involved, and assessments of not more than twice the amount claimed for each such item or service.

§ 890.1003 Standards for OPM determinations of excessive charges, overprescribing, and services or supplies of a poor quality in connection with claims presented under this chapter.

(a) Basis for sanctions. Section 8902a(c) of title 5, United States Code, provides OPM the authority to impose sanctions against health care providers for cited offenses against the FEHB Program.

(b) Standards. (1) In making a determination that a provider has charged for health care services or supplies in an amount substantially in excess of such provider's customary charges for such services or supplies, OPM may rely, in part, upon a statistical sampling of previous claims and requests for payment filed by that provider and obtained either from FEHB carrier files, other Government programs, private sector insurance sources or from the provider's own records. OPM shall take into consideration whether such charges deemed to be excessive are justified by unusual circumstances or medical complications requiring additional time, effort, or expense in localities in which it is acceptable medical practice to make an extra charge in such case.

(2) In making a determination that a provider has charged for health care services or supplies which are substantially in excess of the needs of the insured or which are of a quality that fails to meet professionally recognized standards for such services or supplies, OPM may rely, in part, upon reports, including sanction reports, from the following sources:

(i) The Professional Standards Review Organization or the Peer Review Organization for the area served by the provider;

(ii) State or local licensing or certification authorities;

(iii) Peer review committees of health plan carriers;

(iv) State or local professional societies; or

(v) Other sources deemed appropriate by OPM.

§ 890.1004 Standards for determining either the period of debarment or the amount of civil monetary penalties or assessments.

(a) In determining either the period of debarment or the amount of any civil monetary penalty or assessment, OPM shall take into account the specifics of section 8902a(e) of title 5, United States Code; i.e., the nature of any claims involved and the circumstances under which they were presented; the degree of culpability, history of prior offenses or improper conduct of the provider involved, and such other matters as justice may require.

(b) The following standards will be used when taking into account the factors listed in paragraph (a) of this section:

(1) Criminal convictions. The nature of the offense, the severity and magnitude of the crime, the extent of the provider's involvement and the provider's previous record, if any, will be of paramount importance in determining the period of debarment under 8902a(b) of title 5, United States Code.

(2) Nature and circumstances of claims. It shall be considered a mitigating circumstance if all the items or services subject to a determination under 8902a(c) of title 5, United States Code, included in the action brought under this part were of the same type and occurred within a short period of time, or were few in number and the total amount claimed was less than $1,000. It shall be considered an aggravating circumstance if such items or services were of several types, occurred over a lengthy period of time, were numerous (or the nature and circumstances indicate a pattern of claims for such items or services), or the amount claimed for such items or services was substantial.

(3) Degree of culpability. It shall be considered a mitigating circumstance if the claim was the result of an unintentional and unrecognized error in the process the provider followed in presenting claims, and corrective steps were taken promptly after the error was discovered. It shall be considered an aggravating circumstance if, for example, the provider knew or should have known he or she had previously been suspended from participation and such suspension was still in effect.

(4) Prior offenses. It shall be considered an aggravating circumstance if at any time prior to the presentation of the claim at issue in the debarment deliberations the provider was held liable for criminal, civil, or administrative sanctions in connection with the program covered by this part or any other public or private program of reimbursement for medical services.

(5) If there are substantial or several mitigating circumstances, OPM shall set any period of debarment at a minimum period of at least two years. If there are substantial or several mitigating circumstances, OPM shall set the aggregate amount of any civil monetary penalty and assessment at an amount equivalent to at least 25% of the maximums allowed by 8902a(c) of title 5, United States Code. However, unless there are extraordinary mitigating circumstances, the aggregate amount of the civil monetary penalty and assessment must be at least double the estimated amount of damages sustained by the FEHB Program as a result of the claim(s) in question.

(6) If there are substantial or several aggravating circumstances, OPM shall set a period of debarment at a minimum period of at least 4 years. If there are substantial or several aggravating circumstances, OPM shall set the aggregate amount of any civil monetary penalty and assessment at an amount equivalent to at least 75% of the maximum allowed by 8902a(c) of title 5, United States Code.

(a) If OPM proposes to invoke any sanctions under section 8902a (b) or (c) of title 5, United States Code, OPM will send written notice of its intent, including the reasons for the proposed sanction(s), the proposed duration of the debarment, if any, and the proposed amount of any civil monetary penalty or assessment to the provider and advise the provider of the right to a reconsideration within OPM.

(b) Within 30 days of the date of the notice, the provider may submit:

(1) Documentary evidence and written argument against the proposed sanction; or

(2) A written request to present evidence or argument orally to an OPM official.

(c) For good cause shown by the provider, OPM may extend the 30-day period.

(d) If, after the provider has exhausted the reconsideration rights within OPM or failed to exercise his or her right to reconsideration within OPM, OPM decides to invoke any sanctions, it will send written notice of its decision to the provider at least 30 days before the proposed effective date of the sanction(s). The written notice will set forth:

(1) The basis for the sanction;

(2) The duration of the debarment, if any, and the factors used in determining the duration;

(3) The requirements and procedures for reinstatement, if applicable;

(4) The amount of the civil monetary penalty or assessment, if any, and how such penalty and/or assessment was determined;

(5) The right to a hearing.

(e) If the right to a hearing is waived, OPM will implement the effective date of the sanction(s) as provided in the notice required by paragraph (d) of this section. If the right to a hearing is exhausted and OPM is upheld by the hearing officer, OPM shall set the date of the sanction(s) to become effective within 31 days of the final decision of the hearing officer.

BILLING CODE 6325–01–M

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Commodity Credit Corporation

7 CFR Part 1475

Emergency Livestock Assistance

AGENCY: Commodity Credit Corporation, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: An interim rule was published in the Federal Register on October 14, 1988 (53 FR 40206), which amended the regulations at 7 CFR part 1475, to implement the livestock emergency programs authorized by the Agricultural Act of 1949 (the 1949 Act) as amended by the Disaster Assistance Act of 1988, Public Law 100–387 (the 1988 Act). The interim rule provided that under these programs the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) may make assistance available to eligible owners of livestock who do not have adequate supplies of feed due to certain natural disasters.

The interim rule also deleted the then current regulations set forth at this part. This final rule adopts the interim rule with certain changes which will enhance the effectiveness of these programs. The final rule also amends 7 CFR part 1475 to set forth the regulations which relate to the use of price support loan collateral as assistance under title VI of the 1949 Act as amended by the Disaster Assistance Act of 1989.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 30, 1989.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Harry D. Millner, Program Specialist, Emergency Operations and Livestock Programs Division, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, DC 20013. Telephone: (202) 475–3605.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This final rule has been reviewed under Department of Agriculture (USDA) procedures established in accordance with provisions of Departmental Regulations 1512–1 and Executive Order 12291 and has been classified "major." It has been determined that these program provisions will result in an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more.

The title and number of the Federal Assistance Program to which this final rule applies are: Title—Commodity Loans and Purchases; Number 10.051 as found in the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance.

It has been determined that the Regulatory Flexibility Act is not applicable to this final rule since the CCC is not required by 5 U.S.C. 553 or any other provision of law to publish a notice of proposed rulemaking with respect to the subject matter of this rule.

An Environmental Evaluation with respect to the livestock feed programs has been completed. It has been determined that this action is not expected to have any significant impact on the quality of human environment. In addition, it has been determined that this action will not adversely effect environmental factors such as wildlife habitat, water quality, and land use and appearance. Accordingly, neither an Environmental Assessment nor an Environment Impact Statement is needed.

This program/activity is not subject to the provisions of Executive Order 12372 which requires intergovernmental consultation with State and local officials. See the notice related to 7 CFR part 3015, subpart V, published at 48 FR 29115 (June 24, 1983).

Comments Received

There were 23 letters submitted to CCC pertaining to the interim rule, with a total of 33 comments. These comments were submitted by farm associations, members of Congress, State departments of agriculture, farm bureaus, producer councils, and individuals.

1. There were a total of 5 comments expressing concern that producers who purchased Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) crop insurance as a risk management tool are ineligible for full disaster assistance. The comments expressed concern that this would discourage the purchase of crop insurance and perpetuate government assistance to farmers in emergency situations. One of the comments suggested that provisions be made to reduce the livestock assistance to a producer only by the amount by which the sum of assistance and the net crop insurance indemnity payment exceeds 100 percent of the expected proceeds had there not been a disaster. These suggestions have been adopted in part.

In order to assure that sufficient assistance is provided to all livestock producers, it has been determined that beginning with the 1989 crop disaster, if a producer purchases crop insurance, the indemnity payment which is made to the producer will not be converted to feed grain equivalent (FGE) and considered as feed on hand or reduce the amount of loss suffered by the producer provided that the producer elects to take the appropriate option as provided in this part. Thus, the producer who purchases FCIC crop insurance for 1989 and subsequent years may also be eligible for full livestock feed assistance.

2. There were a total of 8 comments expressing concern that certain game birds, such as pheasants and other game birds, were not included in the definition of poultry. The 1949 Act defines livestock to mean cattle, sheep, goats, swine, poultry (including egg-producing poultry), equine animals used for food or in the production of food, fish used for food, and other animals designated by the Secretary of Agriculture (at the Secretary's sole discretion). Pheasants and other game birds are not normally kept in a domestic environment. These avian animals, unlike other eligible livestock species, are normally released for hunting and gaming purposes or otherwise kept for sporting or other purposes. Therefore, it has been determined that pheasants and other gaming birds will not be included as eligible livestock or poultry.

3. There were a total of 2 comments expressing concern about the daily feed allowance which was established by CCC for use in determining whether a producer has suffered a loss of production. One comment stated that the feed allowance should be adjusted according to weather conditions and submitted data showing that beef cattle need more total digestive nutrients for maintenance in colder climates than in warmer climates. Under the provisions of the interim rule, no adjustments in daily feed allowances are permitted relative to the section of the country or climatic conditions applicable to the producer.

While it is not feasible to base feed allowance adjustments according to weather conditions in certain parts of the country, it has been determined that there should be an upward adjustment made in the daily allowance per animal unit. Previous studies and evaluations done by USDA personnel concluded that 10 pounds of feed per day per animal unit was sufficient to maintain livestock through a disaster period, taking into consideration that the purpose of the livestock feed program is to maintain the affected livestock and not provide a tool for the livestock to be prepared for market by the producer through benefits derived from this program. However, because of improved techniques developed by industry and farmers in breeding, animal husbandry, identification of daily nutritional requirements, better analysis of energy contained in feeds, and related matters it has been determined that the 10 pounds feed grain equivalent FGE per day per animal unit shall be increased to 12.5 pounds (FGE) per day per animal unit or such lesser amount as determined by the State or county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee effective beginning with the 1989 crop disaster provided the producer elects to take the appropriate option provided in this part.

Another comment stated that livestock producers with both swine and cattle should not be put in the position where surplus hay restricts eligibility for emergency assistance for swine. Under the provisions of the interim rule, CCC reduces a swine producer's total feed allowance by taking into consideration any hay or pasture on hand if the producer has one or more animals that will consume the type of feed available. However, it has been determined that beginning with the 1989 crop disaster the producer with swine and/or poultry and grazing livestock will be given the option to designate whether the grazing livestock shall be included on the application for assistance in accordance with this part.

4. There were 2 comments expressing concern that transportation charges are not included as part of cost share when the charge is shown as a separate item on the producer's bill presented to the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office for cost-share assistance. Under the provisions of the interim rule, the transportation cost is included as a cost-share item based on the point of delivery of the eligible feed. If the transportation cost is included as part of the bill submitted for cost share, then transportation is included. If the transportation cost is listed separately, it is not a cost-share item. Under the provisions of the 1949 Act, a producer is not reimbursed for the cost of the transportation of grain under the cost-share provisions, hence, it has been determined that it would not be consistent to provide for transportation cost to be included as a cost-share item as requested by these two commentors. For these reasons, it has been determined not to change these provisions of the interim rule.

5. There were 2 comments expressing concern that the transportation of livestock should be included as part of the livestock feed programs. Under the provisions of the 1949 Act, the Secretary of Agriculture determined not to implement this discretionary livestock transportation program. The 1949 Act provides in part that the Secretary of Agriculture may make available a livestock transportation program to producers not to exceed 50 percent of the cost of transporting livestock to and from grazing locations. It has been determined that with the present emergency livestock assistance programs, implementation of such a transportation program is not needed. Therefore, it has been determined not to include a livestock transportation program as a part of this final rule at this time but, rather, CCC will develop regulations which set forth the terms and conditions of such a program at such time as it is determined a livestock emergency exists which would warrant the implementation of such a program.

6. There were 3 comments expressing concerns that water projects were not included as part of the emergency livestock feed assistance programs. The comments stated that a program should be implemented because the current cost-share program on water projects have limited funding and time constraints. The comments include the statement that current water cost-share projects must be approved before construction can take place. They also stated that without cost share for water projects, water availability will be a much greater threat to next year's growing season. Under the provisions of the 1949 Act, the Secretary of Agriculture determined not to implement this discretionary provisions.

As noted above with respect to the implementation of the cattle transportation assistance provision of the 1949 Act, regulations regarding this special water project provision will be published at such time as it is determined that a livestock emergency exists which necessitates the implementation of such a program. The current emergency conservation program provides assistance to the producer for livestock water projects.

7. There were 5 comments stating that bees should be included as eligible livestock. These comments express concern that clover, alfalfa, and sunflower that normally produce the major honey crop were severely drought affected, and that there is an average number of pounds of honey per hive that would provide the basis for loss determination related to a bee producer's eligibility. They also stated that bees are a vital part of many facets of agriculture and without pollination by bees many crops would be nonexistent. The 1949 Act defines livestock to mean cattle, sheep, goats, swine, poultry (including egg-producing poultry), equine animals used for food or in the production of food, fish used for food, and other animals designated by the Secretary of Agriculture (at the Secretary's sole discretion). Bees are not considered as eligible livestock. In addition, generally beekeepers do not produce feed on their farms for their bees. Therefore, they do not have the qualifying losses of production required for eligibility under the 1949 Act. For this reason, it has been determined not to include bees as eligible livestock.

8. There was 1 comment expressing concern that the definition of "premix" and "supplemental feed" as defined in the interim rule should be expanded. The comment stated that the current definition of "premix" limits the scope of the term and excludes certain practical, recognized uses of premix feed products. The comment suggested that the term "premix" be defined as a specialized mixture of vitamins, minerals, and other nutrients (which can be) included in complete feeds and dry and liquid supplemental feeds. The comment suggested that the term "supplemental feed" be defined as a feed used with another to improve the nutritive balance of performance of the total and intended to be: (1) Fed undiluted as a supplement to other feeds; (2) offered free choice with other parts of the ration separately available; or (3) further diluted and mixed to produce a complete feed. These comments have been adopted in part.

This final rule amends the interim rule to change the current definition of "premix" to be a formulation of one or more microingredients, such as vitamins, minerals, drugs, or other ingredients when one type of ingredient is evenly mixed with one or more other ingredients or a carrier. This final rule also amends the interim rule to change the definition of dry supplemental feed to be a dry feed ingredient, or combination of dry feed ingredients, derived as by-products from processing food and feed grains, oil seeds, meat, fish, citrus, sugar beets, and dairy products that are needed to balance or improve performance of the total feed ration.

Certain antibiotics, emulsifiers, hormones, minerals, and vitamins may be included. As a result of these changes producers can receive cost share on the kinds and types of feeds that best suit the producer's needs.

9. There were 2 comments expressing concern about the gross revenue limitation in the livestock feed programs. One comment strongly opposed this provision and believes it should not serve as the precedent for program eligibility for any program. Another comment, while not opposing a gross income threshold, suggested that the cost of purchased livestock should be subtracted from gross income before applying the $2.5 million test. Secondly, this person suggested that many farmers, feeders, and cattlemen made sound business and management decisions during the early summer of 1988 by enrolling in the existing feed assistance programs. At that time, the law did not provide for the limitation. The comment asked that these persons not be subject to the limitation. The 1949 Act provides that a person that has qualifying gross revenues in excess of $2,500,000 annually, as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture, shall not be eligible to receive any livestock feed program benefits. The 1949 Act also provides that the term "qualifying gross revenues" means: (1) If a majority of the person's annual income is received from farming and ranching operations, the gross revenue from the farming and ranching operations; and (2) if less than a majority of the person's annual gross revenue is received from all sources. It has been determined that there is no discretion in adopting this provision, accordingly the recommendation of these commentors cannot be adopted. This provision of the interim rule is amended, however, to clarify the manner in which 7 CFR parts 795 and 1497 are applicable to the provisions of 7 CFR part 1475 when the gross income determination is made for a person.

Since CCC has determined to make changes in these regulations, for the 1989 and subsequent crop disasters, CCC has determined to allow producers the option to receive assistance under one of two options. The first option is the program set forth in the interim rule, while the second option sets forth the program which contains the changes made in response to comments to the interim rule. These provisions, generally, are set forth at 7 CFR 1475.6(c), accordingly, the two options are as follows:

Option 1

A. Any loss of production otherwise computed will be reduced and feed on hand increased due to the receipt of other government benefits, including FCIC crop insurance indemnity payments with respect to feed normally grown by the owner.

B. The daily feed allowance will be 10 pounds of FGE per day per animal unit.

C. The cost-share rate will be 50 percent of the cost of purchased eligible feed not to exceed five cents per pound FGE.

D. All eligible livestock of the producer shall be taken into consideration in the application for assistance under this part.

Option 2

A. Any loss of production otherwise computed will be reduced and feed on hand increased due to the receipt of other government benefits, except FCIC crop insurance indemnity payments with respect to feed normally grown by the owner.

B. The daily feed allowance will be 12.5 pounds of FGE per day per animal unit.

C. The cost-share rate will be 42.5 percent of the cost of purchased eligible feed not to exceed five cents per pound FGE. If the producer elects to purchase CCC-owned grain the remaining allowance will be reduced by the result of multiplying the pounds of feed grain purchased times 1.176.

D. With respect to the producers with grazing livestock and any one or more of the following types of animals: Swine, poultry or fish, eligible livestock that do not normally graze or use forage will be considered separately in the application for assistance under this part.

Those producers electing this option will qualify for an increase in daily allowance per eligible animal unit from 10 pounds FGE to 12.5 pounds FGE at a reduced cost-share rate. This increase in daily allowance will increase the number of producers who are eligible for assistance and may increase the amount of assistance for those producers who are already eligible to receive assistance under this part. If the producer elects to use this option, reducing the cost share percentage to 42.5 percent, not to exceed 5 cents per pound, should not substantially affect the payments received by producers for purchased feed if the producer's assistance is based on feed needs.

This final rule provides at 7 CFR 1475.6(c) that for all applications filed for 1988 livestock crop year losses, the livestock producer's application must be computed using the criteria as originally set forth in this part.

This final rule provides at 7 CFR 1475.6(c) that for new and existing applications filed for the livestock feed programs for 1989 and subsequent years' livestock feed crop losses, the livestock producer shall have the option to select one, and only one, of the two options made available under this part.

This final rule also incorporates the provisions in the 1949 Act, as amended by the Disaster Assistance Act of 1989, which provide, at the option of the livestock producer, that a producer who is eligible to receive donated CCC-owned grain or to purchase CCC-owned grain may receive this assistance through the use of feed grain stored on the farm of the livestock producer that has been pledged as collateral for a price support loan made under the provisions of the 1949 Act. Accordingly, 7 CFR 1475.103 and 1475.202 are amended to reflect this change.

Based upon a review of the comments received and other changes, it has been determined that the interim rule should be adopted as a final rule with these changes. In addition, other changes are also made for clarity.

The information collection requirements of this subpart has been approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for the purposes of the Paperwork Reduction Act and OMB Number 0560–0029 has been assigned to 7 CFR part 1475.

Final Rule

Accordingly, the interim rule published on October 14, 1988, is adopted as a final rule with the following changes:

Requirements for Imported Poultry Products

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule implements the provisions of the Food Security Act of 1985, Public Law 99-198, that amended the Poultry Products Inspection Act (PPIA). The rule amends the poultry products inspection regulations to specifically require foreign countries to implement a residue sampling and testing program at the point of slaughter for poultry and poultry products offered for importation into the United States. The rule also amends the regulations to make clear that all inspection, sanitation, quality, species verification, and residue standards that are applied to imported poultry products must meet the same standards as those applied to poultry and poultry products produced in the United States.

EFFECTIVE DATE: November 29, 1989.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Executive Order 12291

The Administrator has determined in accordance with Executive Order 12291 that this rule is not a "major rule." It will not result in an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more. There will be no major increase in costs or prices for consumers, individual industries, Federal, State, or local government agencies, or geographic regions, and it will not have a significant effect on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets. The rule affects countries eligible to export poultry or poultry products to the United States. Currently, only Canada, France, Hong Kong, Great Britain, and Israel are eligible to export poultry or poultry products to the United States. Each of the five eligible countries has implemented the requirements for residue control and species identity programs for poultry products. On-going review activities by Agency technical experts have confirmed that these programs are in place and operating. Since the requirements are already in place and operating, no economic impacts are contemplated for exporting countries, domestic producers, or importers.

Effect on Small Entities

The Administrator has determined that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601), because the requirements have already been implemented by the affected foreign entities.

Background

Section 17 of the Poultry Products Inspection Act (PPIA) (21 U.S.C. 466) prohibits the importation into the United States of slaughtered poultry, or parts thereof, unless they are healthful, wholesome, fit for human food, not adulterated, and contain no dye, chemical, preservative, or ingredient which renders them unhealthful, unwholesome, adulterated, or unfit for human food, and unless they also comply with rules and regulations made by the Secretary to assure that imported poultry and poultry products comply with the standards provided for in the Act. The regulations addressing imported poultry or poultry products are contained in 9 CFR part 381, subpart T (9 CFR part 381 et seq). In these regulations the Administrator has established procedures by which foreign countries desiring to export poultry or poultry products to the United States may become eligible to do so.

Section 381.196 of the poultry products inspection regulations (9 CFR 381.196) provides that a poultry inspection system maintained by a foreign country, with respect to establishments preparing products in that country for export to the United States, must ensure compliance of such establishments and their poultry products with requirements at least equal to all of the provisions of the PPIA and the regulations that are applied to official establishments in the United States and their poultry products. In addition, these regulations provide for certain other system requirements as a means for FSIS to assure that eligible foreign countries are complying with on-going conditions of eligibility. FSIS has also implemented internal Agency programs to assure that products being offered for importation into this country meet the same standards as products produced and marketed domestically. These programs are described under the section entitled "Continuing Oversight of Eligible Countries."

Export Eligibility Requirements

The Foreign Programs Division, International Programs, of FSIS has primary responsibility for determining that countries producing poultry or poultry products for export to the United States have inspection programs that are designed to assure that all such exports are safe, wholesome, unadulterated and not misbranded and comply with all other provisions of the PPIA and regulations thereunder (9 CFR part 381 et seq.).

To determine eligibility, FSIS conducts a complete evaluation of the country's inspection system. The evaluation consists of two major parts: A review of foreign system documents, and an on-site review of the country's inspection system operations. As part of the document review process, a country's laws are evaluated to assure, among other things, that they provide for inspection and certification of the wholesomeness of products intended for export to the United States; that there are adequate controls over ineligible product to prevent its export; and that the country has adequate controls to prevent a person convicted of wrongdoing from being connected with a firm exporting product to the United States. Documents describing the country's poultry inspection program are also reviewed to ensure that it has the legal authority to impose requirements at least equal to those of the United States with respect to the following: (1) Ante-mortem inspection of poultry for slaughter; (2) post-mortem inspection of poultry carcasses and parts thereof at the time of slaughter; (3) official controls by the national government over establishment construction, facilities, and equipment; (4) direct and continuous supervision of slaughter activities and product preparation by the assignment of inspectors to establishments to assure that adulterated or misbranded poultry products are not processed for export to the United States; (5) maintenance of a single standard of inspection and sanitation throughout all certified establishments and complete separation of certified and non-certified establishments; (6) official controls over condemned product; and (7) other matters for which requirements are contained in the Act or regulations thereunder.

If the document review is satisfactory, an on-site review is conducted using a multi-disciplinary team composed, typically, of a review team leader, veterinarian, chemist, engineer and food technologist, to evaluate all aspects of the country's program. The review is designed to fully explore areas determined to require more detailed evaluation and also to allow FSIS to observe the inspection system in its daily operation.

Continuing Oversight of Eligible Countries

Once the poultry inspection system of a foreign country has been certified by the Agency as eligible to export products to the United States, the individual establishments operating within that country desiring to export products to the United States must apply to their national inspection authorities for certification. The chief inspection official of the foreign country must in turn certify to FSIS that each establishment authorized to export products to the United States meets all the applicable standards. This certification is valid for a period of 1 year or less if standards are not maintained. At the beginning of each year, a responsible official of the foreign country must recertify each establishment (9 CFR 381.196(a)(3)).

The daily operation of a certified foreign establishment is similar to the operation of a U.S. domestic establishment. There is routine daily inspection conducted by inspectors authorized by the foreign inspection program. These inspectors conduct inspection of the operations at the foreign establishment including slaughter, sanitation, processing, labeling, and the disposition of inedible and condemned products.

FSIS personnel conduct periodic on-site reviews of foreign inspection systems. The reviews focus on the full spectrum of risks to the production and processing of acceptable poultry products and how the foreign inspection system controls these risks. The on-site system review provides FSIS with continued assurance that the foreign country is maintaining an inspection system that is at least equal to the inspection system of the United States.

The system review includes visits to certified processing and slaughter establishments, and the foreign inspection system's analytical laboratories. Reviewers observe the operations at each site and document findings regarding the degree of risk of product wholesomeness associated with the activities and practices observed. All poultry and poultry products being exported to the United States are certified by a responsible official of the exporting country's inspection program as safe, wholesome, unadulterated, and properly labeled. The certification is an additional assurance that the products have been prepared under a system that is at least equal to the U.S. domestic system.

FSIS import inspectors reinspect shipments of poultry and poultry products on a sample basis on arrival in the United States to assure that the poultry or poultry products meet the same standards applied to domestic poultry and poultry products. Reinspection of product is directed by FSIS's computerized Automated Import Information System (AIIS) which stores daily reinspection results from all FSIS port of entry (POE) inspection locations, residue and species laboratory sampling histories for each exporting country, and product compliance histories for each exporting plant. The AIIS uses this information to determine the amount of poultry or poultry products to be examined and the specific reinspection procedures to be applied to a particular shipment. POE reinspection can include testing or examination for any combination of the following: species verification, residue levels, mishandling of product, condition of product, appropriate labeling, and compliance with USDA standards of identity or composition.

The POE reinspection is an additional means to assure that the inspection system of a foreign country exporting poultry or poultry products to the United States is functioning properly. Any shipment of poultry or poultry products found unacceptable is refused entry and must be reexported within a prescribed time period or destroyed for human food purposes.

The Food Security Act of 1985

On December 23, 1985, Public Law 99–198, The Food Security Act of 1985, was enacted (hereinafter referred to as the 1985 Farm Bill). Section 1701 of Public Law 99–198 amended section 17 of the Poultry Products Inspection Act (PPIA) (21 U.S.C. 466) to require residue testing and species verification of imported poultry or parts or products. This legislation is comparable to an amendment to the Federal Meat Inspection Act (FMIA) provided by the Agriculture and Food Act of 1981 (Pub. L. 97–98) that mandated residue and species verification for imported meat products.

Section 1701 of the 1985 Farm Bill adds a new subparagraph (d) to section 17 of the PPIA as follows:

(d) (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, all poultry, or parts or products thereof, capable of use as human food offered for importation into the United States shall:

(A) be subject to the same inspection, sanitary, quality, species verification, and residue standards applied to products produced in the United States; and

(B) have been processed in facilities and under conditions that are the same as those under which similar products are processed in the United States.

(2) Any such imported poultry article that does not meet such standards shall not be permitted entry into the United States.

(3) The Secretary shall enforce this subsection through:

(A) random inspection for such species verification and for residues; and

(B) random sampling and testing of internal organs and fat of carcasses for residues at the point of slaughter by the exporting country, in accordance with methods approved by the Secretary.

The primary purpose of the legislation was to add a provision to the PPIA that would require foreign countries currently exporting or desiring to export poultry or poultry products to the United States to develop and implement a program for the sampling and testing of residues. This new requirement would apply the requirements for residue testing that were specified in the Food and Agriculture Act of 1981 for imported meat products to imported poultry products.

Comments on the Proposed Rule

Therefore, on May 1, 1987, FSIS published a proposed rule (52 FR 15960) to implement the provisions of the 1985 Farm Bill with regard to requirements for poultry products intended for export to the United States. FSIS received 31 comments in response to the proposed rule: 7 in favor and 24 not in favor. Those commenters in support of the proposed rule included 2 industry members, 3 trade associations, 1 government agency and 1 foreign government agency. Those commmenters not in support of the proposed rule included 14 industry members, 8 Members of Congress, on behalf of one or more of the 14 industry members, and 2 trade associations. The following are the issues raised by the commenters and FSIS's response to each.

Comment: All of the opposing commenters objected to FSIS's interpretation of the language in the Farm Bill which states that a foreign inspection system be "the same as" the United States inspection system before product can be imported. These commenters felt that the phrase should be distinguished from "at least equal to" because the latter phrase would allow for subjective evaluation of foreign country requirements, would permit standards less than those of the United States, would create an unfair competitive advantage for foreign poultry products and would result in inferior products entering the United States.

Response: As a result of the legislation, the PPIA does provide that imported poultry and poultry products must comply with certain standards which are "the same as" those applicable to products produced in the United States. However, this does not mean that all the regulations of a foreign country must be precisely, word for word, "the same as" those in the United States. In our view, the Act does not prohibit a foreign country from having requirements more stringent than those applicable to products produced in the United States. If a requirement is narrow and specific (e.g., a product standard, maximum water intake level), it can be relatively easy to determine whether the foreign country's requirement is "the same as" ours. However, if our requirement is general and is applied on a case-by-case basis (e.g., facility requirements to preclude adulteration), the requirement can be met by a similarly general requirement. A general requirement permits variations within an established framework. FSIS applies "the same as" requirement by assessing whether the alternative procedures, even if they employ different inspectional techniques, are at least equal to the requirements applicable to domestically produced product. That is, the means of achieving products the same as ours in a foreign country will, in some respects, vary from the means employed in the United States. Interpretation of the law in this way provides the only reasonable basis for comparing inspection systems, since literal application of the term "the same as" would prohibit all imports of poultry products from foreign countries and would be nothing more than a non-tariff trade barrier. The USDA presently recognizes the poultry inspection systems in five countries (Canada, France, Israel, Great Britain and Hong Kong). Again, literal application of the term "the same as" would require the USDA to withdraw its recognition of those countries' eligibility to ship poultry and poultry products to the United States. USDA does not believe it was the intent of Congress that such action be taken.

These foreign inspection systems have evolved in widely varying cultural and political environments under various animal health, public health and food production circumstances. This has resulted in a variety of specific procedures and processes used in maintaining national inspection controls. The quality of the finished product is what is important and decisive. Nonetheless, there are certain features that any system must have to be considered "the same as" ours. These basic requirements are currently in FSIS regulations (9 CFR 381.196).

Comment: One commenter stated that the language in the proposed § 381.196(a)(2)(iv)(c) was not as comprehensive as the wording contained in the preamble. As such, the commenter felt that foreign countries could choose not to "identify" substances for testing in their annual residue testing plan.

Response: Each country is required to provide comprehensive details of its poultry production practices, including the drugs and compounds used. FSIS technical experts review this information and each country's annual residue testing plan. If FSIS identifies a compound that should be included in the testing plan, but is not, FSIS will request that the country include the compound in its residue testing plan.

Final Rule

For the reasons discussed in the preamble, FSIS is amending § 381.196 of the poultry products inspection regulations (9 CFR part 381) to clarify that the inspection, sanitation, quality, species verification, and residue standards applied to foreign poultry or parts or products offered for importation into the United States must meet the same standards applied to domestic poultry products. Section 381.196 is further amended to require each foreign country desiring to establish or maintain eligibility for the importation of poultry or poultry products into the United States to implement a residue program. Such program must provide for the point-of-slaughter random sampling of carcasses, including the internal organs and fat, of poultry intended to be offered for importation into the United States and the testing of such carcasses, internal organs, and fat, for the presence of residues of substances known to be in use in the production of poultry and poultry products in the particular exporting country or otherwise known to be present in the environment of such country. Identification of such substances is the responsibility primarily of the authorities of the exporting country. However, FSIS, as part of its obligation to assure that imported poultry and poultry products meet the same standards applied to such domestic products, may request testing for residues of additional specific substances. Residue testing would be conducted in accordance with methods approved by the Administrator.

FSIS currently has regulations which prohibit the importation of product that is adulterated, misbranded, or does not comply with the requirements applicable to domestically produced products (9 CFR 381.195 and 381.196). Further, as stated earlier, FSIS has established programs to assure that poultry or poultry products being offered for importation meet the same standards as such products produced and marketed domestically. These programs now include the random sampling of imported poultry and poultry products at the point of entry to check for species identity and residue tolerance levels. Authority to take samples for laboratory examinations from poultry or poultry products offered for importation is provided in 9 CFR 381.199(b).

FSIS did not propose additional regulations under the 1985 Farm Bill concerning the provisions of the Act that would: prohibit imported poultry or poultry products not meeting U.S. standards from entering the United States; and impose mandatory random inspection for species verification on products offered for importation, because any such additional regulations would be a duplication of existing provisions.

List of Subjects in 9 CFR Part 381

Food labeling, Imports, Poultry and poultry products.

PART 381—POULTRY PRODUCTS INSPECTION REGULATIONS

BILLING CODE 3410-DM-M

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

12 CFR Parts 207, 220, 221 and 224

Regulations G, T, U and X; Securities Credit Transactions; List of Marginable Over-the-Counter Stocks

AGENCY: Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

ACTION: Final rule; determination of applicability of regulations.

SUMMARY: The List of Marginable OTC Stocks is comprised of stocks traded over-the-counter (OTC) that have been determined by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System to be subject to the margin requirements under certain Federal Reserve regulations. The List is published four times a year by the Board as a guide for lenders subject to the regulations and the general public. This document sets forth additions to or deletions from the previously published List which was effective August 14, 1989, and will serve to give notice to the public about the changed status of certain stocks.

EFFECTIVE DATE: November 13, 1989.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peggy Wolffrum, Securities Regulation Analyst, Division of Banking Supervision and Regulation, (202)452-2781. For the hearing impaired only, Earnestine Hill or Dorothea Thompson, Telecommunications Device for the Deaf (TDD) (202)452-3544, Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, Washington, DC 20551.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Set forth below are stocks representing additions to or deletions from the Board's List of Marginable OTC Stocks. This supersedes the last List which was effective August 14, 1989. Additions and deletions for that List were published on August 1, 1989 (54 FR 31646). A copy of the complete List incorporating these additions and deletions is available from the Federal Reserve Banks.

The List of Marginable OTC Stocks includes those stocks that meet the criteria in Regulations G, T and U (12 CFR parts 207, 220 and 221, respectively). This determination also affects the applicability of Regulation X (12 CFR part 224). These stocks have the degree of national investor interest, the depth and breadth of market, and the availability of information respecting the stock and its issuer to warrant regulation in the same fashion as exchange-traded securities. The List also includes any stock designated under a Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) rule as qualified for trading in the national market system (NMS security). Additional OTC stocks may be designated as NMS securities in the interim between the Board's quarterly publications. They will become automatically marginable at broker-dealers upon the effective date of their NMS designation. The names of these stocks are available at the Board and the SEC and will be incorporated into the Board's next quarterly List.

The requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 with respect to notice and public participation were not followed in connection with the issuance of this amendment due to the objective character of the criteria for inclusion and continued inclusion on the List specified in 12 CFR 207.6(a) and (b), 220.17(a) and (b), and 221.7(a) and (b). No additional useful information would be gained by public participation. The full requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 with respect to deferred effective date have not been followed in connection with the issuance of this amendment because the Board finds that it is in the public interest to facilitate investment and credit decisions based in whole or in part upon the composition of this List as soon as possible. The Board has responded to a request by the public and allowed a 2-week delay before the List is effective.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

Federal Aviation Administration

14 CFR Part 39

[Docket No. 79–ANE–18; Amdt. 39–6359]

Airworthiness Directives; Pratt & Whitney (PW) JT8D–1, –1A, –1B, –7, –7A, –7B, –9, –9A, –11, –15, and –17 Turbofan Engines

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment amends Airworthiness Directive (AD) 87–14–01, which requires repetitive ultrasonic inspections of second stage fan blades. The amendment requires an additional inspection of the second stage fan blade root attachment straps to detect cracks which have been found by operators in areas of the strap not covered by ultrasonic inspections. The AD is needed to detect cracks in the second stage fan blade root attachment straps which could result in fracture of the blade and subsequent cowl penetration, fire, and aircraft damage.

DATE: Effective—December 11, 1989.

The incorporation by reference of certain publications listed in the regulations is approved by the Director of the Federal Register as of December 11, 1989.

Compliance: As indicated in the body of the AD.

ADDRESSES: The applicable alert service bulletin (ASB) may be obtained from Pratt & Whitney, Publication Department, P.O. Box 611, Middletown, Connecticut 06457, or may be examined in the Regional Rules Docket, Room 311, Office of the Assistant Chief Counsel, Federal Aviation Administration, 12 New England Executive Park, Burlington, Massachusetts 01803.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Thomas Boudreau, Engine Certification Branch, ANE–141, Engine Certification Office, Engine and Propeller Directorate, Aircraft Certification Service, Federal Aviation Administration, 12 New England Executive Park, Burlington, Massachusetts 01803; telephone (617) 273–7121.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A proposal to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (FAR) to include an AD which amends AD 87–14–01 to require an additional inspection of the second stage fan blade root attachment straps on certain PW JT8D turbofan engines was published in the Federal Register on April 12, 1989, (54 FR 14660).

The proposal was prompted after the FAA received reports of fan blade root attachment strap cracks at the six o'clock (inboard) position on the inside diameter (ID) of the pin hole. These cracks were detected by using a fluorescent penetrant inspection (FPI) and certain eddy current inspection techniques which are not required by AD 87–14–01. The immersion ultrasonic inspection method as required by the AD was not designed to detect cracks at the six o'clock ID pin hole location. Undetected root attachment strap cracks can lead to fan blade fracture and subsequent cowl penetration, fire, and aircraft damage.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment. Five comments were received concerning the proposed rule.

One commenter has requested the AD state that PW Service Process Operation Procedure (SPOP) 84 is an acceptable FPI alternative to SPOP 82. The FPI procedure stated in PW ASB 5729, Revision 2, dated July 8, 1988, is SPOP 82 and, consequently, is the only FPI procedure allowed by the notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM).

The FAA disagrees and will not include a provision in the AD to allow SPOP 84 to be used as an alternative to SPOP 82 in the FPI of the ID pin hole surfaces. It has been determined that SPOP 82 is the appropriate FPI procedure. The more sensitive procedure of SPOP 84 would require special surface treatments, such as removal of the antigalling coating. The FAA will review, as stated in paragraph (f) of this AD, any individual request to use SPOP 84. The substantiating data provided must assure that actual crack indications will not be overlooked as false indications.

Two commenters stated an eddy current inspection of the ID pin hole surfaces should be included in the AD as an alternative inspection to the FPI. Both commenters referenced eddy current inspection techniques which have been approved by the FAA as an alternate method of compliance with AD 87–14–01.

The FAA disagrees since PW ASB 5729, Revision 2, dated July 8, 1988, does not contain accomplishment instructions to perform an acceptable eddy current inspection. The FAA cannot reference a detailed inspection procedure in an AD without providing the necessary data to perform the inspection procedure. Therefore, until the necessary data to perform an eddy current inspection becomes available to the FAA for publication in an AD, operators who desire to use an eddy current inspection must obtain specific FAA approval as stated in paragraph (f) of this AD.

One comment was received stating six o'clock inner surface cracking is not expected to result in fracture. The commenter further stated that this is a low stressed area and the crack should not propagate through the root strap.

The FAA disagrees. Data has not been submitted which substantiates that six o'clock inner surface cracking will not result in root fracture. Two reports have been submitted showing crack propagation through the root strap at the 6 o'clock position.

Accordingly, the proposal is adopted without change.

The regulations adopted herein will not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this final rule does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

The FAA has determined that this regulation involves approximately 4,100 engines (domestic fleet) with a maximum annual cost increase of three hundred thousand dollars beyond the current AD 87–14–01 inspection cost. It has also been determined that few, if any, small entities within the meaning of the Regulatory Flexibility Act will be affected since the proposed rule affects only operators using aircraft in which JT8D engines are installed, none of which are believed to be small entities. Therefore, I certify that this action (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

A copy of the final evaluation prepared for this action is contained in the regulatory docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Regional Rules Docket.

Adoption of the Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) amends part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (FAR) as follows:

PART 39—[AMENDED]

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421 and 1423; 49 U.S.C. 106(g) (Revised Pub. L. 97–449, January 12, 1983); and 14 CFR 11.89.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by amending Amendment 39–5641 (52 FR 24138; June 29, 1987), Airworthiness Directive (AD) 87–14–01.

The AD is restated in its entirety for clarity as follows:

Pratt & Whitney: Applies to Pratt & Whitney (PW) JT8D–1, –1A, –1B, –7, –7A, –7B, –9, –9A, –11, –15, and –17 turbofan engines.

Compliance is required as indicated, unless already accomplished.

To prevent uncontained second stage fan blade failure, ultrasonically inspect and fluorescent penetrant inspect (FPI) for cracks, and remove as required, second stage fan blades, Part Numbers (P/N) 433802, 645902, 759902, 695932, 676102, and 746402, in accordance with PW Alert Service Bulletin (ASB) 5729, Revision 2, dated July 8, 1988, as follows:

(a) Inspect at the first engine shop visit after July 27, 1987.

(b) Reinspect at each second stage fan rotor disassembly from the low pressure compressor (LPC) after accumulation of 3,000 cycles in service (CIS) since last inspection (SLI), but not to exceed 10,000 CIS SLI.

(c) Remove from service, prior to further flight, second stage fan blades that exhibit crack indications as defined in the requirements of PW ASB 5729, Revision 2, dated July 8, 1988, and replace with serviceable blades.

(d) Report the following information in writing, if a blade is found to be cracked, within 30 days of the inspection to the Manager, Engine Certification Office, Engine and Propeller Directorate, Aircraft Certification Service, Federal Aviation Administration, 12 New England Executive Park, Burlington, Massachusetts 01803; Telex Number 949301 FAANE BURL:

Notes: (1) Shop visit is defined as the input of an engine to a repair shop with LPC rotor overhaul capability where the subsequent engine maintenance entails the following:

(a) Separation of a major engine flange (lettered or numbered) other than flanges mating with major sections of the nacelle or reverser. Separation of flanges purely for purposes of shipment, without subsequent internal maintenance, is not a "shop visit."

(b) Removal of a disk, hub, or spool.

(2) The ultrasonic inspections accomplished in accordance with AD 87–14–01 and PW ASB 5729, dated January 29, 1987, at the last inspection prior to the effective date of this AD, are considered to be in compliance with the dual inspection requirements of this AD. However, after the effective date of this AD, an FPI must be performed in addition to the ultrasonic inspection, unless otherwise approved by the FAA as stated below.

(e) Aircraft may be ferried in accordance with the provisions of FAR 21.197 and 21.199 to a base where the AD can be accomplished.

(f) Upon submission of substantiating data by an owner or operator through an FAA Airworthiness Inspector, an alternate method of compliance with the requirements of this AD or adjustments to the compliance times specified in this AD may be approved by the Manager, Engine Certification Office, ANE–140, Engine and Propeller Directorate, Aircraft Certification Service, Federal Aviation Administration, 12 New England Executive Park, Burlington, Massachusetts 01803.

The inspection procedures shall be done in accordance with PW ASB 5729, Revision 2, dated July 8, 1988. Revision of Transition Area; Santa Rosa, CA

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This action revises and extends the Santa Rosa, California Transition Area. This action provides controlled airspace for the conduct of instrument approach and departure procedures at Lampson Airport.

EFFECTIVE DATE: 0901 u.t.c, December 14, 1989.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

History

On July 24, 1989, the FAA proposed to amend part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations to revise the Santa Rosa, California Transition Area to provide controlled airspace for the conduct of instrument approach procedures (54 FR 30760).

Interested parties were invited to participate in this rulemaking proceeding by submitting written comments on the proposal to the FAA. No comments objecting to the proposal were received.

The Rule

This amendment to part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations revises the Santa Rosa, California Transition Area to provide controlled airspace for the conduct of instrument approach procedures to Lampson Airport.

The FAA has determined that this regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. It, therefore—(1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. Since this is a routine matter that will only affect air traffic procedures and air navigation, it is certified that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Adoption of the Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me, part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) is amended, as follows:

Removal of Transition Area; Farmerville, LA

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment will remove the transition area located at Farmerville, LA. The cancellation of the VOR/DME-A standard instrument approach procedure (SIAP) to the Farmerville Airport, which utilized the Monroe Very High Frequency Omnidirectional Radio Range/Tactical Air Navigation (VORTAC), has made this amendment necessary. The intended effect of this amendment is to return that controlled airspace no longer required due to the cancellation of the VOR/DME-A SIAP. Coincident with this action is the changing of the status of the Farmerville Airport from instrument flight rules (IFR) to visual flight rules (VFR).

EFFECTIVE DATE: 0901 u.t.c., January 11, 1990.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

History

On June 19, 1989, the FAA proposed to amend part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) by removing the transition area located at Farmerville, LA (54 FR 29058).

Interested persons were invited to participate in this rulemaking proceeding by submitting written comments on the proposal to the FAA. No comments objecting to the proposal were received. Except for editorial changes, this amendment is the same as that proposed in the notice. Section 71.181 of part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations was republished in Handbook 7400.6E, dated January 3, 1989.

The Rule

This amendment to part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations will remove the transition area located at Farmerville, LA. The cancellation of the VOR/DME-A SIAP to the Farmerville Airport, which utilized the Monroe VORTAC, has necessitated this amendment. The VOR/DME-A SIAP was the only instrument approach serving the Farmerville Airport. The intended effect of this amendment is to return that controlled airspace no longer required due to the cancellation of the VOR/DME-A SIAP. Coincident with this action is the changing of the status of the Farmerville Airport from instrument flight rules (IFR) to visual flight rules (VFR).

The FAA has determined that this regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. Proposed Establishment of Transition Area; Farmington, PA

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This notice establishes a new transition area for the Nemacolin Airport, Farmington, PA. This area is necessary to accommodate a new Runway 23 Standard Instrument Approach Procedure (SIAP) to the airport. This action establishes a 700 foot transition area which consists of controlled airspace which will be reflected on appropriate aeronautical charts.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

History

On July 18, 1989, the FAA proposed to amend part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) to establish a 700 foot transition area for the Nemacolin Airport, Farmington, PA (54 FR 31701). The proposed action would separate aircraft executing the SIAP under instrument meteorological conditions on an instrument flight plan from aircraft operating under visual flight rules (VFR). The SIAP was the subject of a separate study with no objections to the proposal received. In addition, the area would be depicted on appropriate aeronautical charts thereby enabling pilots to circumnavigate the area or otherwise comply with IFR procedures.

Interested parties were invited to participate in this rulemaking proceeding by submitting written comments on the proposal to the FAA. No comments were received. Except for editorial changes, this amendment is the same as that proposed in the notice. Section 71.181 of part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations was republished in FAA Handbook 7400.6E, January 3, 1989.

The Rule

This amendment to part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations establishes a 700 feet transition area at Farmington, PA for the Nemacolin Airport to accommodate a new Runway 23 SIAP for the airport.

The FAA has determined that this regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. Therefore, this regulation: (1) Is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

History

On August 3, 1989, the FAA proposed to amend part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) to amend the 700 foot Transition Area at Winchester, VA (54 FR 35198). The proposed action was due to the decommissioning of the Shawnee, Virginia VHF Omnidirectional Range/Tactical Air Navigation (VORTAC) aid to navigation. The associated Standard Instrument Approach Procedures, which were based on this VORTAC, have been cancelled.

Interested parties were invited to participate in this rulemaking proceeding by submitting written comments on the proposal to the FAA. No comments were received. Section 71.181 of part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations was republished in FAA Handbook 7400.6E, January 3, 1989.

The Rule

This amendment to part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations amends the 700 foot Transition Area to reflect that amount of controlled airspace which is needed to accommodate arriving and departing aircraft during instrument meteorological conditions.

The FAA has determined that this regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. Therefore, this regulation: (1) Is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. History

On July 7, 1989, the FAA proposed to amend part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) to amend the control zone for the Mercer County Airport, Trenton, NJ (54 FR 31698). The proposed action would eliminate the cutout provided for the Morrisville, PA, airport. That airport has been closed and all charted references to it have been deleted.

The Rule

This amendment to part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations amends the Trenton, NJ, Control Zone by removing the cutout provided for the Morrisville, PA, airport. This airport has been closed and is no longer a charted reference.

Revision of Control Zone; Midland, TX

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment will revise the control zone located at Midland, TX. The current legal description contains the old name of the airport, that being the Midland Regional Air Terminal. The correct name is the Midland International Airport. Additionally, the coordinates of the airport have been slightly revised. The need to correct the name of the airport, as well as revise its coordinates, has made this amendment necessary. The current layout of the Midland, TX, Control Zone will not be altered. The intended effect of this amendment is to only change the legal description of the Midland, TX, Control Zone by correcting the name of the primary airport and revising its coordinates.

EFFECTIVE DATE: 0901 u.t.c., January 11, 1990.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

History

On June 19, 1989, the FAA proposed to amend part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) by revising the control zone located at Midland, TX (54 FR 29057).

Interested persons were invited to participate in this rulemaking proceeding by submitting written comments on the proposal to the FAA. No comments objecting to the proposal were received. Except for editorial changes, this amendment is the same as that proposed in the notice. Section 71.171 of part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations was republished in Handbook 7400.6E, dated January 3, 1989.

The Rule

This amendment to part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations will revise the control zone located at Midland, TX. The correct legal description of the Midland, TX, Control Zone states that the primary airport of the control zone is the Midland Regional Air Terminal. The name of the primary airport has been changed to the Midland International Airport, and the legal description is being changed to reflect this. Also, the coordinates of the airport have been slightly revised, and this is also being changed. Both of these required corrections have necessitated this amendment. The present layout of the control zone is not being altered. The intended effect of this amendment is to revise the legal description of the Midland, TX, Control Zone to reflect the correct name of the primary airport and its coordinates, not to change or alter the control zone itself.

The FAA has determined that this regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. It, therefore—(1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. Since this is a routine matter that will only affect air traffic procedures and air navigation, it is certified that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Provisional Listings of FD&C Red No. 3 in Cosmetics and Externally Applied Drugs and of its Lakes in Food, Drugs, and Cosmetics; Postponement of Closing Date

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is postponing the closing date for the provisional listings of FD&C Red No. 3 for use in coloring cosmetics and externally applied drugs and of the lakes of this color additive for use in coloring food, drugs, and cosmetics. The new closing date for the provisional listings of this color additive will be January 29, 1990. This postponement will permit the uninterrupted use of this color additive and its lakes while FDA continues to evaluate the results of the agency's review of the FD&C Red No. 3 data and prepares appropriate Federal Register documents to announce the agency's decision on the regulatory status of this color additive and its lakes.

DATES: Effective October 30, 1989. The new closing date for FD&C Red No. 3 and its lakes will be January 29, 1990.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Gerad L. McCowin, Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition (HFF–330), Food and Drug Administration, 200 C Street SW., Washington, DC 20204, 202–472–5676.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: FDA established the current closing date of October 30, 1989, for the provisional listing of FD&C Red No. 3 for use in cosmetics and externally applied drugs and for the provisional listing of the lakes of the color additive for all uses by a rule published in the Federal Register of August 29, 1989 (54 FR 35860). This extension was necessitated by the complexity of the issues to be addressed by the agency in resolving the regulatory status of the provisionally listed uses of FD&C Red No. 3 and its lakes.

Title II of the Color Additive Amendments of 1960 (the transitional provisions) (Pub. L. 86–618, section 203 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (the Act) (21 U.S.C. 376 note)) authorizes FDA from time to time to postpone the closing date of the provisional listing for a color additive. "Such postponements must be consistent with the public health, and the Commissioner must judge that the scientific investigations are going forward in good faith and will be completed as soon as reasonably practicable." McIlwain v. Hayes, 690 F.2d 1041, 1047 (D.C. Cir. 1982) and Public Citizen v. Young, 831 F.2d 1108, 1122 (D.C. Cir. 1987).

FDA is continuing to evaluate the results of its review of the data submitted by the various proponents of FD&C Red No. 3, and is preparing the Federal Register documents necessary to announce the agency's decision on the regulatory status of the provisionally listed uses of FD&C Red No. 3 and its lakes. Due to the complexity of the issues in this matter, the volume of data and information to be evaluated, and the length of the Federal Register documents, FDA needs additional time to complete its task. Accordingly, FDA is now postponing the closing date for the provisionally listed uses of FD&C Red No. 3 to January 29, 1990.

The agency believes that this postponement of the closing date for the provisionally listed uses of FD&C Red No. 3 and its lakes is consistent with the standard for issuing such postponements. In particular, FDA believes that the continued use of these color additives for an additional period not to exceed 90 days will not pose a hazard to the public health. To the extent that there are risks from the continued use of FD&C Red No. 3 and its lakes, these risks result from chronic exposure to the color additive. Thus, the agency concludes that the continued use of FD&C Red No. 3 in cosmetics and externally applied drugs and of the lakes of this color additive for an additional period of only 90 days will not have any significant effect on the public health. Further, this extension is being granted to allow the agency to evalaute the existing data and to prepare the necessary Federal Register documents. The Court in Public Citizen recognized that the statutory scheme for regulating color additives "allows for the time necessary * * * for careful review of data" and expressly stated that it is permissible to extend a closing date to allow further evaluation of completed tests. 831 F.2d at n.19 and 1123. FDA will complete this process as soon as is reasonably practicable. Accordingly, FDA concludes that a brief postponement is consistent with the standard for extensions articulated in McIlwain and Public Citizen, supra.

Because of the shortness of time until the closing date of October 30, 1989, FDA concludes that notice and public comment on this regulation are impracticable, and that good cause exists for issuing the postponement as a final rule and for an effective date of October 30, 1989. This regulation will permit the uninterrupted use of this color additive until further action is taken. In accordance with 5 U.S.C. 553(b), (d)(1) and (3), this postponement is issued as a final regulation, effective October 30, 1989.

The agency has determined under 21 CFR 25.24(a)(8) that this action is of a type that does not individually or cumulatively have a significant effect on the human environment. Therefore, neither an environmental assessment nor an environmental impact statement is required.

FDA has determined that extending the provisional listing of these color additives requires no change in the current industry practice concerning the manufacture or use of these ingredients.

Therefore, FDA certifies, in accordance with section 605(b) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, that no significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities would derive from this action. Further, the economic effects of this final rule have been analyzed and it has been determined that it is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291.

PANAMA CANAL COMMISSION

RIN 3207-AA24

Requirements of Transiting Vessels and Their Measurement

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Panama Canal Commission is today amending its regulations in title 35, Code of Federal Regulations, parts 103 "General Provisions Governing Vessels" and 133 "Tolls for Use of Canal": (1) To more accurately reflect treaty-mandated changes concerning authority over transiting vessels; (2) to require new pilot shelter platforms; and (3) to clearly identify those officials who are authorized to measure and certify the tonnage of vessels. These latter two changes are being made to provide shelter from weather for pilots aboard transiting vessels and for clarification.

EFFECTIVE DATE: November 29, 1989.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Michael Rhode, Jr., Secretary, Panama Canal Commission, 2000 L Street NW., Suite 550, Washington, DC 20036-4996, Telephone: (202) 643-6441, or John L. Haines, Jr., General Counsel, Panama Canal Commission, telephone in Balboa Heights, Republic of Panama, (011)-507-52-7511.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On July 13, 1989, a notice of proposed rulemaking was published in the Federal Register (54 FR 29584), setting forth the revised rules amending §§ 103.7, 103.19, and 133.32. Interested parties were given the opportunity to submit comments by August 14, 1989. Comments were received by the agency regarding § 103.19 and 133.32. As regards §§ 103.19, the writer expressed the view that the proposed shelters were not warranted as practicable, suggesting a raincoat to be sufficient to protect the pilot and his radio during rain squalls. The Panama Canal Commission responded that pilots are required to remain on the bridge wing during the critical locks entries and departures and that raincoats are not sufficient to provide adequate protection for the pilot or his radios during Panama's frequent torrential rains. Further, bridge wing shelters also serve to insure the pilots' visibility during rain storms and to protect them against the tropical sun.

Comment was also received from the United States Coast Guard requesting that an additional clause be added to § 133.32, which identifies that the United States Coast Guard will assign some of it measurement tasks to delegates identified in 46 CFR 69.15. The requested change is included in the final rule.

Section 103.7 concerns the temporary holding of vessels for the purpose of investigation into a marine accident. Inasmuch as the agency's legal authority to hold vessels was abolished by the Panama Canal Treaty of 1977 and its related agreements, reference to holding a vessel is being removed; however, a vessel may still be denied transit until its tenderness, trim, list, draft, cargo, hull, machinery and equipment have been put into such condition as to make the vessel safe for its transit through the Panama Canal.

Second, § 103.19 is changed by revising paragraphs (a) and (d) and adding two new paragraphs to require vessels whose extreme beam is 24.40 meters (80 feet) or more to provide shelters for pilots on the bridge wings of these medium-size and large vessels. The purpose of the shelters is to provide pilots protection from the elements and enhance safety. The shelters shall be in place and ready for use no later than six months from the effective date of publication of this rule in the Federal Register.

The last change corrects § 133.32 to specify that measurements of Canal tonnage may be taken and associated certificates may be issued by the United States Coast Guard or its delegate, as well as Canal admeasurers and certain properly designated officials abroad.

These rules are not major rules for the purposes of Executive Order 12291 of February 17, 1981. In accordance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 605(b)), it is hereby certified that these proposed rules will not have a significant impact on small business entities.

35 CFR Part 103

Vessels, General provisions.

35 CFR Part 133

Tolls for use of Canal.

For the reasons set forth in the preamble, the Panama Canal Commission amends 35 CFR parts 103 and 133 as follows:

PART 103—GENERAL PROVISIONS GOVERNING VESSELS

1. The authority citation for part 103 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 22 U.S.C. 3811, E.O. 12215, 45 FR 36043, and 44 U.S.C. 3501.

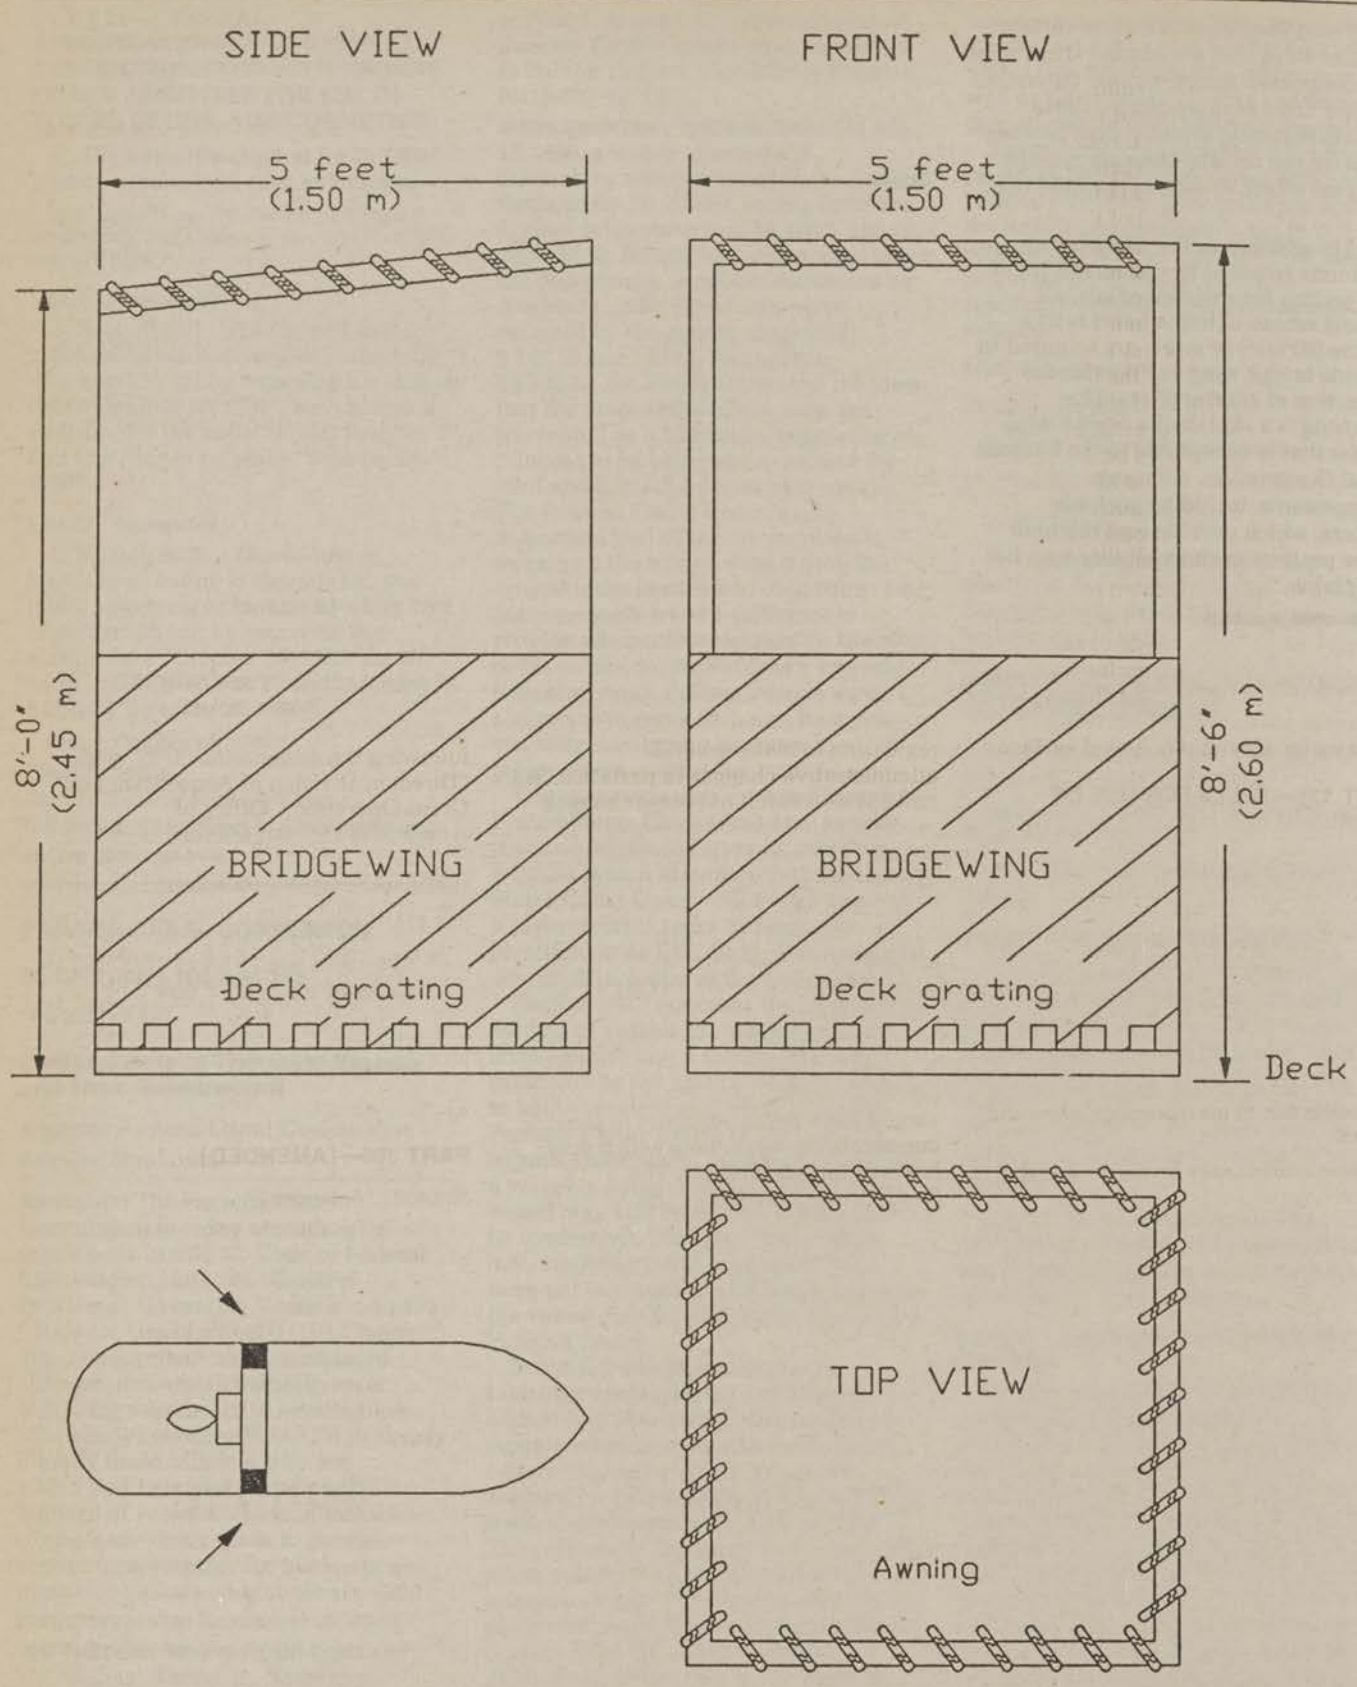
2. Section 103.7 is revised to read as follows:

§ 103.7 Authority to deny transit.

A vessel's transit may be denied until, in the opinion of the Canal authorities, its tenderness, trim, list, draft, cargo, hull, machinery, and equipment have been put into such condition as will make the vessel safe for her passage through the Canal. No claim shall be allowed or considered because of any such delay.

3. Section 103.19 is amended by revising the heading and paragraphs (a) and (d) and by adding new paragraphs (e) and (f) to read as follows:

§ 103.19 Requirement for pilot shelter platforms.



(a) Any vessel that, in accordance with Panama Canal operation standards, is required to have three or more pilots aboard, shall provide suitable pilot shelter platforms for the assisting pilots. The purpose for the pilot platforms is to provide shelters from sun and rain for pilots working near the bow or the stern of a vessel and to provide adequate visibility around the locks in order to reduce the danger of damage. In general, this bow/stern pilot shelter platforms are required on ships of 190.5 meters (625 feet) or more in length and a beam of 30.5 meters (100 feet) or greater.

They may also be required on certain smaller ships that the Marine Director or his designated representative determine require three or more pilots. Those vessels requiring shelters shall provide them for use no later than six months from the effective date of the final rule.

* * * * *

(d) In addition to the pilot shelter platforms required by paragraph (a) of this section for assisting pilots, all vessels whose extreme beam is 24.4 meters (80 feet) or more, are required to provide bridge wing shelters for the protection of control pilots. The following is a sketch of a bridge wing shelter that is acceptable to the Panama Canal Commission. Alternate arrangements, including portable shelters, which provide equivalent or better protection and visibility may be acceptable.

BILLING CODE 3640-04-M

BILLING CODE 3640-04-C

(e) The purpose of the bridge wing shelter is to provide protection for pilots from sun and rain, while allowing maximum visibility around the locks. On vessels that have a raised conning station at the edge of the bridge wing more than 30 centimeters (1 foot) above the deck level, the height of the awning should be raised accordingly. Awnings are to extend at least 1.52 meters (5 feet) inboard from the outboard edge of the bridge wing. Similarly, their fore-and-aft dimension is to be at least 1.52 meters (5 feet), extending aft from the forward part of the bridge wing. If ship control equipment (engine, rudder or thruster controls, etc.) are located on the bridge wings, these shelters must also extend at least one foot beyond such equipment but must not extend beyond the outboard edge of the bridge wing.

(f) The awnings indicated in the sketches in paragraphs (b) and (d) of this section are to be made of suitable material to provide shelter from sun and rain. The decks of the pilot shelter platforms are to be made of wood or other material with a non-skid surface.

PART 133—TOLLS FOR USE OF CANAL

4. The authority citation for part 133 continues to read as follows:

Authority: Issued under authority of the President by 22 U.S.C. 3791; E.O. 12215, 45 FR 36043.

5. Section 133.32 is revised to read as follows:

§ 133.32 Measurement of vessels; making and correction of measurement; plans and copies.

Measurement may be made and the required certificate issued by the admeasurers of the Canal, by the United States Coast Guard or by its delegates as identified in 46 CFR 69.15, and by certain other officials worldwide as designated by the Director of Admeasurement of the Panama Canal Commission. Each transiting vessel should be provided with a full set of plans and a copy of the measurements which were made at the time of issue of its national tonnage certificate, as well as the tonnage certificate itself. The Canal authorities shall have the right to check and correct any measurement made or certificate issued elsewhere.

As a result, the Department is not requesting comments on these acquisition regulations and is publishing them as a final rule.

The Department of Health and Human Services certifies this document will not have a significant economic effect on a substantial number of small entities under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et. seq.); therefore, no regulatory flexibility statement has been prepared. This document does not contain information collection requirements needing approval by the Office of Management and Budget under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (44 U.S.C. 3501 et. seq.).

The provisions of this regulation are issued under 5 U.S.C. 301; 40 U.S.C. 486(c).

In most instances, the contracting officer will use the seven (7) day constructive acceptance period (specified in paragraph (a)(6)(i) of the Prompt Payment clause at FAR 52.232-25, paragraph (a)(5)(i) of the Prompt Payment clause at FAR 52.232-26, and paragraph (a)(4)(i) of the Prompt Payment clause at FAR 52.232-27) for solicitations and resultant contracts as the basis for the fiscal office's computation of interest penalties. However, where the contracting officer extends the constructive acceptance period, under the conditions described in FAR 32.905, the extension shall be coordinated with the fiscal office. A constructive acceptance period of less than seven (7) days is not authorized.

(j) When the contracting officer mistakenly receives an invoice first, or is specified in the contract as the first recipient of the invoice, and the contract requires payment with thirty (30) days from receipt of a "proper invoice" (as defined by FAR 32.902), the contracting officer shall review the invoice to determine whether or not it is proper; and, if so, shall approve the invoice and submit it to the fiscal office within sixteen (16) days from the date of receipt. When the contracting officer is the first recipient of the invoice and the contract establishes a payment due date of more than thirty (30) days after receipt, the contracting officer shall review, approve, and submit the "proper invoice" to the fiscal office at least fourteen (14) days prior to the payment due date (unless the contracting officer and fiscal office agree, prior to contract award, to a longer period).

PART 342—[AMENDED]

9. Section 342.7002 is amended by adding the following as paragraph (e):

(e) Contract cost and manpower reporting shall be required on all cost-reimbursement type contracts financed under letter of credit or Departmental Federal Assistance financing System (DFAFS) methods of payment regardless of dollar value, and on all other cost-reimbursement type contracts of $100,000 or more. Financial reporting may be required on cost-reimbursement contracts under $100,000, when financed by other than the letter of credit of DFAFS methods, but only if it is necessary for effective contract administration. Financial and manpower information may be submitted either as a separate contract financial report or as an addendum to a public voucher, as prescribed by the contracting officer. Frequency, format (including instructions), extent, structure (including cost elements and labor categories), and distribution of reporting fall within the discretion of the contracting officer. The contracting officer shall set forth financial reporting requirements in all applicable RFPs and contracts, shall limit the requirements to those necessary for effectual cost and manpower management of the contract, and shall avoid the use of reporting requirements that are unduly burdensome on the contractor.

Endangered and Threatened Wildlife and Plants; Determination of Experimental Population Status for an Introduced Population of Guam Rails on Rota in the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands AGENCY: Fish and Wildlife Service, Interior.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service) determines that the Rota population of the Guam rail (Rallus owstoni), an endangered species endemic to Guam, be designated a nonessential experimental population according to section 10(j) of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended (Act). The introduction is being made on the island of Rota, which is outside the probable historical range of the species, because its primary habitat on Guam has been "indefinitely altered" through establishment of the introduced, predatory brown tree snake (Boiga irregularis). Extirpation of virtually the entire avifauna of Guam has been attributed to predation by the brown tree snake. No effective control methods have been developed as yet; none are anticipated in the foreseeable future. "Indefinitely altered" is thus tantamount to the "unsuitable and irreversible alteration or destruction" of the primary habitat of the Guam rail. The releases on Rota will be made in suitable habitat types identical to that formerly occupied by the rail on Guam. Since captive-held rails are known to become tame over time and lose their ability to survive in the wild, establishment and maintenance of a free-roaming, self-sustaining population on Rota can be expected to provide a source of "wild" rails for future re-establishment on Guam. Analysis of experimental release programs indicates that the most successful examples used "wild" (wild-caught) birds rather than animals propagated in captivity specifically for release purposes. There is no alternative to the establishment of the proposed experimental population on Rota which would be as effective for promoting conservation of the Guam rail. This population would be treated as a threatened species, rather than an endangered species for the purposes of sections 4(d) and 9 of the Act. The species is currently protected at 13 different captive propagation facilities, and release of progeny excess to the needs of the captive flock would not be detrimental to the long term survival of this species. The nonessential status will provide flexibility in managing the Rota population.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 30, 1989.

ADDRESSES: The complete file for this final rule is available for inspection, by appointment, during normal business hours at the Pacific Islands Office (Environmental Services), U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 300 Ala Moana Boulevard, Room 6307, Honolulu, HI 96813.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Guam, with an area of approximately 550 square km (212 square miles), is the largest and most developed island in Micronesia. It is generally divided into a northern, fairly level limestone plateau, and a southern, mountainous area of volcanic origin. Vegetation on the island has been vastly altered by humans and much of the original forest has been removed.

The endemic flightless Guam rail was formerly abundant and occurred island-wide. The population declined drastically between 1963 and 1973, and by the mid-1970's had disappeared from southern Guam. A 1981 survey indicated that about 2,000 rails still persisted in northern Guam. By 1986, however, the species was considered virtually extirpated from the wild.

Although several inimical factors were believed to have caused the demise of the Guam rail, the most important was predation on eggs and young by the introduced brown tree snake. This exotic predator has caused virtual extinction of the entire avifauna of Guam. Individual rails and kingfishers were all that remained by the early to mid-1980's.

When it was evident that the rail faced imminent extinction, a consortium of zoos under the auspices of the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums (AAZPA) in cooperation with the Guam Division of Aquatic and Wildlife Resources (GDAWR) embarked on a captive propagation program by capturing as many rails as possible. Agreements were entered into whereby cooperating zoos agreed to develop techniques for propagating the rail in captivity as well as maintaining a viable population with maximum genetic diversity. In fact, the rail has demonstrated extraordinary fecundity in captivity, making it necessary to curtail breeding to avoid production of excessive progeny. The cooperating agencies proposing this project have been assured by knowledgeable geneticists and breeders of the AAZPA that it is possible to attempt to establish a nonessential experimental population of the Guam rail with progeny excess to the needs of the captive propagation program, and without harm to the captive flock.

Because existing habitat on Guam had been rendered unsuitable by the presence of the brown tree snake, it was necessary to look at alternative sites for establishing an experimental population of this species. After evaluating habitats on Guam and other islands in the Marianas Archipelago, and consulting with knowledgeable scientists and individuals, analysis of all the data available indicated that the island of Rota, Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands (Commonwealth) was the best alternative release site. Although Rota is outside the known historical range of the Guam rail, it has suitable habitat identical to that formerly occupied by the rail. Most important, the brown tree snake is not known to occur on Rota.

Prior to the establishment of an experimental population outside of its probable historic range, the Service must determine that the primary habitat of the species has been unsuitably and irreversibly altered or destroyed. Although the basic habitat components required by the rail on Guam have not been "irreversibly" altered or destroyed in the strict sense, they have essentially been made unavailable to the rail for the indefinite future due to the pervasive threat of the brown tree snake. There is hope that it will eventually be possible to control or eradicate the brown tree snake on Guam, but there is no assurance that this will be possible in the foreseeable future. This indefinite alteration of the rail's primary habitat is tantamount to the unsuitable and irreversible alteration or destruction of its primary habitat.

There are reasons to believe that an experimental population of the Guam rail will become established on Rota in the foreseeable future. Rails will be released in habitats similar or identical to that in which the species thrived on Guam before introduction and establishment of the brown tree snake. Birds destined for release comprise individuals with maximum genetic diversity. There is a comprehensive release and follow-up plan to be implemented by personnel from the University of Tennessee and also monitored by biologists from cooperating agencies. The Commonwealth has indicated that it will utilize its resources (Conservation Officer, Wildlife Technician, and Wildlife Biologists) to enhance protection for the rails released. The Mayor of Rota has also given his assurances that he will use the municipality's resources to promote protection of the experimental population.

Establishment of Guam rails on Rota should provide a source of "wild" rails for reestablishment on Guam when the brown tree snake can be eliminated or controlled. For this reason the Service finds that the release and establishment of an experimental population of Guam rails on Rota will further the conservation of this species. (See section 10(j)(2)(A) of the Act; 50 CFR 17.81(b). Analysis of release programs by scientists from the University of Idaho has shown that those releases using "wild" (wild-caught) birds have been significantly more successful in establishing a population than releases comprised of captive propagated birds. This difference has been attributed to a loss of ability to survive in the wild over time by captive-held birds. Their managed environment diminishes their ability to survive the rigors of the wild. This project is believed to be the most effective means for promoting long-term conservation and recovery of the rail.

The introduced population is not expected to be affected by existing or anticipated Federal, Commonwealth, or private actions within or adjacent to the experimental population area. Scrubby, second-growth habitats away from urban development and human activities have been selected as release sites.

The Service has consulted extensively with appropriate Commonwealth, Territorial, and Municipal (Rota) agencies in developing and implementing the experimental population project and rules. Local public participation was conducted by the Mayor of Rota, the Commonwealth, and Guam in their respective jurisdictions. A Memorandum of Agreement was developed and executed among the Service, the Commonwealth, and Guam to enhance this project.

Designating the Rota population as a nonessential experimental population will enable the Service to promulgate a special rule that will authorize considerable discretion in managing the population. The protective regulations are necessary and advisable to provide for the conservation of the rail, particularly during the initial stages of the translocation program. The special rule will stipulate that agents of the Commonwealth Division of Fish and Wildlife, the Guam Division, and the Service will be authorized to take animals that need special care or that are causing depredation problems. No taking of "problem" rails would be countenanced except as a last resort. Live capture and release into other suitable, remote habitats will be the preferred course of action whenever possible.

The special rule also has a provision to allow for special take by private individuals if the nonessential experimental population becomes well established on Rota. This special take would be allowed under regulations promulgated by the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands once the Service has determined that the rail has become well established and occupies all suitable habitat on Rota. These flexible rules will help gain and maintain public support for the project.

The nonessential status is appropriate for the following reasons: (1) Although the Guam rail is virtually extinct in the wild, robust captive propagation flocks have been established on Guam and in twelve cooperating zoos and aviaries on the mainland (this captive flock presently consists of some 112 rails); (2) care and maintenance of the captive flocks are of the highest order (consequently, the Service does not believe that disease or any other natural phenomenon is likely to eliminate this flock and threaten the survival of the species); and (3) the Guam rail breeds readily in captivity, resulting in the availability of rails that can be made available for release and that are excess to the needs of the captive flock. The taking of approximately 500 rails over the 5-year duration of this project from these sources of captive propagated progeny would not threaten the survival of this species even if all of the animals released into the wild were to succumb to natural or man-caused mortality.

The Commonwealth Division has the statutory authority to protect and conserve listed species. It has agreed to protect the Guam rails proposed for establishment on Rota by promulgating its own regulations to prohibit the taking of rails in the Commonwealth. It also has two staff members, a Conservation Officer and a Wildlife Technician, residing on Rota who can enforce those regulations. The Service is satisfied that the Commonwealth's regulatory mechanisms and staff presence are sufficient to provide for conservation of the rail.

Since the Service proposes that the Rota population of Guam rails be designated as a nonessential experimental population, no critical habitat will be proposed or designated.

Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3), the Service finds that good cause exists to have this rule take effect upon publication. It is essential to the success of this year's translocation that it commence during the rainy season, when habitat conditions are most favorable for survival of the rails that are released.

Summary of Comments and Recommendations

The proposed rule was published in the Federal Register on June 19, 1989 (54 FR 25744), at which time all interested parties were invited to comment on the proposal during the comment period, which extended through July 19, 1989. Many newspaper articles were published in the Pacific Daily News, the newspaper of general circulation in the Mariana Islands, immediately after the proposed rule was published. Publication of the proposed rule for this translocation project was a long-awaited event by many residents of Guam and the Commonwealth.

Written comments were received from a total of 41 persons representing a wide gamut of interests ranging from local governments (2), private organizations (23), universities (8), companies (3), and individuals (5). A partial listing of commenters includes: GDAWR, Commonwealth Division of Fish and Wildlife, Marianas Audubon Society, International Crane Foundation, Los Angeles Zoo, Houston Zoological Society, Zoological Society of Philadelphia, International Council for Bird Preservation—U.S. Section, National Zoological Park, University of Minnesota, Edison Electric Institute, Peregrine Fund, Inc., and the Guam Board of Realtors. All commenters supported the translocation project.

While supporting the establishment of an experimental population, several commenters also made recommendations concerning various aspects of the undertaking. Service response to these recommendations are presented below.

Comment 1: Expeditious implementation of the release program is needed.

Response: The Service concurs with the 14 commenters who expressed this opinion. The two primary reasons given for this comment were: (1) To prevent abundance of the captive rail flock from becoming a hindrance to propagation efforts (14 commenters), and (2) to alleviate the problem of limited space in captive propagation facilities due to the unique requirements of the Guam rail (11 comments). Service concurrence is also based on the necessity of releasing rails on Rota during the rainy season, when environmental conditions are most favorable for survival of the birds.

Comment 2: While supporting introduction of the rail to Rota, one person expressed concern that the introduced rails may adversely affect relict native reptile, arthropod, and snail populations on Rota. Notwithstanding the surveys conducted by entomologists from the University of Guam, this commenter believed it likely that there are relict native arthropods on Rota that may be affected by an aggressive predator like the rail. This commenter recommended continuing assessment of the effects of the experimental population on native fauna. Another expressed the opinion that the rail would not be a serious competitor or problem on Rota. Two commenters noted that the fauna and flora of Rota have been extensively altered and thought that the release of rails would not pose a problem.

Response: The Service recognizes the potential threats to native species posed by the introduction of Guam rails to Rota, but believes the potential negative consequences in this instance to be minimal and greatly outweighed by the probable benefits to conservation of the rail. Nevertheless, due attention will be paid to any evidence of adverse effects on native species, and the project will be re-evaluated if such evidence arises.

Comment 3: Rigorous disease screening of all birds to be released on Rota is essential.

Response: The Service agrees and shares the concern expressed by 12 commenters. Veterinarians have been consulted on this matter and the release plan provides for—(1) screening for hematozoans and viral diseases, (2) screening of birds shipped from mainland zoos to Guam; and (3) disease screening of all birds prior to their shipment to Rota. In consideration of the strict disease surveillance at all participating captive propagation facilities, and the disease screening of all birds before they are released on Rota, the Service believes that this concern will not become a problem.

Comment 4: While supporting the establishment of an experimental population, two commenters noted that translocation of Guam rails to Rota would be a falsification of the fauna on that island.

Response: The Service concurs with the 2 commenters who expressed this sentiment. It should be noted, however, that one commenter expressed the opinion that there was most likely a species of Rallidae on Rota in the past, citing fossil evidence from other tropical islands. He also stated that translocations outside a species' historical range may be essential to prevent extinction. The other commenter favored introduction of the rail, in spite of falsification of the fauna, because many other domesticated and wild species have already been introduced on Rota and he thought it would probably have little additional negative impact.

National Environmental Policy Act

A Final Environmental Assessment and a Finding of No Significant Impact pertaining to this proposal have been prepared and are available for inspection at the Office of Environmental Services (see ADDRESSES above). It has been determined that this is not a major Federal action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment within the meaning of Section 1022) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

§ 17.84 Special rules—vertebrates.

(f) Guam Rail (Rallus owstoni).

(1) The Guam rail population identified in paragraph (f)(7) of this section is a nonessential experimental population.

(2) No person shall take this species, except:

(i) In accordance with a valid permit issued by the Service under § 17.32 for educational purposes, scientific purposes, the enhancement of propagation or survival of the species, zoological exhibition, and other conservation purposes consistent with the Act; or

(ii) As authorized by the laws and regulations of the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, after the Service has made the determination that the experimental population has become well established and occupies all suitable habitat island-wide.

(3) Any employee of the Service, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands Division of Fish and Wildlife, or the Guam Division of Aquatic and Wildlife Resources who is designated for such purposes, may, when acting in the course of official duties, take a Guam rail without a permit if such action is necessary to:

(i) Aid a sick, injured, or orphaned specimen;

(ii) Dispose of a dead specimen;

(iii) Salvage a dead specimen that may be useful for scientific study; or

(iv) Take an animal that is responsible for depredations to personal property if it has not been possible to otherwise eliminate such depredations and/or loss of personal property, provided that such taking must be done in a humane manner and may involve injuring or killing the bird only if it has not been possible to eliminate depredations by live capturing and releasing the specimen unharmed in other suitable habitats.

(4) Any violation of applicable commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands fish and wildlife conservation laws or regulations with respect to the taking of this species (other than taking as described in paragraph (f)(2)(ii) of this section) will also be a violation of the Endangered Species Act.

(5) No person shall possess, sell, deliver, carry, transport, ship, import, or export by any means whatsoever, any such species taken in violation of these regulations or in violation of applicable Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands fish and wildlife laws or regulations or the Endangered Species Act.

(6) It is unlawful for any person to attempt to commit, solicit another to commit, or cause to be committed, any offense defined in paragraphs (f) (2) through (5) of this section.

(7) The sites for introduction of Guam rails on Rota, Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, are on an island separated from Guam by 50 kilometers of ocean. The last known observation of an individual of this species occurred near the northern tip of Guam, which is closest to the island of Rota. No intermingling of these populations will occur since this species has been extirpated in the wild on Guam. The Rota release sites are of necessity outside the historic range of the Guam rail, as described in this regulation, because its primary range has been unsuitably and irreversibly destroyed by the brown tree snake.

(8) The nonessential experimental population on Rota will be checked periodically by staff of the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands Division of Fish and Wildlife and cooperating staff from the University of Tennessee to determine dispersal patterns, mortality, and reproductive success. The overall success of the releases and general health of the population will also be assessed.

Coastal Migratory Pelagic Resources of the Gulf of Mexico and South Atlantic AGENCY: National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS), NOAA, Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of closure.

SUMMARY: The Secretary of Commerce (Secretary) closes the commercial fishery in the Exclusive Economic Zone for king mackerel from the western zone of the Gulf migratory group. The Secretary has determined that the commercial quota for Gulf group king mackerel from the western zone was reached on October 24, 1989. This closure is necessary to protect the overfished Gulf king mackerel resource.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Closure is effective at 12:01 a.m., local time, October 25, 1989, until 12:00 p.m. (midnight) local time, June 30, 1990.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mark F. Godcharles, 813-893-3722.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Fishery Management Plan for Coastal Migratory Pelagic Resources for the Gulf of Mexico and the South Atlantic, as amended, was developed by the South Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Councils (Councils) under authority of the Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act, 16 U.S.C. 1801 et seq., and is implemented by regulations at 50 CFR part 642. Regulations effective July 1, 1989, through June 30, 1990. Those regulations set the commercial allocation at 1.36 million pounds divided into quotas of 0.94 million pounds for the eastern zone and 0.42 million pounds for the western zone (54 FR 30554, July 21, 1989). The boundary between the eastern and western zones is a line directly south from the Florida/Alabama boundary (87°31'06" W. longitude) to the outer limit of the Exclusive Economic Zone.

Under § 642.22(a), the Secretary is required to close any segment of the king mackerel commercial fishery when its allocation or quota has been reached, or is projected to be reached, by publishing a notice in the Federal Register. The Secretary has determined that the commercial quota of 0.42 million pounds for the western zone of the Gulf migratory group king mackerel was reached on October 24, 1989. Hence, the commercial fishery of Gulf group king mackerel form the western zone is closed effective 12:01 a.m., October 25, 1989, through June 30, 1990, the end of the fishing year.

Except for a person on a charter vessel, during the closure, no person aboard a vessel permitted to fish under a commercial allocation may fish for, retain, or have in possession in the Exclusive Economic Zone king mackerel from the western zone. A person aboard a charter vessel may continue to fish for king mackerel in the western zone under the bag limit set forth in § 642.28(a)(1), provided the vessel is under charter, i.e., there are more than three persons aboard, including captain and crew. During the closure, king mackerel from the western zone taken in the Exclusive Economic Zone, including those harvested under the bag limit, may not be purchased, bartered, traded, or sold. This prohibition does not apply to trade in king mackerel from the western zone that were harvested, landed, and bartered, traded, or sold prior to the closure and held in cold storage by a dealer or processor.

Any person may obtain a copy of this notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) by submitting a request to the Manager, System Management Branch, Department of Transportation, Federal Aviation Administration, Fort Worth, TX 76193-0530. Communications must identify the notice number of this NPRM. Persons interested in being placed on a mailing list for future NPRM's should also request a copy of Advisory Circular No. 11-2A which describes the application procedure.

The Proposal

The FAA is considering an amendment to § 71.181 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) to revise the transition area located at Clovis, NM. The old Portales Airport has been closed and the existing Portales NDB relocated. The development of a new NDB RWY 1 SIAP to the new Portales Municipal Airport, utilizing the Portales NDB in its new location, has necessitated this proposal. The intended effect of this proposal is to provide adequate controlled airspace for aircraft executing the NDB RWY 1 SIAP to the new Portales Municipal Airport. Coincident with this proposal would be the changing of the status of the new Portales Municipal Airport from VFR to IFR. Secton 71.181 of part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations was republished in Handbook 7400.6E dated January 3, 1989.

The FAA has determined that this proposed regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. It, therefore—(1) Is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. Since this is a routine matter that will only affect air traffic procedures and air navigation, it is certified that this rule, when promulgated, will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

The function of the Committee will be to bring together parties affected by, or interested in, issues concerning marketing, actuarial determinations, and claims associated with the crop insurance program.

The Committee will discuss new technologies, the upgrading of product design, marketing strategies, processing systems procedures, education, and actuarial determinations.

The Committee will not exceed 25 members, including a limited number of Department of Agriculture employees, with the remainder representing the insurance and agricultural industries. The Committee will meet four (4) times yearly.

Applications for membership consideration are being solicited by the FCIC until the close of business on December 1, 1989. Bureau of Export Administration

[Docket Nos. 9103–01 and 9103–02]

Ruben Sanchez and Oficina Tecnica Ruben Sanchez CA, Respondents; Clarification of Order

On September 14, 1989, the Acting Under Secretary for Export Administration issued the Agency's Final Decision and Order in the above-captioned proceedings. In the Matter of Ruben Sanchez, individually and doing business as Oficina Tecnica Ruben Sanchez CA, 54 FR 39026 (Sept. 22, 1989). Because of an ambiguity in the Administrative Law Judge's Recommended Decision and Order, which the Acting Under Secretary affirmed, the Agency's Final Decision and Order must be clarified. The following clarifying statements are hereby added to that Final Decision and Order:

Delete from the second sentence of the section entitled "Summary" in the Agency's Final Decision and Order "Commencing one year from this date" and insert in lieu thereof: "While it is clear that the Administrative Law Judge intended that respondents' one-year denial period be suspended for one year beginning on the date of the entry of the Final Order, the ALJ's Recommended Order is unclear in that regard. To the extent that the ALJ's Recommended Order indicates that the denial period is not suspended until one year from the date of this Final Order, the language of that Recommended Order is hereby modified to comply with the ALJ's intent. Beginning on the date of this Final Order * * *."

Delete the period after the acronym "ALJ" in the third sentence in the first section entitled "Order" in the Agency's Final Decision and Order, and insert in lieu thereof; "except for the language of Paragraph II in the section of the ALJ's recommended Order entitled 'ORDER' which indicates that the denial of respondents' export privileges will not be suspended until one year from the date of this Final Decision and Order. I order that respondents' denial period be suspended for a period of one year from the date of this Final Decision and Order, as was actually intended by the ALJ. All other terms concerning the conditions of that suspension and the termination of the denial period set forth in the ALJ's recommended Order are affirmed."

Dated: October 20, 1989.

Dennis E. Kloske,

Under Secretary for Export Administration.

Amendment of Decision and Order

This Amendment corrects an editorial error in the September 14, 1989 Order issued in this matter (54 FR 39026, Sept. 22, 1989). The purpose of that Order was to impose on Respondents a suspended one-year denial of U.S. export privileges. Because of two excess words in Paragraph II of the August 24, 1989 Order signed by the undersigned and affirmed by that September 14, 1989 Order, however, the period of suspension was scheduled to begin only after the end of the one-year denial period. This Amendment corrects that scheduling by providing that the one-year suspension shall begin simultaneously with the one year of denial, so that the denial is suspended from its outset.

Order

Paragraph II of the undersigned's August 24, 1989 Order, as affirmed by the Order of September 14, 1989, is amended by deleting from the first sentence its second and third words—"one year"—so that the sentence shall read as follows.

Commencing from the date of the final Agency action, the denial of export privileges set forth in Paragraph I above shall be suspended, in accordance with § 788.16 of the Regulations, for one year, and shall be terminated at the end of such year, provided that Respondents have committed no further violation of the Act, the Regulations, or the final Order entered in this proceeding.

All other terms and conditions of the August 24, 1989 Order, as affirmed by the Order of September 14, 1989, shall remain in full force and effect as originaly issued.

Dated: October 17, 1989.

Administrative Law Judge.

Dated: October 20, 1989.

Under Secretary for Export Administration.

ORDER ON MOTION

In the matter of: Walter J. Spawr, Frances A. Spawr, Spawr Optical Research, Inc., Respondents.

Appearance for Respondent: Steven R. Perles, Esq., Scot C. Whitney, Esq., 1629 K Street, NW., Suite 601, Washington, DC 20006.

Appearance for Agency: Thomas C. Barbour, Esq., Office of the Chief Counsel for Export Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, Room H-3329, 14th & Constitution Ave., NW., Washington, DC 20230.

Preliminary Statement

On October 4, 1988, Respondent's filed a Motion to Amend Order Denying Export Privileges. The case has a long history which is detailed in the appended Decision and Order issued January 27, 1986, and confirmatory action of February 26, 1986 (51 FR 7477 et seq., March 4, 1986). The motion requests that the denial order be amended to terminate effective November 10, 1988.

Following the exchange of written submissions the matter was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Thomas W. Hoya on March 22, 1989. In response to a request that he disqualify himself, an Order of recusal was issued by Judge Hoya on April 10, 1989.

Discussion

In his filings Counsel represents that since Respondents have satisfied the criminal sanctions of the Federal District Court; have completed their probation and have been absolved from payment of the balance of the criminal penalty, favorable consideration should be given to remitting the balance of the period of the administrative denial of export privileges.

Agency Counsel opposes any mitigation arguing that the fulfillment or disposition of the federal criminal proceedings is not a grounds for modification of the denial order. He also contends that the action requested is a reopening of the proceedings, prohibited by § 788.18, footnote 2 of the Regulations, and that a document submitted with the request has not been shown to be relevant to the Motion.

Requests to modify, grant exceptions to, and/or render interpretations of, Denial Orders in Export compliance cases were commonplace and a substantial part of the practice before the Hearing Commissioner a decade ago and earlier. Since 1985, Exceptions, that is, requests to conduct a specified transaction or transactions by or with a denied party are subject to a reporting requirement to Congress under § 11.(c)(3) of the Export Adminstration Act. This office is not aware of any recent practice in that area. The procedure outlined in § 787.12 of the Regulations (15 CFR 787.12) may provide such mechanism. Interpretations, appear to be in a limbo status and without a system or method of promulgation. The third category, Modifications, which are at issue here, are involved when it is contemplated that the terms of a denial order published in the Federal Register will be altered. These warrant publication of the change to give notice to those in the public sector who are charged with the knowledge of, and adherence to the provisions of such orders. These too were frequent over a decade ago, but this process also appears to have fallen into disuse.

The objections and requests will be discussed seriatim.

A. Agency Counsel's Objection to Exhibit C and D—Operation Committee Document #5653 and Referral Form

These are very obviously documents from the Agency records made in 1976, at or about the time the license application was denied. It is my view that they have little bearing on the question for consideration here. The fact that some of those who participated in the license application consideration process viewed the request favorably, loses much significance, for the record reflects that the application was denied and this was conveyed to Respondents. Nevertheless, the items were exported without a license.

B. Authority to Modify Denial Orders

Agency Counsel's argument that the Secretary and his delegee lack authority to modify denial orders, misconstrues the nature of the relief requested and is erroneous. This is not a reopening as contemplated under § 788.18. So long as a denial continues to be published in the Table of Denial Orders (Supp. 1 to Part 788), the Secretarial delegee may act with respect to it. While it may be appropriate to establish a time, after which new evidence or a retrying of the case in chief will be barred, the Secretary through his delegee should and does retain the power to act with respect to outstanding sanctions. This is demonstrated by the recent action in Kubicek 54 FR 13716 et seq., April 5, 1989 where, almost 3 years after the initial action the final Agency action was unilaterally changed.

C. Satisfaction of the Federal Criminal Sanctions

Agency Counsel's representation is that the expiration or completion of the criminal sentence does not constitute a sufficient basis for reconsideration. On behalf of the Respondent's it is argued that the expiration of the 5-year probation period, the correspondence reflecting the good conduct and therefore the rehabilitation of Respondent's and the act of mitigating $18,800 of the criminal fine, in combination, reflect that Respondents have been restored and that favorable consideration should be given to remission of the remainder of the civil administrative sanctions as well.

The disposition of this request is a matter within the authority and sound discretion of the Secretarial delegee responsible for Administration of the Export Administration Act.

The background recited above, as well as the criminal conviction and administrative adjudication, attest to the seriousness of the violations. The export of controlled commodities to the Soviet Union after denial of license applications was and is a very serious matter. (See Findings pp 6 & 7 Decision and Order of January 27, 1986).

Nevertheless, the request for clemency following the termination of the opprobrious effect of the federal criminal sanctions is understandable and may be considered as an appropriate approach to restore this business and its owners to fully productive citizenship.

These compliance proceedings are not penal in nature. The criminal process, which included confinement, probation and a fine, addressed that aspect of the matter. In reviewing the available historic records relating to the purpose of these administrative proceedings it is repeatedly asserted that they are remedial not penal. The following notes, quoted from the Hearing Commissioners desk handbook, bear review and consideration.

SANCTIONS—Nature of

This is not a penal proceeding but rather it is a remedial proceeding to bring about effective enforcement or adherence to the law. A primary means for attaining that objective is the educational value which the denial of export privileges has on persons concerned with exportation of goods from the U.S.

Corrective and deterrent, normal objectives of remedial action.

The cases referenced under that note include the following:

The action finally taken in these compliance cases is not intended primarily to inflict a penalty. True, it may result in some financial impact. However, this has corrective and deterrent values, normal objectives of remedial action. In these cases the Bureau of Foreign Commerce carries out the mandate of the Congress, which is to effectuate the policies set forth in the Act and make regulations governing the participation in exports by any person "to the extent necessary to achieve effective enforcement of this Act." Bertling No. 261 Order of July 16, 1959.

* * * this is not a penal proceeding, but rather a remedial proceeding intended to achieve more effective enforcement of the law. (See Country Garden Market vs. Bowles 1944, U.S.C.A.D.C., 78 U.S. App. D.C. 381, 141 F.2d 540, Cert. den. 322 U.S. 752; Di Melia vs. Bowles, 1945, C.C.A. Mass., 148 F.2d 725, Cert. den. 325 U.S. 886; Steuart & Bro. vs. Bowles, 1944, 78 U.S. App. D.C. 350, 140 F.2d 703).

Stemmler, Imex et al No. 1991 Order of Oct. 27, 1955.

Certainly when considered with the actions in other cases the period of actual administrative denial for over 8 years, since February 24, 1981, when the Temporary Denial Order issued, is substantial. In any event these respondents export privileges will be restored in February 1992 upon the expiration of the present denial order. A period of probation in preparation for that expiration and in recognition of the rehabilitation which has been acknowledged in the judicial process appears to be in order.

I believe that a suspension of the last two years of the current denial, starting February 27, 1990, would be appropriate and would aid in the patterned rehabilitation of these Respondent's.

The Motion to Amend is granted in part.

Order of Modification

The Order of January 27, 1986 as affirmed by Secretarial Order on February 26, 1986 (51 FR 7477 et seq., March 4, 1986) is hereby Modified to insert the following as Paragraph III:

III. Commencing four years from the date of the final Agency action, taken on February 26, 1986, the denial of export privileges set forth in Paragraph II above shall be suspended, in accordance with Section 788.16 of the Regulations, for the remaining two years of the six-year period set forth in Paragraph II above, and shall be terminated at the end of such six year period, provided that Respondents have committed no further violations of the Act, the Regulations, or the final Orders entered in this proceeding. During the two-year suspension period, Respondents may participate in transactions involving the export of U.S.-origin commodities or technical data from the United States or abroad in accordance with the requirements of the Act and the Regulations. The provisions of Paragraphs IV and V of this Order as amended shall also be suspended during such two-year period.

Paragraphs's III through V of the Order of January 27, 1986 as affirmed are hereby renumbered as IV through VI.

So ordered.

Cotton Shop Towels From Peru; Determination Not To Terminate Suspended Investigation

AGENCY: International Trade Administration/Import Administration, Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of determination not to terminate suspended investigation.

SUMMARY: The Department of Commerce is notifying the public of its determination not to terminate the suspended countervailing duty investigation on cotton shop towels from Peru.

Background

On September 15, 1989, the Department of Commerce ("the Department") published in the Federal Register (54 FR 38262) its intent to terminate the suspended countervailing duty investigation on cotton shop towels from Peru (September 12, 1984, 49 FR 35835). The Department may terminate a suspended investigation if the Secretary concludes that the agreement is no longer of interest to interested parties. The Department has not received a request to conduct an administrative review of the agreement suspending the countervailing duty investigation on cotton shop towels from Peru for four consecutive annual anniversary months.

On September 11, 1989, the petitioner, Milliken & Company, objected to the Department's intent to terminate this suspended investigation. Therefore, we no longer intend to terminate the suspended investigation.

This notice is in accordance with § 355.25(d)(4) of the Commerce Department's revised regulations published in the Federal Register of December 27, 1988 (53 FR 52306) (to be codified at 19 CFR 355.25)(d)(4).

We preliminarily determine the net subsidy to be 0.66 percent ad valorem for the period October 27, 1986 through December 31, 1986, and 0.57 percent ad valorem for the period January 1, 1987 through December 31, 1987. We invite interested parties to comment on these preliminary results.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Philip Pia or Paul McGarr, Office of Countervailing Compliance, International Trade Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, DC 20230; telephone: (202) 377-2786.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On March 12, 1987, the Department of Commerce ("the Department") published in the Federal Register (52 FR 7646) a countervailing duty order on standard chrysanthemums from the Netherlands. On March 25, 1988, the respondent, the Association of Dutch Flower Auctions, requested that we conduct an administrative review of the order. We published the initiation on April 27, 1988 (53 FR 15083). The Department has now conducted that administrative review in accordance with section 751 of the Tariff Act of 1930 ("the Tariff Act").

Scope of Review

The United States, under the auspices of the Customs Cooperation Council, has developed a system of tariff classification based on the international harmonized system of Customs nomenclature. On January 1, 1989, the United States fully converted to the Harmonized Tariff Schedule (HTS), as provided for in section 1201 et seq. of the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988. All merchandise entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on or after that date is now classified solely according to the appropriate HTS item number(s).

Imports covered by this review are shipments of Dutch standard chrysanthemums. During the review period, such merchandise was classifiable under item 192.2120 of the Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated. This merchandise is currently classifiable under HTS item 0603.10.70. The written description remains dispositive.

The review covers the period October 27, 1986 through December 31, 1987 and eight programs.

Analysis of Programs

(1) Natural Gas Provided at Preferential Rates

Natural gas in the Netherlands is sold directly to major customers by the N.V. Nederlandse Gasunie (Gasunie). The Agricultural Industrial Board, or "Landbouwschap," is a quasi-governmental body that negotiates with Gasunie to determine prices and general terms of gas delivery for Dutch greenhouse growers. Gasunie is 40 percent owned by DSM Aardgas (a company wholly-owned by the Government of the Netherlands), 10 percent by the Government of the Netherlands, 25 percent by Shell Nederland, and 25 percent by Esso Nederland N.V. While the Government of the Netherlands does not own a controlling interest in Gasunie, it plays a significant role in the setting of natural gas prices. The Minister of Economic Affairs reserves the right to approve selling prices and terms of delivery for supplies to public distributors in the Netherlands, large export contracts, and contracts between Gasunie and the Landbouwschap. In this respect, the Minister's approval is an important part of the system of controls normally applied to negotiated prices.

The Landbouwschap is a statutory trade organization created under the Industrial Organizations Act. Its chairman is approved by the Government of the Netherlands, and its purpose is to represent the economic and political interests of the agricultural sector in the Netherlands.

Natural gas prices are based on consumption levels which are broken down into five categories or "zones"—zones "a" through "e". Zone "a" users are small gas consumers, such as homeowners or small businesses, which use less than 170,000 cubic meters (m^3) of gas per year; zone "e" users are the largest consumers, such as industries, which use more than 50 million m^3 of gas per year. Zone "a" users pay the highest price per m^3; zone "e" the lowest.

Greenhouse growers, through the Landbouwschap, negotiated a contract in October 1984 with Gasunie for their natural gas. Under the contract, which was in effect from October 1, 1984 through October 1, 1985, greenhouse growers pay the zone "d" rate plus 0.5 guilder cents per m^3 of gas. Absent the contract, most greenhouse growers, given their individual consumption levels, would fall in zone "a" or zone "b", with a few falling in zone "c".

In the October 1984 contract negotiated with Gasunie by the Landbouwschap on behalf of greenhouse growers, a maximum ceiling price was established. In the Final Affirmative Countervailing Duty Determination: Certain Fresh Cut Flowers From the Netherlands (52 FR 3301, February 3, 1987) ("Netherlands Flowers"), we determined that the contract with the provision of a price ceiling constitutes preferential treatment because: (a) comparable users of natural gas enjoy no such price ceiling; (b) the contract constituted governmental provision of natural gas—the Dutch government owns 50 percent of Gasunie, the Minister of Economic Affairs must approve the contract between Gasunie and the Landbouwschap, and the Landbouwschap itself is a quasi-governmental organization; and (c) the contract involves the provision of natural gas to a specific industry (i.e., greenhouse growers). Accordingly, in "Netherlands Flowers," we calculated the benefit to greenhouse growers based on the difference between the price of gas actually paid by greenhouse growers in 1985 and the zone "d" plus 0.5 guilder cents price they would have had to pay under the contract absent the ceiling price.

In June 1985, a contract was signed between the Landbouwschap and Gasunie that superseded the October 1984 contract. The June 1985 contract maintained the same zone "d" rate per m^3 of natural gas, but it established a higher ceiling price for the month of June 1985, 45 guilder cents per m^3, after which the ceiling reverted to the original 42.5 guilder cents per m^3. This contract was in effect from June 4, 1985 through October 1, 1987.

In September 1985, Gasunie informed the Landbouwschap that it was withdrawing the ceiling price from the contract. In its letter, Gasunie explained that it took this action to comply with the EC Commission's decision of January 13, 1985, which found the ceiling price in violation of Community statute. In "Netherlands Flowers", we stated that since the withdrawal of the ceiling price was a unilateral action contested by the Landbouwschap, and because no new contract had been signed between the parties agreeing to the withdrawal by the time of our final determination, the June 1985 contract technically still included the ceiling price. Therefore, we did not consider the unilateral withdrawal of the ceiling price as a verified program-wide change for purposes of calculating a separate deposit rate. In August 1987, a new contract was negotiated between the Landbouwschap and Gasunie for the period October 1, 1987 through October 1, 1989. The price of gas to greenhouse growers remained the zone "d" rate plus 0.5 guilder cents per m^3, but the contract contained no provision for a ceiling price.

Because we verified that the price of natural gas supplied to greenhouse growers for the period October 27, 1986 through September 30, 1987 was lower than the ceiling price, we preliminarily determine the net subsidy for this same period to be zero.

For the period October 1, 1987 through December 31, 1987, the contract in effect between Gasunie and the Landbouwschap contained no provision for a ceiling price. Therefore, we preliminarily determine that this contract does not confer a countervailable benefit.

(2) Aids for the Creation of Cooperative Organizations

Under European Community (EC) Regulation 355/77, the EC has provided grants to Dutch auction houses, which are flower grower cooperatives. These funds are provided by the EC through the Agricultural Guidance and Guarantee Fund with matching grant contributions from EC member states. The purpose of the program is to improve the processing, marketing and distribution of agricultural products in member states.

The Government of the Netherlands submitted a program proposal to the EC in 1979 for flower auctions. In 1980, the EC approved the program for a four-year duration. This program terminated at the end of 1984; however, project applications submitted to the EC by December 1984 were eligible for, and received, grant approval through June 1985. In February 1985, the Government of the Netherlands requested an extension of the flower auction program, but withdrew this request in March 1986. We verified that grants are still being disbursed under the flower auction program for investment projects approved through June 1985.

Because the Government of the Netherlands selects only certain activities and/or products within the agricultural sector for which it proposes a program to the EC for funding, and because we saw no evidence of standard criteria applied in the approval of programs by the EC, we determine that this grant program is administered in such a way as to be limited to a specific enterprise or industry, or group of enterprises or industries in the Netherlands and is, therefore, countervailable.

To calculate the benefit from this program, we used a declining balance grant methodology. We took the total value, in guilders, of grants given in each year to flower auction houses under this program and allocated these amounts over ten years, which is the average useful life of renewable physical assets in the agricultural sector as determined under the U.S. Internal Revenue Service's Asset Depreciation Range System. We used as the discount rate the average interest rate for long-term commercial loans published by the Netherlands Bank (the Central Bank), for each year in which grants were provided. We took the total of the benefits from these grants allocated to each year and divided the benefits by the f.o.b. value of total auction sales in that year. On this basis, we preliminarily determine the net subsidy to be 0.15 percent ad valorem for the period October 27, 1986 through December 31, 1986, and 0.13 percent ad valorem for calendar year 1987.

(3) Glasshouse Enterprises Program

Under the Glasshouse Enterprises Program, the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries provided grants to greenhouse growers in order to stimulate private investment in energy saving methods in the horticulture industry. The program was scheduled to terminate in 1984; however, the fund was not fully used, and was extended for one year to June 1985. Grants for energy saving investment plans approved prior to the termination of the program were still being disbursed in 1986 and 1987.

Because this program was available only to greenhouses, we determine that it was limited to a specific enterprise or industry or group of enterprises or industries and provides a countervailable domestic subsidy.

To calculate the benefit from this program, we used a declining balance grant methodology. For each of the years 1982 to 1987, we took the total amount of grants provided to all Dutch greenhouse growers under this program and allocated these amounts over ten years, which is the average useful life of renewable physical assets in the agricultural sector. We used as the discount rate the average interest rate for long-term commercial loans published by the Netherlands Bank (the Central Bank), for each year in which grants were provided. We took the total of the benefits from these grants allocated to each year and divided the benefits by the f.o.b. value of total greenhouse sales in that year. On this basis, we preliminarily determine the net subsidy to be 0.50 percent ad valorem for the period October 27, 1986 through December 31, 1986, and 0.44 percent ad valorem for calendar year 1987.

(4) Aids for the Reduction of Glass Surface

Under the Aids for the Reduction of Glass Surface program, the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries provided grants to greenhouse growers for the purpose of increasing the energy efficiency of greenhouses by dismantling existing glass and replacing it with modern energy-saving glass. The program was established in October 1982 and terminated in November 1984. However, grants approved prior to the termination of the program were still being disbursed in 1985.

Because this program was available only to greenhouses, we determine that it was limited to a specific enterprise or industry or group of enterprises or industries and provides a countervailable domestic subsidy.

To calculate the benefit from this program, we used a declining balance grant methodology. For each of the years 1983 to 1985, we took the total amount of grants provided to all Dutch greenhouse growers under this program and allocated these amounts over ten years, which is the average useful life of renewable physical assets in the agricultural sector. We used as the discount rate the average interest rate for long-term commercial loans published by the Netherlands Bank (the Central Bank), for each year in which grants were provided. We took the total of the benefits from these grants allocated to each year and divided the benefits by the f.o.b. value of total greenhouse sales in that year. On this basis, we preliminarily determine the net subsidy to be 0.006 percent ad valorem for the period October 27, 1986 through December 31, 1985, and 0.005 percent ad valorem for calendar year 1987.

(5) Steam Drainage Systems

In January 1981, the Government of the Netherlands banned the use of methylbromide as a means of soil disinfection due to the potential health hazards caused by the chemical. In December 1981, the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries established a program making available cash grants to encourage the use of steam drainage as an alternative method of soil disinfection for greenhouses. The program was terminated in September 1984. However, some grants were disbursed in 1985 because of lags in processing the applications.

Because this program was only available to greenhouse growers, we determine it was limited to a specific enterprise or industry, or group of enterprises or industries and provides a countervailable domestic subsidy.

To calculate the benefit from this program, we used a declining balance grant methodology. For each of the years 1982 to 1985, we took the total amount of grants provided to all Dutch greenhouse growers under this program and allocated these amounts over ten years, which is the average useful life of renewable physical assets in the agricultural sector. We used as the discount rate the average interest rate for long-term commercial loans published by the Netherlands Bank (the Central Bank), for each year in which grants were provided. We took the total of the benefits from these grants allocated to each year and divided the benefits by the f.o.b. value of total greenhouse sales in that year. On this basis, we preliminarily determine the net subsidy to be 0.005 percent ad valorem for the period October 27, 1986 through December 31, 1986, and 0.007 percent ad valorem for calendar year 1987.

(6) Guarantee Fund for Agriculture

The Stichting Borgstellingsfonds voor de Landbouw (Foundation Security Fund for Agriculture, or "the Fund") is used to guarantee the servicing and repayment of loans made by banks to farmers. The Fund acts as an institutional guarantor, not as a lender itself, providing guarantees only when the security offered by the farmer in question is inadequate for the total amount of the loan. Not until all of the farmer's own securities or collateral have been provided for the loan can an application be made to the Fund. If an application to the Fund is approved, the guarantee applies only to the portion of the loan not originally approved by the bank.

In "Netherlands Flowers", we found that horticulture received a disproportionate share of loan guarantees under this program. Our determination was based on a comparison of the relative shares of horticulture in total loan guarantees in each year from 1982 to 1984, and total agricultural production for 1985.

In addition, in "Netherlands Flowers," because we found that there are no commercial loan guarantees available in the Netherlands, we calculated the benefit from this program using the best information available at that time; inter alia, we multiplied the total outstanding value of guaranteed loans to horticulture in 1985 by the difference between the interest rate on the guaranteed loans and on loans secured by equipment and/or accounts receivable, as reported by the Rabobank Nederland.

In this review, however, we verified that all of the borrowing by greenhouse growers in 1986 and 1987, including the portions of the loans guaranteed by the Fund, was contracted at commercial interest rates. The greenhouse grower secured the greater portion of the loan with his own collateral. The interest rate was negotiated based on a normal credit analysis consistent with commercial considerations. In every case, the Fund guaranteed a small portion of the loan at the interest rate that was contracted between the greenhouse grower and a private bank before application to guarantee an incremental amount was made to the Fund. Therefore, because we find no difference between the commercial interest rate in the Netherlands and the rate charged by the Fund for its guarantees, we preliminarily determine the benefit from this program to be zero.

(7) Other Programs

We preliminarily determine that exporters or producers of standard chrysanthemums did not use the following programs during the review period:

a. Investment Incentive (WIR)—Regional Program; and

b. Loans at preferential interest rates.

Preliminary Results of Review

As a result of our review, we preliminarily determine the net subsidy to be 0.66 percent ad valorem for the period October 27, 1986 through December 31, 1986, and 0.57 percent ad valorem for the period January 1, 1987 through December 31, 1987.

In accordance with section 705(a)(1) of the Tariff Act, the final determination in this case was extended to coincide with the antidumping final determination on several cut flowers investigations. Because we cannot impose suspension of liquidation for more than 120 days without the issuance of a countervailing duty order, we terminated the suspension of liquidation for entries or withdrawals made on or after February 25, 1987 and before March 12, 1987, the date of publication of the countervailing duty order.

Therefore, the Department intends to instruct the Customs Service to assess countervailing duties of 0.66 percent of the f.o.b. invoice price on all shipments of Dutch standard chrysanthemums entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on or after October 27, 1986 and exported on or before December 31, 1986. The Department also intends to instruct the Customs Service to assess countervailing duties of 0.57 percent of the f.o.b. invoice price on all shipments exported on or after January 1, 1987 and entered or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on or before February 24, 1987, and entered or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on or after March 12, 1987, and exported on or after December 31, 1987.

The Department intends to instruct the Customs Service to collect a cash deposit of estimated countervailing duties of 0.57 percent of the f.o.b. invoice price on all shipments of this merchandise entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on or after the date of publication of the final results of this administrative review. This deposit requirement shall remain in effect until publication of the final results of the next administrative review.

Interested parties may submit written comments on these preliminary results within 30 days of the date of publication of this notice and may request disclosure and/or a hearing within 10 days after the date of publication. Any hearing, if requested, will be held 44 days from the date of publication or the first workday thereafter. Rebuttal briefs and rebuttals to written comments, limited to issues in those comments, must be filed not later than 37 days after the date of publication. Any request for an administrative protective order must be made no later than five days after the date of publication. The Department will publish the final results of this administrative review including the results of its analysis of issues raised in any such written comments or at a hearing.

This administrative review and notice are in accordance with section 751(a)(1) of the Tariff Act (19 U.S.C. 1675(a)(1)) and § 355.22 of the Commerce Regulations published in the Federal Register on December 27, 1988 (53 FR 52306) (to be codified at 19 CFR 355.22).

[Docket Nos. CP90-74-000, et al.]

United Gas Pipe Line Co., et al.; Natural Gas Certificate Filings

Take notice that the following filings have been made with the Commission:

1. United Gas Pipe Line Company

[Docket No. CP90-74-000]

October 20, 1989.

Take notice that on October 18, 1989, United Gas Pipe Line Company (United), P.O. Box 1478, Houston, Texas 77251-1478, filed in Docket No. CP90-74-000 a request pursuant to § 157.205 of the Commission's Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.205) for authorization to provide an interruptible transportation service for Phoenix Gas Pipeline Company (Phoenix), an intrastate pipeline company, under the blanket certificate issued in Docket No. CP88-6-000, pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, all as more fully set forth in the request that is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

United states that pursuant to a transportation agreement dated December 6, 1988, as amended on July 20, 1989, under its Rate Schedule ITS, it proposes to transport up to 103,000 MMBtu per day equivalent of natural gas for Phoenix. United states that it would transport the gas from multiple receipt points as shown in Exhibit "A" of the transportation agreement and would deliver the gas to multiple delivery points shown in Exhibit "B" of the agreement.

United advises that service under § 284.223(a) commenced August 14, 1989, as reported in Docket No. ST90-32-000 (filed October 3, 1989). United further advises that it would transport 103,000 MMBtu on an average day and 37,595,000 MMBtu annually.

Comment date: December 4, 1989, in accordance with Standard Paragraph G at the end of this notice.

2. Wyoming-California Pipeline Company

[Docket No. CP90-41-000]

October 23, 1989.

Take notice that on October 10, 1989, Wyoming-California Pipeline Company ("WyCal"), P.O. Box 1087, Colorado Springs, Colorado 80944, pursuant to section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, and subpart E of part 157 of the Regulations of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission ("Commission"), filed in Docket No. CP90-41-000 an application for an optional expedited certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the acquisition, construction, and operation of facilities for the transportation of natural gas in interstate commerce for others. The proposed interstate pipeline system commences in southwestern Wyoming at Hams Fork and extends southwestward through a portion of Wyoming, Utah, and Nevada to a terminus near Bakersfield, California, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

WyCal states in its application that it has signed a settlement with Pacific Gas and Electric Company ("PG&E") that calls for offering transportation services utilizing capacity acquired by WyCal on certain PG&E facilities. In addition, WyCal states that it has executed a settlement agreement with Southern California Gas Company (SoCalGas) wherein SoCalGas agrees to facilitate downstream transportation of volumes of gas on behalf of WyCal shippers.

WyCal states that it has a certificate of public convenience and necessity issued in Docket No. CP87-480-000 pursuant to 18 CFR 284.221 authorizing blanket self-implementing transportation for others which it accepted by letter dated May 4, 1989.

WyCal states that because of certain developments in the market, and as a result of negotiations with potential shippers, it has determined that the market requires a range of configuration choices, in addition to and including the configuration approved by the optional expedited certificate issued in Docket No. CP87-479-000, from which to choose. WyCal states that it will retain its existing authorization in Docket No. CP87-479-000 as one of the configuration choices available to the market. WyCal states that the subject application seeks additional authorization and does not supplant, amend or otherwise modify WyCal's existing authorization granted in Docket No. CP87-479-000. WyCal filed in the subject application a Base Case, Alternative 1 and Alternative 2. WyCal states that the configurations will provide flexibility to all shippers who require transportation service, including heavy oil producers in Kern County, California.

WyCal states that the Base Case, Alternatives 1 and Alternative 2 configurations proposed provide for the transportation of 600 MMcf per day with 100 MMcf per day delivered to the Las Vegas, Nevada area (Southwest Gas Corporation) and 500 MMcf per day delivered into California. The pipeline route from Hams Fork, Wyoming to the California-Nevada border is the same for the three configurations.

WyCal's proposed route would essentially follow the route of its existing certificated configuration from the Rocky Mountain producing region to the Nevada-California border, according to WyCal. This includes the Wasatch Variation and the North Las Vegas Variation that was required by the Commission, as part of its certificate orders. However, although the configuration remains the same, the pipeline capacity of this segment up to the vicinity of Las Vegas, Nevada has been increased to 600 MMcf per day, WyCal states. As a result, WyCal would be required to construct three additional compressor stations, and to install additional compression at its previously authorized station locations.

WyCal's proposed configurations differ from WyCal's existing certificate authorizations in the following manner:

(1) The configurations are downsized to reflect a reduced level of demand for new capacity into southern California. Specifically, WyCal's design capacity under its existing authorization is set at 700 MMcf per day of transportation capacity into California; whereas, the proposed filing requests authorization for transportation of 500 MMcf per day into California.

(2) The route followed by the proposed configurations is a more direct route from Las Vegas, Nevada to Kramer Junction near Barstow, California.

(3) Under two of the proposed configurations deliveries in California may be effectuated through the faclities of local distribution companies.

The Base Case provides for an interconnection with PG&E's Line 300 near Kramer Junction, San Bernardino County, California and an approximately 18.2 mile lateral pipeline interconnecting with the facilities of SoCalGas near Newberry Springs, San Bernardino County, California ("Newberry Springs Lateral"). WyCal states that it will have an undivided interest in capacity on the PG&E pipeline system sufficient to provide firm transportation of 280 MMcf per day of natural gas from Kramer Junction to the Kern County area, and that the Newberry Springs Lateral can deliver 220 MMcf per day to SoCalGas.

Alternative 1 provides for the same interconnections with PG&E and SoCalGas; however, additional PG&E facilities would have sufficient capacity to provide up to 500 MMcf per day of firm transportation deliveries to the Kern County area. WyCal states that it will have an undivided interest in capacity on the PG&E pipeline system. Alternative 2 provides for WyCal only facilities sufficient to provide up to 500 MMcf per day to the Kern County area and 220 MMcf per day to SoCalGas.

The configurations for the Base Case, Alternative 1 and Alternative 2 are as follows, with all mileage being approximate:

The Base Case: (1) 5.9 miles of 24-inch outside diameter (O.D.) pipeline beginning at Hams Fork, Wyoming to the Round Mountain Compressor Station near Opal, Wyoming; (2) 730.2 miles of 30-inch O.D. pipeline from the Round Mountain Compressor Station and extending southwestward through Wyoming, Utah, and Nevada using the "Wasatch Variation" and the "North Las Vegas Variation" to a point near Kramer Junction, California, to interconnect with the facilities of PG&E; (3) the Newberry Springs Lateral; (4) 57.7 miles of 24-inch O.D. pipeline from the facilities of PG&E's Kern River Station to a point near Belridge, California to be known as the "Modified Taft Lateral"; and (5) capacity on PG&E facilities, including a new 30-inch O.D. pipeline loop 60.0 miles from Kramer Junction west along PG&E's Line 300, a new 11.0 miles of 30–inch O.D. pipeline loop west of Arvin in Kern County, and a new 4.4 miles of 16-inch O.D.pipeline loop along PG&E's Line 142N in Kern County. Other facilities include approximately 90,100 horsepower of compression at the six WyCal compressor stations and taps, valves, metering and other appurtenant facilities.

Alternative 1 has the same pipelines and compression facilities at the Base Case from Hams Fork, Wyoming to the interconnection with PG&E's facilities near Kramer Junction, California. From that point, the configuration includes: (1) The Newberry Springs Lateral; (2) the Modified Taft Lateral; (3) tap, valves, metering, and other appurtenant facilities; and (4) capacity on PG&E faclities comprising a new 102.7 miles of 30-inch O.D. pipeline along PG&E's Line 300 from Kramer Junction to Kern River Station and a new 4.4 miles of 16-inch O.D. pipeline loop on PG&E's Line 142N in Kern County, California.

Alternative 2 has the same pipeline and compression facilities as the Base Case and Alternative 1 from Hams Fork, Wyoming to Kramer Junction, California. From that point, the configuration includes: (1) 78.2 miles of 30-inch O.D. pipeline from Kramer Junction to a point near Arvin, California; (2) 27.9 miles of 20-inch O.D. pipeline from Arvin to a point near Bakersfield; (3) 73.1 miles of 24-inch O.D. pipeline from Arvin to a point near Belridge, California; (4) taps, valves, metering, and other appurtenant facilities, and (5) the Newberry Springs Lateral.

WyCal proposes transportation service only. WyCal proposes to transport gas for third party shippers, up to the full capacity of its proposed system, which is designed to be appoximately 600 MMcf per day to the Las Vegas, Nevada, area and 500 MMcf per day into California.

WyCal's proposed tariff incorporates two rate schedules which include a firm transportation service with a two-part rate, including a maximum reservation rate, and a one-part volumetric rate for interruptible service. All rates will be discountable between a maximum and minimum level.

The total direct and indirect capital cost of each of WyCal's configurations, including any additional PG&E facilities and line pack, is: (1) Base Case—$664,438,000; (2) Alternative 1—$686,212,000; and (3) Alternative 2—$686,994,000. The estimate is in 1991 dollars. WyCal proposes an initial capitalization ratio of 70 percent debt and 30 percent equity.

WyCal states that its proposed rates have been designed, and its proposed pro forma Tariff has been drafted, using the principles which the Commission established in its orders approving WyCal's certificated system. WyCal states that it is proposing firm and interruptible rates for each system configuration with separate zones for service within California and for service east of California. Such zoning for deliveries within California and for service east of California, WyCal states, is consistent with the Commission's recent Policy Statement in Docket No. PL89–2–000. WyCal states that the rates for the within California zone reflect an allocation of 500/600's of all the costs incurred from Wyoming to the Nevada-California border plus all of the costs in California, and the rates for the east of California zone reflect an allocation of 100/600's of all the costs incurred from Wyoming to the Nevada-California border. WyCal lists other significant factors as follows:

(1) WyCal has utilized a capitalization ratio of 70 percent debt and 30 percent equity, a 14 percent rate of return on equity and a 10.75 percent long term debt cost.

(2) WyCal has designed its rates using a throughput of 95 percent of design capacity.

(3) WyCal proposes to recover the cost of all of its facilities including its undivided interest in capacity on PG&E's facilities over a 25-year life. WyCal proposes to use a levelized rate concept whereby the cost of service remains essentially constant over the first 15 years of service.

(4) WyCal proposes a one-part volumetric rate for interruptible service, discountable between stated maximum and minimum levels. The maximum interruptible rate would be equivalent to the maximum commodity rate for firm service. WyCal proposes a two-part rate for firm service. WyCal states that its proposed Maximum Reservation Rate components recover all costs, other than variable O&M costs, return on equity and related taxes.

(5) WyCal states that it has modified its original open season in Article 3 of its General Terms and Conditions of its proposed Tariff to provide that its open season would commence 45 days after the effective date of the Commission's certificate order. Such open season, WyCal states, would apply only to capacity, if any, that remains uncommitted on WyCal's proposed system upon the commencement date of such open season.

With the exception of the three additional compressor stations proposed in the application and some additional compression at previously authorized stations, the configuration from Hams Fork, Wyoming, to Kramer Junction, California, has already been found by the Commission to be environmentally acceptable in the proceedings in Docket No. CP87–479–000, et al. The additional compressor stations, however, lie within the studied corridor. WyCal submitted an environmental report in its application to include facilities that will be constructed by PG&E as well as the limited WyCal facilities in California that have not previously been studied.

Comment date: November 13, 1989, in accordance with Standard Paragraph F at the end of this notice.

The Applicant has requested the Administrator to issue a specific exemption for the use of the fungicide, metalaxyl, available as Ridomil 2E (EPA Registration No. 100–607) from Ciba Geigy Corporation, to control downy mildew, caused by Peronospora sparsa, on 400 acres of caneberries in California.

Information in accordance with 40 CFR part 166 was submitted as part of this request. The Applicant indicates that this pathogen infects the plants during wet weather in the fall and overwinters in the roots. In the spring, the overwintering spores germinate and infect the growing canes and developing fruit. Warm, wet weather conditions are ideal for disease development. According to the Applicant, there are no pesticides currently registered for the control of downy mildew on caneberries, and without effective control, significant economic losses of thirty to fifty percent could result if mildew outbreaks occur this season. The potential dollar loss without metalaxyl for the 1989–1990 season is estimated to be over one half of a million dollars.

Metalaxyl will be applied at a maximum rate of 0.25 pounds of active ingredient per 1000 linear feet of plant row of 1.38 pounds of active ingredient per acre. Up to two applications may be made. A maximum of 1,104 pounds of active ingredient may be needed to treat a maximum of 400 acres. Applications will be completed by April 30, 1990.

This notice does not constitute a decision by EPA on the application itself. The regulations governing section 18 require that the Agency publish notice of receipt in the Federal Register and solicit public comment on an application for a specific exemption that has been requested or granted for that use in any three previous years and a complete application for registration of the use and/or a petition for a tolerance for residues in or on the commodity has not been submitted to the Agency. Use of metalaxyl on caneberries was denied in 1983 and 1984 for lack of an adequate toxicological data base and was subsequently granted in 1987, 1988, and 1989. Accordingly, interested persons may submit written views on this subject to the Field Operations Division at the address above.

The Agency, accordingly, will review and consider all comments received during the comment period in determining whether to issue the emergency exemption requested by the California Department of Food and Agriculture.

Dated: October 5, 1989.

Acting Director, Registration Division, Office of Pesticide Programs.

Proposed Revision of Washington's National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) Program Memorandum of Agreement

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency.

ACTION: Notice of modification, public comment period.

SUMMARY: On November 21, 1988, the State of Washington submitted to EPA a request for modification of their National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) Program Memorandum of Agreement (MOA). The MOA serves to outline respective program responsibilities of EPA and the state. Document revision is necessary to ensure the continuing validity of EPA's approval of Washington's NPDES program.

Washington's submittal is complete and is now available for inspection and copying. EPA requests public comments and will hold a public hearing if sufficient public interest exists.

DATE: EPA must receive comments and requests for a public hearing on or before November 29, 1989.

ADDRESS: Address comments and requests for further information to Cecil Carroll, Washington Operations Office, Environmental Protection Agency, c/o Washington Department of Ecology, PV-11, Olympia, Washington 98504.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The original MOA for the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System was entered into by EPA and Ecology on November 9, 1973. Ecology has been carrying out the NPDES program as a delegated State for the past 16 years.

Washington's MOA has been updated to reflect recent changes in the Federal Clean Water Act (CWA) and 40 CFR parts 122-125. This MOA includes a new section (Section XIV) which addresses Indian issues. This section makes clear that EPA is not delegating authority over Indian lands to the State of Washington. Additionally, the NPDES Program Description for the State of Washington was updated to reflect the revised MOA. Day to day operations under this MOA are delineated in a compliance assurance agreement.

After the close of the comment period, the Regional Administrator of EPA, with the concurrence of EPA Headquarters, will approve or disapprove this proposed modification. This decision will be based upon the contents of the submittal, all written comments received during the comment period and presented at the public hearing, if one is held, and upon meeting the requirements of 40 CFR part 123. If the modification is approved, the Regional Administrator will notify the state. Notice will be published in the Federal Register. If the Regional Administrator disapproves Washington's request for modification of the MOA, he will notify the state of the reasons for disapproval and of any revisions or modifications which are necessary to obtain approval.

The public may review Washington's application from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, at the Environmental Protection Agency, Region 10, 1200 Sixth Avenue, 10th floor Library, Seattle, Washington 98101, or at the Washington Operations Office, St. Martins Campus on College and Sixth Street, Olympia, Washington 98504. Copies of the submission may also be obtained by contacting Ms. Andi Manzo at the Seattle address listed or at (206) 442-8399.

Review Under Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Office of Management and Budget has exempted this rule from the review requirements of Executive Order 12291 pursuant to section 8(b) of that Order.

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act, EPA is required to prepare a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis for all rules which may have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities. Revision of Washington's MOA would establish no new substantive requiremetns, nor would it alter the regulatory control over any municipal or industrial category. Because this notice does not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities, a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis is not necessary.

Dated: October 12, 1989.

Robie G. Russell,

Regional Administrator, EPA Region 10.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is announcing that a temporary permit has been issued to Meadow Gold Dairies, Inc., to market test a product designated as "lite sour cream" that deviates from the U.S. standard of identity for sour cream (21 CFR 131.160). The purpose of the temporary permit is to allow the applicant to measure consumer acceptance of the product.

DATES: This permit is effective for 15 months, beginning on the date the food is introduced or caused to be introduced into interstate commerce, but not later than January 29, 1990.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Howard A. Anderson, Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition (HFF-414), Food and Drug Administration, 200 C St. SW., Washington, DC 20204, 202-485-0119.

Appendix—EIS on Marina Redevelopment Project, Port Chester, NY

The Village of Port Chester, New York intends to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) on the subject project and hereby solicits comments and information for consideration in this EIS.

Description

The site proposed for the project is located in the Port Chester central business district in an area bordered generally by North Main Street to the west, the Byram river to the east, Westchester Avenue to the South and Willett Avenue to the north. The project area encompasses approximately 17 acres.

The project as currently planned involves the construction of 165,000 sq. ft. of general retail space, 80,000 sq. ft. of office space, 30,000 sq. ft. of executive park, a 40,000 sq. ft. multiscreen cinema, 660 apartments, and parking for 1900 vehicles.

An Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) of $4.7 million will help finance the project's infrastructures including a new bulkhead and public boat docks, riverfront promenade and public open space as well as drainage and sanitary sewer improvements.

Need

The principal benefits of the project are the strengthening of the economic and commercial potential of the area, the creation and retention of jobs through the expansion of existing facilities, the provision of new public open space and recreation facilities, and the generation of new tax revenues for the Village. The project involves a cooperative effort between the Village of Port Chester and the Robert Martin Company.

Quarterly Status Tabulation of Water Service and Repayment Contract Negotiations

AGENCY: Bureau of Reclamation, Department of the Interior.

ACTION: Notice of proposed contractual actions pending through December 1989.

Pursuant to section 226 of the Reclamation Reform Act of 1982 (96 Stat. 1273), and to § 426.20 of the rules and regulations published in the Federal Register dated December 6, 1983, Vol. 48, page 54785, the Bureau of Reclamation will publish notice of proposed or amendatory repayment contract actions or any contract for the delivery of water for irrigation or other uses in newspapers of general circulation in the affected area at least 60 days prior to contract execution. The Bureau of Reclamation announcements of repayment and water service contract actions will be published in newspapers of general circulation in the areas determined by the Bureau of Reclamation to be affected by the proposed action. Announcements may be in the form of news releases, legal notices, official letters, memorandums, or other forms of written material. Meetings, workshops, and/or hearings may also be used, as appropriate, to provide local publicity. The public participation requirements do not apply to proposed contracts for the sale of surplus or interim irrigation water for a term of 1 year or less. The Secretary of the Interior or the district may invite the public to observe any contract proceedings. All public participation procedures will be coordinated with those involved in complying with the National Environmental Policy Act if the Bureau determines that the contract action may or will have "significant" environmental effects.

Pursuant to the "Final Revised Public Participation Procedures" for water service and repayment contract negotiations, published in the Federal Register dated February 22, 1982, Vol. 47, page 7763, a tabulation is provided below of all proposed contractual actions in each of the five Reclamation regions. Each proposed action listed is, or is expected to be, in some stage of the contract negotiation process during October, November, or December of 1989. When contract negotiations are completed, and prior to execution, each proposed contract form must be approved by the Secretary, or pursuant to delegated or redelegated authority, the Commissioner of Reclamation or one of the Regional Directors. In some instances, congressional review and approval of a report, water rate, or other terms and conditions of the contract may be involved. The identity of the approving officer, and other information pertaining to a specific contract proposal, may be obtained by calling or writing the appropriate regional office at the address and telephone number given for each region.

This notice is one of a variety of means being used to inform the public about proposed contractual actions. Individual notices of intent to negotiate, and other appropriate announcements, are made in the Federal Register for those actions found to have widespread public interest. When this is the case, the date of publication is given.

[Investigation No. 701–TA–299 (Final)]

Aluminum Sulfate From Venezuela

AGENCY: United States International Trade Commission.

ACTION: Institution of a final countervailing duty investigation and scheduling of a hearing to be held in connection with the investigation.

SUMMARY: The Commission hereby gives notice of the institution of final countervailing duty investigation No. 701–TA–299 (Final) under section 705(b) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1671d(b)) (the act) to determine whether an industry in the United States is materially injured, or is threatened with material injury, or the establishment of an industry in the United States is materially retarded, by reason of imports from Venezuela of aluminum sulfate, provided for in subheading 2833.22.00 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States (previously reported under item 417.16 of the Tariff Schedules of the United States), that have been found by the Department of Commerce, in its final determination, to be subsidized by the Government of Venezuela. The Commission will make its final injury determination within 75 days after receipt of Commerce's notification of its final determination (see sections 705(a) and 705(b) of the act (19 U.S.C. 1671d(a) and 1671d(b))).

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 25, 1989.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Debra Baker (202–252–1180), Office of Investigations, U.S. International Trade Commission, 500 E Street SW., Washington, DC 20436. Persons with mobility impairments who will need special assistance in gaining access to the Commission should contact the Office of the Secretary at 202–252–1000.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

This investigation is being instituted as a result of a final affirmative determination by the Department of Commerce that certain benefits which constitute subsidies within the meaning of section 701 of the act (19 U.S.C. 1671) are being provided to manufacturers, producers, or exporters in Venezuela of aluminum sulfate. This investigation was requested in a petition filed on March 29, 1989 by General Chemical de Puerto Rico, Inc., Dorado, Puerto Rico. In response to that petition the Commission conducted a preliminary countervailing duty investigation and, on the basis of information developed during the course of that investigation, determined that there was a reasonable indication that an industry in the United States was materially injured by reason of imports on the subject merchandise (54 FR 22632, May 25, 1989).

Participation in the Investigation

Persons wishing to participate in this investigation as parties must file an entry of appearance with the Secretary to the Commission, as provided in § 201.11 of the Commission's rules (19 CFR 201.11), not later than twenty-one (21) days after the publication of this notice in the Federal Register. Any entry of appearance filed after this date will be referred to the Chairman, who will determine whether to accept the late entry for good cause shown by the person desiring to file the entry.

Public Service List

Pursuant to § 201.11(d) of the Commission's rules (19 CFR 201.11(d)), the Secretary will prepare a public service list containing the names and addresses of all persons, or their representatives, who are parties to this investigation upon the expiration of the period for filing entries of appearance. In accordance with § 201.16(c) and 207.3 of the rules (19 CFR 201.16(c) and 207.3), each public document filed by a party to the investigation must be served on all other parties to the investigation (as identified by the public service list), and a certificate of service must accompany the document. The Secretary will not accept a document for filing without a certificate of service.

Limited Disclosure of Business Proprietary Information Under a Protective Order and Business Proprietary Information Service List

Pursuant to section 207.7(a) of the Commission's rules (19 CFR 207.7(a)), the Secretary will make available business proprietary information gathered in this final investigation to authorized applicants under a protective order, provided that the application be made not later than twenty-one (21) days after the publication of this notice in the Federal Register. A separate service list will be maintained by the Secretary for those parties authorized to receive business proprietary information under a protective order. The Secretary will not accept any submission by parties containing business proprietary information without a certificate of service indicating that it has been served on all the parties that are authorized to receive such information under a protective order.

Staff Report

A prehearing staff report applicable to this investigation was placed in the nonpublic record on October 13, 1989, and a public version was issued thereafter, pursuant to § 207.21 of the Commission's rules (19 CFR 207.21).

Hearing

The Commission will hold a hearing on a related antidumping investigation, Aluminum Sulfate from Venezuela, inv. No. 731–TA–431 (Final), beginning at 9:30 a.m. on October 26, 1989, at the U.S. International Trade Commission Building, 500 E Street SW., Washington, DC. At that hearing, the Commission will hear testimony and receive evidence regarding the countervailing duty investigation instituted herein. (Requests for a separate hearing in separate hearing in this investigation for the limited purpose of supplementing the October 26, 1989, hearing record with testimony and evidence solely related to the countervailing duty investigation, should be filed in writing with the Secretary to the Commission not later than the close of business (5:15 p.m.) on November 3, 1989. If such a hearing is requested, parties will be contacted regarding dates for the hearing and for the filing of briefs.)

Testimony at the public hearing is governed by § 207.23 of the Commission's rules (19 CFR 207.23). This rule requires that testimony be limited to a nonbusiness proprietary summary and analysis of material contained in prehearing briefs and to information not available at the time the prehearing brief was submitted. Any written materials submitted at the hearing must be filed in accordance with the procedures described below and any business proprietary materials must be submitted at least three (3) working days prior to the hearing (see § 201.6(b)(2) of the Commission's rules (19 CFR 201.6(b)(2))).

Written Submission

Post hearing briefs submitted by parties must conform with the provisions of § 207.24 (19 CFR 207.24) and must be submitted not later than the close of business on November 2, 1989. In addition, any person who has not entered an appearance as a party to the investigation may submit a written statement of information pertinent to the subject of the investigation on or before November 2, 1989.

Parties which obtain disclosure of business proprietary information pursuant to § 207.7(a) of the Commission's rules (19 CFR 207.7(a)) may comment on such information in their prehearing and posthearing briefs, and may also file additional written comments on such information no later than November 7, 1989. Such additional comments must be limited to comments on business proprietary information received in or after the posthearing briefs.

Authority: This investigation is being conducted under authority of the Tariff Act of 1930, title VII. This notice is published pursuant to 207.20 of the Commission's rules (19 CFR 207.20).

Introduction to the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations

REGULATORY INFORMATION SERVICE CENTER

AGENCY: Regulatory Information Service Center.

ACTION: Introduction to the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 602) requires that agencies publish semiannual regulatory agendas describing regulatory actions they are developing. Executive Order 12291 and OMB Bulletins implementing section 5 of the Executive order establish minimum standards for executive agencies' agendas, including specific types of information for each entry and publication in a uniform format. In addition, the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988 (41 U.S.C. 402) require the development and semiannual publication of a report on procurement regulations. All Federal regulatory agencies have chosen to publish their regulatory agendas as part of this Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

The following separate parts in this issue of the Federal Register are the agency agendas, which together comprise the October 1989 edition of the semiannual Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

ADDRESS: Regulatory Information Service Center, Room 5216, New Executive Office Building, 725 Seventeenth Street NW., Washington, DC 20503.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information about specific regulatory actions, please refer to the Agency Contact listed for each entry. INTRODUCTION TO THE UNIFIED AGENDA OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS

About the Unified Agenda

The Regulatory Information Service Center (the Center) compiles the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations for the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget (OMB). The Center provides information about Federal regulatory activity to the President and his Executive Office, the Congress, agency managers, and the public.

The Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs is responsible for overseeing the Federal Government's regulatory, paperwork, and information-management activities and for implementing Executive Orders 12291 "Federal Regulation" (46 FR 13193; 3 CFR 1981 Comp., p. 127) and 12498 "Regulatory Planning Process" (50 FR 1036; 3 CFR 1985 Comp., p. 323). Under E.O. 12498, OMB publishes the Regulatory Program of the United States Government each year.

The Regulatory Program is a policy document and a management tool that sets forth the priorities of the agency head and of the President regarding the Significant Regulatory Actions (SRAs) that will be conducted during the program year to which it pertains.

The Regulatory Program and the Unified Agenda differ in several ways. The Unified Agenda includes more regulatory actions because it covers all Federal agencies that issue regulations and includes almost all the rulemakings they have under development. The 1989 Regulatory Program covers only 25 of the major Federal regulatory agencies and includes only the most significant of all the regulatory actions that each agency plans to undertake. The Regulatory Program, however, describes each entry more thoroughly than the Unified Agenda.

The regulatory actions described in the Regulatory Program of the United States Government are included in this Agenda. In general, the Regulation Identifier Number (RIN) for the action is the same for both publications: however, occasionally, several Agenda entries are combined into one Program entry, and a new RIN is assigned to that entry in the Program.

The Unified Agenda provides uniform reporting of data on regulatory activities under development throughout the Federal Government. This edition of the Unified Agenda includes 56 regulatory agendas from all Federal departments, agencies, and commissions that publish agendas. Agencies of the United States Congress are not included.

Beginning with this edition, the Agenda helps fulfill the statutory requirement that the Office of Federal Procurement Policy (OFPP) publish a Procurement Regulatory Activity Report as required by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988 (102 Stat. 4055; 41 U.S.C. 402). In their agendas, agencies indicate which regulatory actions are procurement-related, as well as whether or not there is a statutory requirement or a paperwork burden associated with the procurement-related actions. Many of the procurement-related actions are included in the Unified Agenda for the first time. This procurement information will be used by OFPP to produce its report.

The Unified Agenda is produced through a computer system designed and maintained by the Center with the advice and assistance of the Government Printing Office. The system was designed to save agencies time and money by automating the preparation and printing of their agendas in a uniform format and to make the Agenda easier to use. In order to further facilitate producing the Agenda, many agencies currently use computer terminals at their offices to enter agenda information into the Center's computer system.

The Agenda contains a Subject Index to help readers locate entries from various agencies that may affect a particular area of interest. The numbers in the index refer to the sequence numbers that appear before the title of each entry in the Agenda. All entries are numbered sequentially from the beginning to the end of the Agenda.

For those agencies that requested it, the Center provided a computer-produced Table of Contents that appears after the preamble of the agency's agenda. The agency Tables of Contents help readers locate quickly those entries within an agency that may be of most interest to them.

All agendas contain uniform data elements -- regulation title, significance, legal authority, CFR citation, legal deadline, abstract, timetable, small entities affected, government levels affected, agency contact, and Regulation Identifier Number. Agencies also include any additional information they consider important. If any of the data elements is not included, the agency either did not report the information or may provide an explanation in its preamble. For further information, please contact the individual agency.

The Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations is published in April and October of each year. We welcome comments on this edition and suggestions for improving future ones.

Dated: October 1, 1989.

Mark G. Schoenberg,

Executive Director.

How to Use the Unified Agenda

Each agency agenda appears as a separate part in this edition of the Federal Register. The parts are organized alphabetically in four groups: Cabinet departments, other executive agencies, joint authorities, and independent agencies. Departments are divided into agencies, which may in turn be divided into subagencies.

Each agency begins its agenda with a preamble providing information specific to its agenda. Each agency lists its rules in four groups:

1. Prerule Stage -- actions agencies will undertake in the next 12 months to determine whether or how to initiate rulemaking. Such actions occur prior to a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking and may include Advance Notices of Proposed Rulemaking and reviews of existing regulations.

2. Proposed Rule Stage -- actions for which agencies plan to publish a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) as the next step in their rulemaking process or for which the closing date of the NPRM Comment Period is the next step.

3. Final Rule Stage -- actions for which agencies plan to publish a final rule or an interim final rule or to take other final action as the next step in their rulemaking process.

4. Completed Actions -- actions or reviews the agency completed or withdrew since publishing its last agenda. This section also includes items that were begun and completed between issues of the Unified Agenda.

An agency may use a subheading to identify regulations that it has grouped according to a particular topic. When these subheadings are used, they appear above the title of the first regulation in the group.

A bullet (●) preceding an entry indicates that the entry appears in the Agenda for the first time.

The Agenda Sequence Number preceding the title of each entry identifies the location of the entry in this edition of the Agenda. The same number is used in the index to enable readers to find entries on specific subjects. Those agencies that chose to provide a Table of Contents at the beginning of their agendas also use the sequence number in their Table of Contents. Sequence numbers should help readers easily locate items of most interest to them, either by agency or by subject.

The regulatory activities included in the agency agendas are those currently planned for the next 12 months. The agendas do not include regulations excluded from review under E.O. 12291, such as those concerning military or foreign affairs functions and regulations related to internal agency management.

Entries describing regulations in the Agenda should contain, at a minimum, the following information:

- Title of the regulation.
- Significance -- an indication of the significance of the entry that appears when:

a. The action is included in the Regulatory Program of the United States Government for the 1989 program year, or
b. the agency otherwise considers the action a priority.

The Significance heading appears only if the entry is a significant action.

- Legal Authority -- the section(s) of the United States Code (U.S.C.) or Public Law (P.L.) or the Executive order (E.O.) that authorize(s) the regulatory action (agencies may provide common name references to laws in addition to U.S.C. or P.L. references).
- CFR Citation -- the section(s) of the Code of Federal Regulations that affects or will be affected by the action.
- Legal Deadline -- an indication of whether the rule is subject to a statutory or judicial deadline, the date of that deadline, and whether the deadline pertains to an NPRM, a Final Action, or some "Other" action.
- Abstract -- a description of the problem the regulation will address; the need for a Federal solution; and, to the extent available, the alternatives that the agency is considering to address the problem and the potential costs and benefits of the action.
- Timetable -- the dates and citations (if available) for all past stages and at least the next future stage of rulemaking. If a date appears in this section as 00/00/00, it means the date of the action is presently undetermined. Similarly, 04/00/89 means the agency can predict the month and year the action will take place but not the day it will occur.
- Small Entities Affected -- indicates whether the rule is expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities" as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601) and, if so, whether the small entities are businesses, governmental jurisdictions, and/or organizations.
- Government Levels Affected -- indicates whether the rule is expected to affect levels of government and, if so, whether the governments are local, State, and/or Federal.
- Agency Contact -- the name, title, address, and phone number of a person in the agency who is knowledgeable about the regulation.
- Procurement-Related Actions -- in the Additional Information section, a statement identifying procurement-related actions and indicating whether there is a statutory requirement for the action and whether or not there is a paperwork burden associated with the action.

Some agencies have provided other optional information at their discretion.

Data Limitations

Agencies prepared entries for this edition of the Unified Agenda to give the public notice of their plans to review, propose, and issue regulations. They have tried to predict their activities over the next 12 months as accurately as possible, but dates and schedules are subject to change. Agencies may withdraw some of the regulations now under development, and they may issue or propose other regulations not included in their agendas. Agency actions in the rulemaking process may occur before or after the dates they have listed.

The Agenda does not create a legal obligation on agencies to adhere to schedules within it or to confine their regulatory activities to those regulations that appear in it. The information in this edition is accurate as of August 25, 1989, in the judgment of the submitting agencies, except as otherwise noted in individual agency preambles. Where applicable, individual actions will be subject to review for compliance with Executive Order 12291, the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the OFPP Act, and the Paperwork Reduction Act at appropriate points in the regulatory process.

List of Abbreviations

The following abbreviations appear throughout this edition of the Agenda:

ANPRM -- An Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking is a preliminary notice that an agency is considering a regulatory action. The agency issues an ANPRM before it develops a detailed proposed rule. The ANPRM describes the general area that may be subject to regulation and usually asks for public comment on the issues and options being discussed. An ANPRM is issued only when an agency believes it needs to gather more information before proceeding to a notice of proposed rulemaking.

CFR -- The Code of Federal Regulations is an annual codification of the general and permanent regulations published in the Federal Register by the departments and agencies of the Federal Government. The Code is divided into 50 titles and each title covers a broad area subject to Federal regulation. The CFR is keyed to and kept up-to-date by the daily issues of the Federal Register.

EO -- An Executive order is a directive from the President to an executive agency, issued under constitutional or statutory authority. Executive orders are published in the Federal Register and in title 3 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

FR -- The Federal Register is a daily Federal Government publication that provides a uniform system for publishing Presidential documents, all proposed and final regulations, notices of meetings, and other official documents issued by Federal departments and agencies.

FY -- The Federal fiscal year runs from October 1 to September 30.

NPRM -- A Notice of Proposed Rulemaking is the document an agency issues and publishes in the Federal Register that describes and solicits public comments on a proposed regulatory action. Under the Administrative Procedure Act, an NPRM must include, at a minimum:

- A statement of the time, place, and nature of the public rulemaking proceeding;
- a reference to the legal authority under which the rule is proposed; and
- either the terms or substance of the proposed rule or a description of the subjects and issues involved.

PL -- A Public Law is a law passed by Congress and signed by the President or enacted over his veto. It has general applicability, as opposed to a private law that applies only to those persons or entities specifically designated. Public laws are numbered in sequence throughout the two-year life of each Congress; for example, P.L. 97-17 would be the 17th public law of the 97th Congress.

RFA -- A Regulatory Flexibility Analysis (RFA) describes the impact of a proposed rule on small entities, as required by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601). An RFA describes why the agency is considering the action; the objectives of and legal basis for the proposed rule; an estimate of the number of small entities that could be affected and the compliance requirements they would have to fulfill; any other duplicative, overlapping, or conflicting Federal rules; and alternatives to the proposed action. When required, an initial RFA accompanies an NPRM, and a final RFA accompanies a final rule.

RIA -- A Regulatory Impact Analysis is required by E.O. 12291 for all major rules and other regulations designated by the Office of Management and Budget. An RIA is prepared to determine whether a proposed regulatory action meets the requirements of section 2 of E.O. 12291, namely that it:

- Be based on adequate information concerning the need for and consequences of the action;
- not be undertaken unless the potential benefits outweigh the potential costs to society;
- maximize net benefits to society;
- entail the least net cost to society of the alternatives considered; and
- take into account the condition of particular affected industries, the national economy, and contemplated future regulatory actions.

RIN -- The Regulation Identifier Number is assigned by the Regulatory Information Service Center to identify each regulatory action listed in the Agenda.

USC -- The United States Code is a consolidation and codification of all general and permanent laws of the United States. The U.S.C. is divided into 50 titles and each title covers a broad area of Federal law.

Determinations are also to be made on (1) a land diversion program, (2) advance deficiency/diversion payments, (3) purchase of marketing certificates under marketing loan, (4) loan deficiency payments, (5) inventory reduction program (half-ARP), and (6) loan rate adjustments (loan differentials). The expected cost to USDA will likely range from $0.8 to $1.1 billion.

The support level for wool is set by statutory formula. Determination is to be made on the support level for mohair, which may not be more than 15 percent above or below the comparable percentage of parity at which shorn wool is supported. Legal Authority: 7 USC 1446(b); The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, Sec 201(b)

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1434.26; 7 CFR 1434.27

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Legislation requires that 1990-crop honey be supported at 95 percent of the 1989 level, or $0.5402 per pound. This price support level must be further reduced by $0.0025 per pound under the provisions of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987. Legislation also provides the Secretary with the discretion to allow loan repayment at a rate below the support level. The objective of a lower repayment rate is to (1) minimize loan forfeitures, (2) avoid excessive stocks, (3) reduce Federal storage costs, and (4) maintain the competitiveness of U.S. honey in domestic and export markets. Determinations to be made are (1) the type of support to offer (loans, purchases, or loans and purchases), and (2) implementation of the lower repayment provision. Federal outlays are expected to be less than $60 million if the lower repayment provision is adopted.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 714b and 714c; 7 USC 1441 et seq; 7 USC 1359; 7 USC 1375

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1446

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action would amend the regulations to allow export credits for crushing sound mature kernels (SMK) and sound split (SS) kernels. This action is needed because current regulations do not provide non-physically supervised handlers an alternative market for SMK and SS kernels other than the export market. An alternative market is needed when the export market is lost or when the peanuts become ineligible for export due to aflatoxin contamination.

Alternatives considered are: (1) Permit a one-time switch to physically supervised crushing of SMK and SS peanuts, regardless of quality, (2) permit prorated credit (based on ratio of contract additional peanuts purchased to total peanuts purchased) for peanuts crushed due to aflatoxin contamination, (3) permit a one-time switch to physically supervised crushing of peanuts that meet edible export standards. No cost to Government is expected.

Abstract: To provide an adequate feed grain supply for domestic and foreign utilization, support farm income, combat inflation, hold down Federal costs, conserve natural resources, and comply with statutory requirements. Primary determinations to be made are (1) loan and purchase rates--probable range of $1.57-$1.96/bu for corn, with rates for other feed grains set in relation to that for corn, (2) target prices--not less than $2.75/bu for corn, with rates for other feed grains set in relation to that for corn, and (3) acreage adjustment--not less than 12.5% nor more than 20%, if corn carryin is projected to exceed 2 billion bu. Decisions also to be made on whether to implement (1) a paid land diversion, (2) a marketing loan, (3) a half-compliance program, (4) incentives for farmers to participate in the FOR, and (5) price support for corn silage. The cost to USDA will likely range from $6.0-$8.0 billion.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1430; The Agricultural Act of 1949, Sec 201, as amended

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1430

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, January 1, 1990.

24. 1990-CROP BURLEY TOBACCO MARKETING QUOTAS AND PRICE SUPPORT LEVEL

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1314; The Agricultural Act of 1938, as amended, Sec 314; 7 USC 1445; The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1949, as amended, Sec 106

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, February 1, 1990.

Abstract: Burley marketing quotas and price support are required by legislation. The purpose of quotas and price support is to balance supply with demand at levels assuring stable supplies for domestic and export use at prices that are fair to producers. The national quota is based on manufacturers' intentions, 3-year average exports, an adjustment to maintain loan stocks, and a discretionary adjustment of plus or minus 3 percent. The price support level is based on a formula that weighs average market prices (2/3) and a cost index (1/3), plus discretion to limit any increase to 65 percent of the formula increase. Federal net outlays for the 1990-crop burley tobacco program are expected to be approximately $35 million in FY 1990. These outlays will be offset by receipts in FY 1991.

Abstract: Under the Scrapie Eradication Program and the regulations in 9 CFR Part 54, indemnity for an animal destroyed because of scrapie, a highly transmissible and fatal disease of the central nervous system of sheep and goats, is paid to its owner at fair market value, not to exceed $300 per head. Under the present program, indemnities are paid for affected and bloodline animals only. There is no diagnostic test for the disease and no treatment. The existing Scrapie Eradication Program is not federally mandated and depends upon state efforts and funds, industry cooperation, and reporting by flock owners. APHIS is considering the regulatory option of negotiated rulemaking in order to develop a program which will satisfy animal health needs, industry needs, and State and Federal governmental needs.

Abstract: Exotic Newcastle Disease (also known as viscerotropic velogenic Newcastle disease and as VVND) and pscittacosis or ornithosis (now generally referred to as chlamydiosis) are communicable diseases of birds and poultry. The spread of these diseases in the United States could have serious consequences for the United States poultry industry. A review of the Department's regulations to prevent the interstate spread of these diseases indicates the need for a complete revision to make the regulations more effective and to increase compliance with them.

Abstract: An increased number of exotic pests have been introduced recently into the United States. Some of these pests may have arrived on importations of fruits and vegetables. Since these pests are capable of causing extensive economic damage, APHIS is considering the development of an improved system for determining the entry status of agricultural products, particularly fruits and vegetables.

Abstract: The Department is proposing to revise "Subpart--Imported Fire Ant," which contains quarantine and interstate movement regulations for the containment and control of this destructive plant pest. Executive Order 12291 and Department Regulation 1512-1 require that agencies initiate reviews of currently effective rules to bring about the goal of reduction of regulatory burdens and to minimize impacts on small entities. The proposed rule is part of the scheduled review of "Subpart--Imported Fire Ant" to meet regulatory review requirements. Revising the regulations would make them easier to understand, thereby increasing compliance and the effectiveness of the regulations in preventing the interstate spread of the imported fire ant.

USDA—APHIS Proposed Rule Stage

Abstract: 1. Animals imported from countries know or believed to be affected with certain exotic diseases must be quarantined in the Harry S Truman Animal Import Center (HSTAIC). This facility cannot accommodate all requested importations per calendar year. The Department is proposing to establish a lottery system whereby importers would be selected to be granted exclusive use of HSTAIC. This lottery system would establish an equitable and orderly means of allotting space at HSTAIC. 2. Animals imported through HSTAIC must first be quarantined in an embarkation quarantine facility (EQF) in the country of origin. Currently the Department approves only one EQF per continent. The Department is proposing to provide for approval of a separate EQF per importation, and to establish standards for approval of EQF's. This change would reduce the logistical complexities of exporting animals from their country of origin.

Abstract: Swine moving in interstate commerce may be adulterated with drug and other chemical residue levels higher than the allowed tolerance and may be spreading diseases. Mandatory identification of swine allows APHIS to locate sources of infection in order to eradicate and contain disease and allows the Food Safety Inspection Service (FSIS) to more easily determine the source of adulterated meat and prevent its consumption. The current regulations require identification of swine when entered into interstate commerce. The Department is proposing to amend the regulations to allow this identification to be carried out at various specified points in marketing channels. This amendment would allow for effective traceback of diseased or contaminated swine without unnecessarily disrupting standard marketing procedures.

Abstract: In 1985 Congress amended the Animal Welfare Act, 7 USC 2131 et seq., and required the Secretary of Agriculture to promulgate regulations and standards governing the humane handling, housing, care, treatment, and transportation of certain animals by dealers, research facilities, operators of auction sales, carriers, and intermediate handlers. The standards and regulations will provide minimum requirements with respect to handling, housing, feeding, sanitation, veterinary care, and other related matters. APHIS is proposing to amend, revise, and expand the "Standards" relating to dogs and cats, guinea pigs and hamsters, and nonhuman primates, and will include provisions for exercise of dogs and for promoting the psychological well-being of primates.

USDA research agencies plan to promote adherence to the biotechnology research guidelines by announcing that it is their policy that researchers employed or funded by USDA adhere to the guidelines.

Agricultural field tests of biotechnology modified organisms may have potential impacts on the environment. Therefore, USDA plans to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for the guidelines. Public hearings and document availabilities related to the EIS will be announced in the Federal Register.

Abstract: The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) proposes to revise the regulation for the recapture of subsidy granted on Section 502 Rural Housing Loans. This action is necessary because of an accounting system change resulting from the September 1987 congressionally mandated rural housing asset sale. The intended effect of this action is to adjust the formula to coincide with the revised method of applying monthly subsidy to interest credit accounts. In addition, this action will also shorten and simplify the recapture process.

Will avoid "tie-up" of the regulations for one program subject to changes mandated by legislation or court order for another program, such as SFH changes being held up subject to Farmer Program changes being completed as has frequently been the case.

Abstract: Legislation mandates that the Secretary develop procedures to facilitate, administrate and promote secondary market operations for FmHA guaranteed farm loans. It is suggested that the Secretary, directly or through a market maker, provide for the pooling of guaranteed loans and the issuance and sale of certificates backed by those loan pools. Through this procedure, secondary market activities could be promoted and expanded, thereby increasing the supply of loan money in rural areas -- allowing rural banks to increase their lending activity to farmers, rural businessmen and residents. Obtaining the services of a private agent to act as a central registry and fiscal agent -- coordinating fund flows from lenders to pool investors; handling pool formations and executions, issuance and ownership of pool shares, and monitoring of loan payments -- is the favored alternative expected to successfully meet the legislative mandate. FmHA would act as the facilitator, arranging for the creation of this private market activity, (cont)

Most of the changes are retroactive for Fiscal Year 1985 Quality Control payment error rate liability claims.

Abstract: This regulatory action is required because the Hunger Prevention Act of 1988 (PL 100-435) modified the Food Stamp Program quality control (QC) system provisions of the Food Stamp Act of 1977, as amended. Section 602 requires that State agencies be charged interest on unpaid QC payment error rate (PER) liability claims from the date the billing is received by the State agency, unless the State agency appeals the billing. If the State agency appeals, interest will begin to accrue from the date of the appeal decision or 2 years from the date the billing is received by the State agency, whichever is earlier. Section 604 revised the provisions for paying State agencies enhanced administrative funds for low PERs. It also revises the threshold for State agencies' liabilities for excessive payment error rates. Finally, it provides that PER liability claims will be assessed based on a State agency's total allotments issued, rather than as a percentage of administrative costs. (89-001)

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: The Food Stamp Act of 1977, as amended; 7 USC 2011 to 2029

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 273.1; 7 CFR 273.7

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule will clarify several aspects of the Food Stamp Program Employment and Training Rule published December 31, 1986, and will accomplish minor corrections in other portions of this rule. The clarifications and corrections are the result of program experience gained through the initial operations of a program component entirely new to the Food Stamp Program as a whole.

The Department is concerned that current regulations may be inequitable to State by mandating that they use the full October 1988 count of mandatory E&T participants in computing the base on which the Fiscal Year 1989 first reporting period 35 percent E&T placement standard will be applied. This procedure inflates State placement obligations for this period and makes it difficult for them to meet these obligations. The Department is also concerned that current regulations permit States agencies some latitude in counting individuals as "placed" in E&T programs for performance measurement purposes. This results in individuals being counted as "placed" in E&T programs more than once and inflates State placement success rates. This proposed rule implements (cont)

Abstract: This rule establishes procedures for State agencies to use to participate in the Systematic Alien Verification for Entitlements (SAVE) system. As required by IRCA, the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) implemented this system. IRCA requires the Food Stamp Program (FSP) and certain other entitlement programs to use SAVE to verify the immigration status of aliens applying for benefits. Such use is mandatory by October 1, 1988, and this addresses use during that period. The rule also provides guidelines for Federal reimbursement of administrative costs. In addition the rule implements nondiscretionary provisions of IRCA requiring all household members to attest to their citizenship or alien status and certain requirements relating to documentation of alien status. Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat inspection regulations to establish specific requirements concerning processing procedures used in the production of semi-dry and dry fermented sausages. Currently, the Agency has only general requirements concerning the processing procedures for these products. This proposal will provide that a manufacturer of semi-dry and/or dry fermented sausages use either a model good manufacturing practice (GMP) procedure with specified or described critical control points, process control limits, and monitoring activities; or an approved processing procedure from a processing authority who would define the critical control points, process control limits, and monitoring activities for each processing procedure. In addition, the proposal requires that all processes for semi-dry and/or dry fermented sausages comply with a set of validation criteria to assure the product is not adulterated. The proposed rule provides the necessary processing requirements to assure that the production of fermented meat food products does not result in adulterated products.

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat inspection regulations to permit the use of food starch modified and other binders as water retention agents in cured pork products. FSIS has been petitioned by the Corn Refiners Association, Inc., Washington, DC, for the approval of food starch modified at a rate not to exceed 2 percent to enable ham processors to formulate products which will better meet the needs of consumers and food service operators. FSIS is amending the regulations to add this binder to the table of approved substances as requested by the petitioner. FSIS is also amending the regulations to add several other binders for use as water retention agents in cured pork products.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 451 et seq; 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 318; 9 CFR 381

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations to require establishments to treat certain dried, ready-to-eat meat and poultry products to eliminate microbial contamination. Past food-poisoning outbreaks from dried meat products confirm that present processing requirements do not assure that the finished product is free from contamination by salmonellae. Treatment would assure the destruction of infectious disease bacteria, such as Salmonella, often present on the raw ingredients. The proposed rule would cover all dried ready-to-eat meat and poultry products except fermented sausages and dry cured hams and pork shoulders treated by one of the processing methods in section 318.10(c)(3) (ii), (iii), or (iv) of the Federal meat inspection regulations. The required treatment would either be a lethal heating step, a combination curing and heating process, or an alternate processing method which establishments have shown to be effective. The proposed rule would also contain provisions to prevent contamination of treated product by direct or indirect contact with untreated product.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 309; 9 CFR 320

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat inspection regulations to permit an alternate method of ante-mortem inspection of disabled animals. This method would allow a transport vehicle to be an extension of an official establishment's premises for purposes of ante-mortem inspection of disabled animal(s) that are within the vehicle. FSIS received a request from the Western States Meat Association, Oakland, California, to allow ante-mortem inspection of disabled animals to be performed on a transport vehicle. This proposed rule would (1) specify establishment responsibilities for maintaining control over the transport vehicle, for providing proper ante-mortem inspection facilities, for complying with the veterinary disposition, and for providing assistance to the veterinary Medical Officer when performing the ante-mortem inspection; (2) prescribe the facility requirements needed for safe ante-mortem inspection of disabled animals; and (3) provide the requirements for the written request for this inspection.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 21 USC 451 et seq; 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 327; 9 CFR 381

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations to provide administrative procedures whereby a foreign country may petition FSIS to be exempted from certain specified inspection requirements. FSIS has received several requests for exemption from specific regulations and procedures to assure that the foreign inspection program will maintain its eligibility to export product to the United States. Present meat and poultry products inspection regulations do not contain a procedure that advises how such requests should be made. Exemption requests are received in various forms and with a variety of information included, and as a result unnecessary time and effort is expended to develop an exemption request in the proper form for consideration. This action will provide a procedure for the submission of exemption requests from countries exporting product to the United States and to permit a timely Agency response.

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations to provide consistency of existing provisions and ensure enforceability of the requirements for controlling pests such as flies, rodents, insects, and vermin in official establishments. In the past, establishments used pesticides as the primary means of controlling pests. Presently, establishments rely on the use of primary controls to prevent pests from entering an establishment; that is, they use such techniques as preventive construction, maintenance and sanitation. Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat inspection regulations to permit the use of compressed air or other gases such as nitrogen and carbon dioxide in boning operations as requested by several establishments. Tests indicate that this would facilitate the separation of muscle tissue from the fat tissue and bone of carcasses and parts without affecting the wholesomeness of the product.

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat inspection regulations to permit the use of ascorbic acid, erythorbic acid, citric acid, sodium citrate, and sodium ascorbate, to maintain the color in fresh beef and lamb. Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule will amend the Federal meat inspection regulations to withdraw the country of Panama from the list of countries eligible to import meat products such as cattle, sheep, swine, and goats into the United States. This action is necessary since Panama did not certify that any plants met U.S. standards in 1988; it has not conducted any residue testing and therefore did not receive residue certification in 1988, and reliance cannot be placed upon the certifications required of Panamanian authorities under the Federal Meat Inspection Act. Therefore, Panama's inspection system cannot be considered "equal to" the U.S. inspection system and FSIS is obliged to withdraw the country of Panama from the list of countries eligible for importation of its products into the United States.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 307; 9 CFR 310

Abstract: This rule will improve post-mortem inspection procedures for cattle which will result in maximum inspection efficiency and increased productivity. By modernizing cattle inspection procedures, FSIS would increase its inspection productivity while assuring that only wholesome meat enters domestic commerce.

It is anticipated that the meat industry will experience a net gain if this system of inspection is implemented in spite of the initial costs of facility modifications which may be necessary in some establishments. Savings to the industry as a whole should occur because of increased productivity and reduced overtime.

Abstract: This rule will amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations to better define which substances should be permitted to be labeled as "flavors," "natural flavors," or "spices" on packages of meat and poultry products. This rule addresses the use of substances which are often added to products for the purpose of serving as flavor enhancers, emulsifiers, stabilizers, binders, extenders, and as nutrients. Most of the substances that would be affected by the proposed rule are proteinaceous materials, having nutritional value, and which may be considered foods, in their own right. This rule will require that these substances be identified by their common or usual names, thereby informing consumers of the origin of these materials including the species and specific animal tissues from which they are derived, if animal in origin. Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule will require specific certification language, advise certifying parties of the consequences of false statements, and include custodians as well as producers as parties to certification. These changes will improve the effectiveness of the voluntary certifications by providing uniformity to certifications and warnings about false statements. Because of increasing high levels of antibiotic and sulfonamide residues found in young veal calves, the Food Safety and Inspection Service in 1984 initiated intensified inplant testing procedures to prevent adulterated meat from entering consumer channels. These procedures provide for a voluntary written certification program that allows for less intense testing of calves certified as not having been treated with drugs, or if so, that prescribed label directions were followed. More recently the Office of the Inspector General recommended that the Agency develop a standard form for the certified calf program.

Abstract: This rule will make Federal and State weights and measures procedures and techniques more consistent, objective and equitable. USDA will adopt the National Bureau of Standards Handbooks 133 and 44 as its standards. This amendment will recognize a fixed amount of acceptable moisture loss by product. This will replace the term "reasonable variation." Moreover the amendment will grant concurrent jurisdiction to State and local authorities to enforce net weight labeling of federally inspected meat and poultry products within their geographic area. The amendment will promote uniform treatment of moisture loss and weights and measures standards as well as encourage and enable greater State and local participation.

Abstract: This rule will add a new exception to the requirement that the list of ingredients on the labels of meat food products shall show the common or usual names of the ingredients. The exception would apply to the use of Mechanically Separated (Species) (MS(S)), at levels no greater than ten percent of the livestock and poultry product portion of a meat food product, providing that the labeling of such product bear a calcium content declaration in accordance with section 317.2(j)(13)(ii) of the Federal meat inspection regulations (9 CFR 317.2(j)(13) (ii)). Abstract: This final rule will amend the poultry products inspection regulations to permit the use of a binder matrix in ground and formed poultry products. FSIS has been petitioned by the Colorado State University Research Foundation, Fort Collins, Colorado, to approve these substances as ingredients which, in combination at specific ratios, have the technical effect of binding ground poultry pieces together to produce formed poultry products. This rule will also establish (1) holding temperature and time requirements for raw meat used for cooked, uncured meat patties; (2) internal temperature and time combination processing requirements for fully and partially-cooked, uncured meat patties which are char-marked with heat but remain raw; (3) a requirement that a cooking instruction be placed on the label of partially-cooked and char-marked, uncured patties, instructing the final preparer to cook the patties to a well done state (a minimum internal meat temperature of 160 degrees Fahrenheit); and (4) requirements to assure that fully-cooked, uncured meat patties are not contaminated after cooking. Legal Authority: 21 USC 451 et seq; 21 USC 601 et seq

Abstract: This rule will amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations to define the terms "importation" and "entry" to clarify when imported product becomes subject to U.S. requirements. Once product offered for importation has been reinspected by FSIS inspectors and the official mark of inspection has been applied, FSIS considers that such product has been entered into the U.S. and is the regulatory equivalent of domestic product. This action is a result of recent litigation which indicated the need for clarification of terms with respect to USDA's interpretation of provisions of the Federal Meat Inspection Act and the regulations thereunder concerning at what point FSIS considers imported products to be domestic products.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 21 USC 451 et seq; 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 327; 9 CFR 381

Abstract: This rule will amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations to provide "streamlined" inspection procedures for the reinspection of Canadian meat and poultry products and by exempting Canadian meat and poultry products offered for importation from the requirement that such product and/or containers of product be marked with the official mark of inspection once they are passed for entry into the United States. These actions stemmed from the Canada-United States Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act of 1988, Pub. L. 100-449. These actions specifically responded to one goal of the Agreement whereby both countries are charged with liberalizing agriculture trade practices by seeking ways to eliminate technical or procedural requirements which now may serve to impede trade in agricultural products.

189. ISOLATED CABIN POLICY

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 551; 16 USC 497

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Agency policy is to terminate isolated cabin authorizations on National Forest System land that were constructed without advance authorization and subsequently authorized by special use permit. These cabins are used for part- or full-time occupancy. These cabins differ from recreation residences which were established in tracts specific for this purpose and built with Agency approval and supervision. Isolated cabins originated in several ways, including encroachment and mining claims. They restrict management of the surrounding National Forest land and deprive the public from the use and enjoyment of the land actually occupied and the surrounding area. The action proposed is to seek input from the public as to whether the present policy should be continued, or whether it should be revised so as to examine each isolated occupancy and determine whether, in the interests of fairness and equity, the cabin should be converted to a recreation residence. Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: This proposal to revise current policy was originally included in proposed policy on recreation residences (52 FR 206-208). Public comments and continuing discussions with recreation residence permittees on that policy revealed widely divergent views on the Agency's policy, strongly suggesting that isolated cabins be treated separately from recreation residences. Therefore, so as not to delay implementation of final policy on recreation residences, a decision was made to seek additional public comment on the isolated cabin policy before a decision is made to revise the policy.

Abstract: The agency will undertake a review of its existing regulations at 36 CFR 294.1 that provide for the setting aside of areas of National Forests, other than Wilderness or wild areas, which should be managed principally for recreation. The rule establishes size classes for areas that may or may not be designated by the Chief of the Forest Service and the Secretary of Agriculture; describes examples of the types of areas that might be set aside, and provides for clearly marking these areas on the ground. Areas classified under this section are set apart and reserved for public recreation use and such classification constitutes a formal closing of the area to any use or occupancy inconsistent with the classification.

193. ● RECREATION RESIDENCE AUTHORIZATION POLICY

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 497

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 251

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The policy for administering recreation residences on National Forest lands was adopted August 16, 1988 (53 FR 30924) and subsequently appealed under the administrative appeal process (36 CFR 211.18). In rendering his decision on the appeal the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Natural Resources and Environment suspended certain provisions related to tenure and the offering of in-lieu sites; designated the remaining features interim policy; and directed the Chief of the Forest Service to review and reconsider the entire policy (54 FR 23499: June 1, 1989). The policy is being reconsidered and alternatives are being developed. The purpose of the policy is to improve the administration of recreation residence permits and implement a revised fee schedule that obtains fair market value for the use. The policy affects about 15,800 permittees.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: PL 94-588, Sec 14; 16 USC 472a

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 223, Subpart C

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Currently, suspension and debarment of timber purchasers means the debarred entity is prevented from bidding or being awarded Forest Service timber sale contracts. Recently, suspended and/or debarred purchasers have been serving as subcontractors on Forest Service timber sale contracts, or acting as purchaser's representatives to receive notices and to take action on contracts. This has the effect of negating the suspension/debarment action, which is to protect the Government. The rule will be revised to prevent suspended and/or debarred purchasers from serving as subcontractors or purchaser representatives.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 472a; 16 USC 618

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 223.52; 36 CFR 223.50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Federal Timber Sale Contract Payment Modification Act directs the Forest Service to require purchasers to make down payments and periodic payments on timber sales. The objective of these requirements is to discourage speculative bidding on National Forest System timber sales. A rule published 10/11/85 at 50 FR 41498 requires cash down payments and a midpoint payment. However, to fully comply with the Act, additional rules are required. This rule will identify the requirements for down payments, periodic payments, and market-related contract term additions. This rule will eliminate discounting and the requirement to hold a down payment until the last timber is removed. Based on comments received the agency has decided to issue a new proposed rule. In addition, the Government's position with respect to performance bonds will be strengthened by elimination of the $500,000 ceiling; providing for two-track bonding procedures, i.e. 20 percent upfront bond with reduction in amount as purchaser harvests; increasing the bid guarantee to 10 percent of the advertised value; assessing damages in the amount of bid guarantee or the difference between bid (cont)

The dates projected are for proposed and final rules revising 36 CFR 222, Subpart A-grazing and livestock use. No further rulemaking activity is planned on Subpart B. Abstract: The objective of this rulemaking is to conform the rule to the requirements of 3 laws approved since the regulation was revised in 1980. These laws include special provisions for authorizing irrigation and livestock watering facilities constructed prior to 1976, electrical and telephone facilities financed pursuant to the Rural Electrification Act of 1936, and special uses in Alaska. In addition, the proposed rulemaking will clarify applicant responsibilities for providing data and studies needed to process a special use application and will provide for the advanced payment of land use rental fees for longer time periods, including the life of the special use authorization. That portion of this action relating to collection of reimbursable costs for processing special use applications is being deferred and will be addressed as a new action in a future agenda. Proposed Rule Stage

Legal Authority: 16 USC 535; 16 USC 551; 16 USC 472a; 16 USC 607A; 16 USC 618; 42 USC 4461

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The present timber sale contract Form FS-2400-6 was developed in September 1973, and the Form FS-2400-6T was developed in October 1973. Since these dates several Acts, Laws, and policy changes have necessitated deletion of existing provisions and inserting supplemental provisions. The need to revise these documents has been recognized since the late 1970's. The revision will provide for clarification of provisions to reduce the potential for disputes between purchasers and the Forest Service. There will be no changes in the basic contract concepts except those dictated by law, regulation, and related policy. Comments from interested individuals and organizations will be utilized, as appropriate, in the formulation of the provision language.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 16 USC 473 to 475; 16 USC 477 to 482; 16 USC 551; 16 USC 528 to 531; 90 Stat. 2949 as amended

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 228, Subparts F to H (New)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: These subparts will set forth the rules by which the Forest Service will process and respond to proposals received from the Department of the Interior (DOI) for the issuance of mineral licenses, prospecting permits and leases, and for the approval of operating plans. The Forest Service has no regulations at this time which have resulted in inconsistent and untimely responses to the DOI. The only other alternative considered is not to promulgate regulations. Public costs are insignificant but public benefits could be substantial in that proposals should be processed more efficiently.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 551; 43 USC 1761

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 251.54; 36 CFR 251.57

Abstract: Regulations are needed to reduce confusion regarding the role of the Forest Service in permitting hydroelectric uses on National Forest System lands. The objective of the rules will be to establish procedures, compatible with the procedures of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) for obtaining various approvals and involvement of the Forest Service in a timely manner.

In addition, the rules will establish a fee system for hydroelectric uses as required by Title V, Section 501 of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976. A Notice of Proposed Policy was published 6/8/84 and comments were received. The proposed rule will take those comments into account.

Abstract: To facilitate the orderly development of locatable minerals on the National Forest System public domain in an environmentally sound manner. Since the regulations were promulgated in 1974, certain legal requirements have changed due to the provisions of the Wilderness Act and recent court decisions; some sections of the regulations no longer apply and revisions and updating are necessary. Major changes proposed will specifically address the requirements for wilderness operations and, secondly, will clarify the mechanism for administering locatable mineral activities not conducted on mining claims but which are nevertheless authorized by the 1872 mining law.

Abstract: These rules describe awards the Forest Service is authorized to make for information leading to arrest and convictions of persons who start fires or otherwise destroy property on National Forests. Subpart B sets forth rules governing impoundment or removal of unauthorized personal property from National Forest System lands.

Review has focused on the adequacy of the rules for administration of the National Forests and has revealed the need for minor revisions. The agency is now developing a proposed rule in response to the review.

Abstract: These rules declare the range of unacceptable public behavior when visiting or using National Forest System lands. Among topics covered are prohibitions on setting campfires in certain areas, unlawful cutting of trees, and other unlawful uses of resources and property of the National Forest System. Violations of these prohibitions carry legal penalties.

Review has examined the adequacy of the rules for administration of the National Forest System and whether changes in conditions, laws, or other factors require revision. The agency has completed its review and is now preparing a proposed rule to revise the prohibitions.

207. REVISE SMALL TRACTS ACT REGULATIONS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 521c-i

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 254, "Subpart C"

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Implementation of the agency's Small Tracts regulations has revealed an inadvertent inconsistency between the regulations at 36 CFR 254.35(f) and 254.41(a) and the legislative history of the Small Tracts Act of January 12, 1983. The regulations imply that the disposal of mineral fractions by sale can only be made in response to an application from an abutting landowner, thus discouraging the conveyance by sale to the public. The Act clearly authorizes sale of mineral fractions to the public through public sale, as well as individual applications, provided that certain conditions are met. The revisions will clarify the application of the Act to ensure that both individual applications and public sale are permissible means of disposing of qualifying tracts.

208. REVISE RULES GOVERNING SPECIAL USES OF NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM LANDS AND RESOURCES AT 36 CFR 251 TO REMOVE AMBIGUITIES REGARDING FIRST AMENDMENT RIGHTS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 472, 551, 1134, 3210; 30 USC 185; 43 USC 1740, 1761 to 1771

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: A Federal District Court has ruled that existing regulations discriminate against groups who wish to gather on National Forests to exercise their first amendment rights of assembly and free speech. The proposed rule will seek to remove ambiguities regarding these first amendment rights.

The agency is reviewing the rules of other Federal land managing agencies for possible approaches and is considering establishing separate rules for authorizing short-term, noncommercial uses of National Forests.

There will be no additional costs as a result of the proposed rule change. The benefit will be that the Forest Service will be able to adequately regulate large group use on the National Forests in a manner that ensures protection of the public health and safety and National Forest resources.

209. HELL'S CANYON NATIONAL RECREATION AREA - PRIVATE LANDS

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 292, Subpart E (New)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Forest Service proposes to issue regulations concerning use of private lands in the Hell's Canyon National Recreation Area (HCNRA) on the Oregon - Idaho border, as required in PL 94-199. The intended effect of this action is to establish standards for use and development of privately owned lands within the HCNRA.

The standards are intended to achieve the following management objectives for the Recreation Area: (1) The conservation and continuance of forest land for forest uses and farm land for farm uses; (2) The maintenance and protection of the free flowing nature of rivers within the HCNRA; (3) Conservation of scenic, wilderness, cultural, scientific, and other values contributing to the public benefit; (4) Preservation, especially in the area generally known as Hell's Canyon, of all features and peculiarities believed to be biologically unique; (5) Protection and maintenance of fish and wildlife habitat; (6) Protection of archaeological and paleontological sites; (7) Preservation of historic sites associated with and typifying the economic and social history of the region (cont)

210. SOLID WASTE DISPOSAL POLICY

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 497; 43 USC 931c

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Solid waste disposal sites (sanitary landfills) on National Forest System lands present the potential for resource degradation, hazardous waste dumping, and future liability. A proposal for solid waste disposal is being developed to reflect changes which have occurred as a result of the Resource and Conservation Recovery Act, the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act, and an increased knowledge of solid waste disposal. The proposal would prohibit the authorization of new sites and provide for the phase out of existing sites. During the phase out period, authorizations would be amended to provide resource protection and limit the Government's potential liability. In situations where National Forest System lands provide the best location for solid waste disposal, land exchange and/or purchase will be considered. Adoption of this policy would reduce administrative costs associated with administration of solid waste disposal sites, limit future liability, and protect the resources on National Forest System lands. The proposal would impact 110 sites currently authorized.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 472a; 16 USC 528 to 531; 16 USC 1600 et seq; 12 USC 1 et seq

Abstract: In a 1987 court decision, a letter of credit issued in lieu of surety bond was found to be unenforceable because the person who signed the letter of credit did not have authority to do so and because the bank had violated State law in regard to limits of liability. Others were invalid because they exceeded the expiration date. To remedy this problem, the Forest Service is proposing to issue Handbook directions that will require the bank president to certify as to the authority of the person signing the letter of credit and the conformance with State and Federal statutes. An automatic extension of the expiration date would also be required.

212. RESERVED AND OUTSTANDING MINERAL RIGHTS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 16 USC 551

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 228, Subpart B

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Substantial acreage of National Forest System land is underlain by privately owned mineral deposits. During extraction of the mineral resources, the mineral owner is required to take measures to protect Federal surface resource values. The Forest Service must analyze the effects of the proposed mineral extraction and determine what mitigation measures should be specified. Currently, there are no regulations describing the process to be followed by the Forest Service or the private mineral owner.

The regulatory approach has not yet been determined. A working group will be formed in February 1989 to determine the scope, form, and details to be included in a proposed rule.

affiliates in order to continue to be awarded Forest Service timber sale contracts. Unless the bidder voluntarily identifies affiliates, the Agency must make the determination through a time consuming process prior to award, prior to determining if double downpayment rules apply, and prior to taking debarment action. Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 43 USC 1764 Federal Land Policy and Management Act

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 251.57

Abstract: The Forest Service proposes to change the policy and procedure for determining the land use rental fees for dams and reservoirs located on National Forests lands that are authorized by special use authorizations. This would eliminate the need for individual appraisals of reservoir areas and would reduce the cost of administering the special use permits. The fees would be comparable to the fees charged by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for reservoirs on Federal lands. There would be no change in the fee waiver policy for reservoirs. Reservoirs that are currently exempt by law from payment of land use rental fees would not be affected by the proposed change in policy.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1604; 16 USC 1613

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 219

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The agency's current rules governing implementation of forest plans (36 CFR 219) are not very precise and the relationship of plan implementation to National Environmental Policy Act compliance is not well understood by the public. Additionally appeal decisions made by the Chief of the Forest Service and recent Court decisions indicate that more site specificity is needed in project-level plans. The objective of this rule is to establish through rulemaking a precise and coherent policy about the relationship of the forest plan implementation process to NEPA documentation, so that forest planners, decision makers, and the public will know and understand the nature of decisions being made as forest plans are implemented through on-the-ground projects. This rulemaking is potentially being considered as a negotiated rulemaking.

223. MODIFY THE GENERAL PROHIBITION AGAINST USE OF VEHICLES IN EXCESS OF 40 INCHES IN WIDTH ON TRAILS

Legal Authority: 16 USC 551

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 261.12(e)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The objective of this action is to permit Forest officers more discretion for controlling off-road vehicle use. Three factors have created the need to modify this regulation: (1) the general prohibition at 36 CFR 261.12(e) controls trail use by width of vehicle. Originally developed to control four-wheel-drive vehicles on trails, this method uses a fairly arbitrary device (width) to control use; (2) off-road vehicle plans (36 CFR 295) use vehicle types to prescribe the vehicles that are permitted to use forest trails; (3) some recent models of trail vehicles (all terrain vehicles and snowmobiles) exceed the forty inch rule by one to five inches. The combination of the two methods of control with the larger model sizes has created confusion among users about ORV plan direction and created law enforcement difficulties. The proposed action would clarify the regulations and still maintain the tools necessary to control off-road vehicle use. (FS 86-007)

Final Rule Stage

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 241, Subpart B (New)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: December 2, 1980, the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act was signed into law. Section 501 (b) of the law requires that the Secretary of Agriculture promulgate regulations for the conservation of fish and wildlife and their habitats on the Chugach National Forest. The general National Forest System regulations and other existing laws governing management of National Forest System lands are applicable except as supplemented by these regulations or amended by the ANILCA, August 17, 1984. The new Chugach National Forest land management plan was appealed by 17 appellants. The settlement agreement specifies that subject to valid existing rights, the Forest Service will not allow timber harvest, road construction, surface occupancy for mineral leasing prior to publication of final regulations or completion of management area analysis for the Copper River Management Area. There are no alternatives to development of these regulations.

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 228, Subpart C

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Whether a mineral deposit is a "common variety" determines whether or not it can be disposed of or sold by the Government under the 1947 Mineral Materials Act. Judicial and administrative interpretations defining common variety characterization determinations can only be made in court. Rulings in common variety cases are generally unpredictable, and the costs to both the Government and miner are high.

After a review of the legislative history of the 1955 Surface Resources Act, which defined common varieties, we believe that Congress did not intend for certain minerals to be locatable under the Mining Laws; however, a failure to explicitly define the "common variety" term has led to misinterpretation and actions contrary to the original intent of the law. It is proposed that 36 CFR 228 Subpart C be amended to clarify this confusing classification situation. We believe PL 167 expressly provides for this action as it allows the Secretary of Agriculture to dispose of mineral materials "under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe."

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 472; 16 USC 551; 16 USC 1603; 43 USC 1740; 25 USC 337

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 254, Subpart D (New)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Objectives are to set forth Forest Service procedures and role in the regulation of Indian allotments on National Forest System land. The Indian Allotment Act of 2/8/87, as amended by Section 31, Act of 6/25/10 authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to make allotments of National Forest System lands to Indians for homesteading and agricultural and grazing purposes. The Forest Service has relied upon USDI rules and procedures at 43 CFR 2533 to govern its involvement in Indian allotment cases. Recent litigation and a decision by the Interior Board of Land Appeals indicate the need for the Forest Service to set forth its own regulations when the Forest Service determines that lands are not chiefly valuable for agricultural and grazing purposes. The only alternative is not to issue regulations. This is unacceptable since it leaves the Agency vulnerable to future IBLA appeals cases as well as future litigation.

Abstract: Different grazing fee systems are used in the Eastern and Southern Regions of the Forest Service. The current system in the Eastern Region is market driven. The system in the Southern Region is based on a cost-of-livestock-production/ability-to-pay methodology which currently results in below market fees.

This rulemaking seeks to improve uniformity of grazing fee systems on National Forest System Lands in the

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 261

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In response to comments from the scientific and academic communities and in keeping with the recommendations of the National Academy of Sciences "Report on Guidelines for Paleontological Collecting," the Forest Service is clarifying its regulations concerning fossil collecting on National Forest System lands. The language on "paleontological resources" is being moved to a separate paragraph and the requirement for permits is being limited specifically to quarrying for fossils and for commercial activities. The no-action alternative would be to leave the regulation of paleontological resources the same as for archeological resources, with permits needed for all activities. Since there is no evidence of widespread problems, the permit process imposes unnecessary burdens on the casual collector and creates added paperwork for the Forest officer to manage.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 16 USC 478; 16 USC 551; 30 USC 226, 352

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 228, Subpart E

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This final rule will set forth the procedures by which the Forest Service would carry out its statutory responsibilities for management of oil and gas leasing and attendant surface disturbing activities conducted on leaseholds on National Forest System lands. In the past, the Forest Service has relied on Bureau of Land Management procedures and regulations. However, the Federal courts have ruled that the Forest Service must promulgate its own procedures and regulations. Additionally, the Federal Onshore Oil and Gas Leasing Reform Act of 1987 expanded the authority of the Secretary of Agriculture in the management of oil and gas resources on National Forest System lands and directed the Secretary to issue rules on bonding and reclamation standards. The intent of these rules is to satisfy both judicial direction and the new statute; to coordinate Forest Service oil and gas resource management procedures with those of the Bureau of Land Management, and to promote cooperation among the Agency, the oil and gas industry, and other publics interested in the management of oil and gas resources of National Forest (cont)

230. SURETY BOND FORM REVISION

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 31 USC 9301 to 9309; 31 USC 223 to 225

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Following a period of high-priced timber sales bid prior to 1982, the Forest Service experienced a number of contract defaults on these sales. Subsequently, the Forest Service has had difficulty collecting from some sureties on the bonds guaranteeing performance on these sales. As part of a financial security initiative affecting future sales, the Forest Service is proposing to revise the payment and performance bonds to clarify surety's obligation in regard to what is being guaranteed, when payment is due in case of default, what additional charges will be assessed if payment is not made when due and when collection action may be suspended. Other alternatives include eliminating surety bonds as a form of security, reducing surety guarantee to mid-point and periodic payment and retention of current bond forms. Upon adoption the final revised bond forms will be issued for use by Forest Service Contracting and Fiscal Officers for future timber sale contracts.

231. ● HELLS CANYON NATIONAL RECREATION AREA-USE OF NATIONAL FOREST LANDS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 460gg Hells Canyon National Recreation Area

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 292 F (New)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In Oregon Natural Resource Council v Lyng, the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the Secretary must promulgate regulations as required by the Hells Canyon National Recreation Act (HCNRA) governing federal and private land uses in the HCNRA. The Department had argued that such rules were discretionary and the agency's comprehensive management plan for the NRA, which was prepared as required by the Act, was sufficient to guide management of the area. As a result of the court's ruling, the risk of litigation to halt ongoing activities, particularly timber sales, is high. Accordingly, there is an urgent need to promulgate an interim rule governing management of the federal lands in the HCNRA. While many existing regulations governing National Forest System lands, remain applicable to the Hell's Canyon NRA, pending projects and plans are vulnerable to continued litigation until final rules are effective. An interim rule is the most expeditious way to effect rules. Public comment will be invited on the interim rule and will be considered in development of the final rule.

Additional Information: The only alternative to the court ruling to promulgate rules is to publish a proposed rule rather then interim rules. 232. ● GIVING NOTICE OF DECISIONS SUBJECT TO APPEAL

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 551; 16 USC 472

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 217

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The current appeal rule at 36 CFR Part 217 requires the Deciding Officer to mail a plan or project decision to those who have, in writing, requested it and to those known to have participated in the decisionmaking process. In addition, the rule prohibits extension of the time period for filing an appeal. The administrative process of producing letters notifying the public of decisions delays notice and is shortening the period available to appeal a decision. This interim rule would require Deciding Officers to give notice of decisions in newspapers of general circulation or, in some cases, the Federal Register. The appeal filing period would begin the day after the notice is published. Because of infrequency frequency of appeals over filing periods, it is necessary to make the rule effective upon publication to bring order and consistency to the agency's appeal process. The rulemaking would also clarify grounds for dismissal of an appeal without a decision on the merits, make clear that dismissal decisions are subject to discretionary review at a higher level, and require appellants to submit 2 copies of a notice of appeal when the notice is 10 pages or longer.

248. ● REA BULLETIN 50-6 (D-806), SPECIFICATION AND DRAWINGS FOR UNDERGROUND ELECTRIC DISTRIBUTION

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 7 USC 901 et seq; 7 USC 1921 et seq

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1736.97

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: REA Bulletin 50-6 (D-806), Specifications and Drawings for Underground Electric Distribution, provides standard underground electric system construction drawings and specifications that REA Electric borrowers may use without REA review of each specific project. Bulletin 50-6 (D-806) was last revised in 1975. In the intervening years, many dramatic changes have been made in the material, equipment, and construction methods used in the underground electric distribution industry. The proposed changes in the bulletin would be accomplished by adding several new construction drawings, revising some drawings included in the present edition of the bulletin, and deleting some present drawings. The resulting bulletin would be a complete specification with which REA electric borrowers could construct their underground rural electric distribution systems using state-of-the-art materials, equipment, and construction methods.

Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Commerce.

ACTION: October 1989 regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: In compliance with Executive Order (E.O.) 12291, entitled "Federal Regulation," and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (Public Law 96-354), the Department of Commerce in April and October of each year publishes in the Federal Register an agenda of the rulemaking actions covered by section 1 of E.O. 12291 that the Department plans to conduct or review over the next twelve months. Rulemaking actions are grouped according to prerulemaking, proposed rules, final rules, and rulemaking actions completed since the April 1989 agenda. The purpose of the agenda is to provide information to the public on regulations currently under review, being proposed, or issued by the Department. The agenda is intended to facilitate comments and views by interested members of the public.

The Department's October 1989 regulatory agenda includes regulatory activities that are expected to be conducted during the period October 1, 1989, through September 30, 1990.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Specific: For additional information about specific regulatory actions listed in the agenda, contact the individual identified as the contact person.

General: Comments or inquiries of a general nature about the agenda should be directed to Michael A. Levitt, Assistant General Counsel for Legislation and Regulation, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, DC 20230, Telephone: (202) 377-8843.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291 requires all executive agencies to publish semiannually an agenda of those regulations that are under consideration pursuant to this Order. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Bulletin No. 89-12, issued July 5, 1989, establishes guidelines and procedures for the preparation and publication of the October 1989 Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations for all Federal departments and agencies. E.O. 12291 and the OMB Bulletin require that each agenda report the following information on non-exempt regulatory activities being conducted or planned to be conducted by the agency during the twelve-month period succeeding publication: The title of the regulation; the name, title, address, and phone number of an agency person who is knowledgeable about the regulation; whether the action is expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities and whether it will affect levels of government; the section(s) of the Code of Federal Regulations which will affect or be affected by the action; the section of the United States Code, Public Law, or Executive order that authorizes the action; an indication of whether or not the entry is a significant regulatory action included in the Administration's Regulatory Program and if the agency considers it a priority action; an abstract describing the problem the regulation addresses, alternatives to the regulation being considered, and potential costs and benefits of the action; legal deadline, if any; and a timetable of dates and, if available, Federal Register citations for past stages of the action. In addition, the Bulletin requires that procurement-related regulatory actions include additional information on all actions that are covered by section 22 of the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988 and all other actions that will result in a change or addition to the Federal Acquisition Regulation System. This procurement-related information is listed under Additional Information and will be used by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy in preparing the "Procurement Regulatory Activity Report."

The Regulatory Flexibility Act requires agencies to prepare a regulatory flexibility analysis where there is a positive finding that a rule will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. E.O. 12291 requires agencies to prepare a regulatory impact analysis for any regulation considered to be a "major rule" as defined in the Order.

Explanation of Information Contained in the Agenda

Within the Department, the Office of the Secretary and various operating units may issue regulations. Operating units such as the Economic Development Administration, the Bureau of Export Administration, the International Trade Administration, the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST), the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), and the Patent and Trademark Office issue the greatest share of the Department's regulations.

A large number of regulatory actions reported in the agenda are proposed or final Federal Information Processing Standards (FIPS) issued by NIST under Public Law 100-235. FIPS consist of standards and guidelines to improve Federal Government use and management of computers and information technology. The standards, while often of great use to industry and the public, apply only to the Federal Government. In developing the standards and guidelines and in providing technical guidance and coordination to Federal agencies, NIST works closely with private industry standard-setting organizations.

Another large number of regulatory actions reported in the agenda deal with fishery management programs of NOAA's National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS). To avoid repetition of programs and definitions, as well as to provide some understanding of the technical and institutional elements of the NMFS programs, a section on "Explanation of Information Contained in NMFS Regulatory Entries" is provided below.

Explanation of Information Contained in NMFS Regulatory Entries

The Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976 (Act) (16 U.S.C. 1801 et seq.) governs the management of fisheries within the Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ). The EEZ refers to those waters from the outer edge of the State boundaries, generally 3 nautical miles, to a distance of 200 nautical miles. Fishery Management Plans (FMPs) are to be prepared for fisheries which require conservation and management measures. Regulations implementing these FMPs regulate domestic fishing and foreign fishing where permitted. Foreign fishing can be conducted in a fishery for which there is no FMP only if a preliminary fishery management plan has been issued to govern that foreign fishing. Under the Act, eight Regional Fishery Management Councils (Councils) prepare FMPs or amendments to FMPs for fisheries within their respective areas. In the development of such plans or amendments and their implementing regulations, the Councils are required by law to conduct public hearings on the draft plans and to consider the use of alternative means of regulating.

The Council process for developing FMPs and amendments makes it difficult for NMFS to determine the significance of some regulatory actions under consideration at the time the semiannual regulatory agenda is published. Frequently, NMFS does not have specific plan objectives or alternatives for management since the Councils may not have approved or submitted plans to the Secretary of Commerce for review, adoption, and implementation.

The DOC October 1989 regulatory agenda follows.

258. CONTRACT CLAUSES AND SOLICITATION PROVISIONS FOR THE COMMERCE AUTOMATED SOLICITATION SYSTEM

Legal Authority: 41 USC 251 et seq; PL 98-369; PL 98-577

CFR Citation: 48 CFR 1 to 53

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Department of Commerce is currently reviewing standardized contract clauses and solicitation provisions for inclusion in a planned Departmentwide automated solicitation system. A proposed amendment to the Commerce Acquisition Regulation (CAR) would illustrate and incorporate these standardized clauses and provisions. This should ultimately be less burdensome to Department contractors and potential contractors, since the clauses and provisions would be used uniformly throughout the Department.

Legal Authority: 22 USC 3101 to 3108; Int'l Investment & Trade in Svcs. Survey Act

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 806

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will raise the overall exemption level for the BE-11 Annual Survey of U.S. Direct Investment Abroad, and for reporting individual foreign affiliates on Forms BE-11B and BE-11C in that survey, from $10 million to $15 million. The purpose of the action is to bring the exemption level into conformance with that for Form BE-10B(LF) for reporting foreign affiliates in the Benchmark Survey of U.S. Direct Investment Abroad--1989. In addition, the action will require filing, in one or more annual surveys between benchmark surveys, Form BE-11C for nonbank foreign affiliates owned at least 10 percent, but less than 20 percent, by the U.S. reporter and for which total assets, sales, or net income exceeds $100 million. Some reporting between benchmark surveys by large, 10-20 percent-owned foreign affiliates is needed to support reliable estimates for the universe of all foreign affiliates.

263. CHANGE IN REPORTING REQUIREMENTS OF THE BE-15, ANNUAL SURVEY OF FOREIGN DIRECT INVESTMENT IN THE UNITED STATES

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 806

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action institutes a short form in the BE-15, Annual Survey of Foreign Direct Investment in the United States, for reporting by U.S. affiliates with assets, sales, or net income greater than the $10 million exemption level but with no one of the three items greater than $20 million. In its notice of proposed rulemaking of September 20, 1988, BEA proposed raising the BE-15 exemption level from $10 to $20 million. After careful consideration of public comments received, however, BEA decided to leave the exemption level at $10 million to maintain the quality of the data in those few country, industry, and State cells in which small investments account for a significant share of the total. The short form is instituted in an effort to keep the reporting burden to a minimum.

Abstract: Review of 15 CFR 30 for changes to conform with the new statistical classification (harmonized) system for imports and exports. This review will combine elements of housekeeping changes, updating obsolete information, clarification, bringing the system into line with harmonization (including metric measurements) and conformance of reporting with current practices. There should be no added burden or cost placed on the public because no additional information is required, nor new reporting requirements.

The benefits of these changes will be: allowing direct comparisons between U.S. imports and exports, enabling comparisons between trade balances of the United States and of our major trading partners.

With the passage of the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988 there is no alternative to making these changes in order to conform to the legislation.

Additionally, Section 30.24 will be revised to be consistent with Customs Regulations by eliminating the "four-day rule" regarding submission of "Shipper Export Declarations."

265. ● FOREIGN TRADE STATISTICS REGULATIONS (FTSR)

Legal Authority: 13 USC 301 to 307

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 30.1 to 30.58

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: We propose to amend the Foreign Trade Statistics Regulations (FTSR) to raise the present exemption for filing Shipper's Export Declarations (SEDs) (except for shipments requiring a validated export license) from $1500 to $2500. The exemption for shipments through the U.S. Postal Service will remain at $500. Raising the value exemption for filing SEDs to $2500 will relieve the burden of documentation. The benefits accruing to both the public and the Census Bureau by the reduction in the number of SEDs required to be filed and processed outweigh the anticipated loss in statistical detail.

We propose also to amend the FTSR to eliminate the requirements for SEDs for direct exports (except for shipments requiring a validated export license) where the country of ultimate destination is Canada. This change will cause a significant reduction in paperwork and costs to U.S. exporters Federal Government. The Assistant Commissioner for Commercial for Commercial Operations, U.S. Customs Service, concurs with this proposal.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 3211; Department of Commerce Organization Order 10-4, as amended

CFR Citation: 13 CFR 302

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EDA is deleting its 12-month annual average unemployment rate based upon the calendar year, for Special Impact Area (SIA) designation. Under the current calendar year qualifier, it would be possible that an area's qualifying calendar 1987 average rate could be used in support of its SIA designation as late as February 1989 regardless of a subsequently available, non-qualifying 12-month (non-calendar) rate. This could happen since 1988 calendar year average rates for areas will not be computed by state employment security agencies until February 1989, and EDA will not receive such data until March 1989.

Legal Authority: 19 USC 81a et seq Foreign-Trade Zones Act of 1934

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 400

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Revision of the regulation is needed to administer the Foreign-Trade Zones Act of 1934, as amended, to provide for the establishment, operation, and maintenance of foreign-trade zones in ports of entry of the United States. At the time the ANPRM was published the emphasis was on changing the rules to provide improved guidance to the public on procedures and criteria followed in making decisions concerning special-purpose subzones and operations detrimental to the public interest. Since that time, it has been decided to propose revisions to the entire 15 CFR 400 in order to update the language and conform it to current CFR format.

287. ALLOCATION OF APPAREL TARIFF-RATE QUOTA UNDER THE U.S.-CANADA FREE TRADE AGREEMENT

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: PL 100-449, Section 202(g); U.S.-Canada Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act of 1988

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The U.S.-Canada FTA reduces tariffs on textile and apparel products considered to be of U.S. or Canadian origin under the "rules of origin" established by the Agreement. Generally, apparel made in the U.S. or Canada from fabric sourced in a third country will not be considered to be of U.S. or Canadian origin for FTA purposes. Goods which do not qualify for the FTA rate will be subject to the regular most-favored-nation (MFN) rate. However, the FTA also establishes an annual tariff-rate quota (TRQ) under which a limited quantity of apparel products that do not meet the FTA's rules of origin will still be entitled to the FTA duty. As Canadian tariffs on U.S. apparel exports decline, U.S. apparel firms should have a growing incentive to export to Canada, but will need some predictability as to which duty their goods will be subject to. Unless the Department implements an allocation system, we may find that U.S. firms will either face the chaos of an annual rush to the border to ensure their share of the TRQ or will ignore a lucrative export market to avoid the uncertainties of the TRQ.

Those amendments deal with (1) downstream product monitoring; (2) consultations with the International Trade Commission on certain scope rulings; (3) procedures for administrative protective orders; (4) correction of ministerial errors; and (5) effective dates. Abstract: Chapter 19 of the U.S.-Canada Free Trade Agreement established a system under which final antidumping and countervailing duty determinations of both the United States and Canada are subject to review by independent binational panels. The legislation implementing the Agreement authorized the Department to issue regulations necessary to implement Chapter 19. Regulations are necessary to establish procedures concerning notice of intent to seek judicial review, requests for panel review, notice of receipt by Canada of class or kind determinations, continued suspension of liquidation pending panel review, release of business proprietary and privileged information under protective order during a panel review, and sanctions for violations of such protective orders. The interim rule became effective January 1, 1989, the date the Agreement entered into force.

Abstract: The Defense Priorities and Allocations System (DPAS) implements the priorities and allocations authority of Title I of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended. The DPAS was published as a final rule on July 30, 1984. Based on the findings and recommendations of an interagency sponsored study concerning the controlled materials program, and comments from both defense agency and industry users, this proposed rule would amend the DPAS to remove the controlled materials provisions and make certain revisions to its procedural requirements. These amendments will have no costs associated with them, would reduce the regulatory and information reporting burden on industry and make the DPAS more effective and efficient, and would result in cost savings for defense contractors.

Legal Authority: 50 USC app 2401; PL 96-72; PL 97-145; PL 99-64; PL 100-418; EO 12525

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 776

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, November 21, 1989.

Abstract: This proposed rule amends the EAR to provide a definition for the term "supercomputer." Section 5(a)(6) of the Export Administration Act, as amended by the 1988 Trade Act, requires that a definition be included in the EAR. An earlier proposed rule on this subject was published in the Federal Register on 12/5/88. Due to the variety of comments received on the definition, BXA developed a revised definition and is reissuing the rule in proposed form with request for comments. The revised definition contains two significant features. First, a supercomputer is defined as any computer having a theoretical peak performance capability equal to or greater than 100 MFLOPS (million floating point operations per second). Second, the revised definition establishes two threshold levels - 150 MFLOPS and 200 MFLOPS - for the imposition of security safeguards. The level to be applied will depend on the country of destination (e.g., CoCom/5(k) countries).

With this notice the Department is proposing to revise Part 791 of the EAR. The revision of the foreign availability regulations is necessary because of legislative changes to the program by the "Trade Act" of 1988, and OFA's own experiences with the program. Abstract: General License GTE authorizes temporary exports for certain purposes such as exhibition, demonstration, inspection and testing, and requires prompt return to the country of export. This proposed rule would redesignate that license as General License G-TEMP and amend it by removing the registration requirement and by establishing guidelines for the use of the general license. One effect of removing the registration requirement would be that parties abroad who were not eligible to register under the former General License GTE would be able to use G-TEMP as authorization for a permissive reexport in accordance with the appropriate provisions of the regulations.

Abstract: On July 12, 1985, the Export Administration Amendments Act of 1985 (PL 99-64) extended and amended the Export Administration Act of 1979 (50 USC app 2401, et seq.)(EAA). Certain changes were made to the Short Supply provisions of Section 7 of the EAA. Accordingly, revision of the Short Supply provisions (15 CFR 377) and related licensing requirements (15 CFR 371 and 399) of the Export Administration Regulations (15 CFR 368-399) is necessary. An interim final rule was issued which included (1) elimination of the validated licensing requirement for exports of refined petroleum products so as to permit their export with certain restrictions under a general license; (2) a new definition of "crude oil" for purposes of the regulation; and (3) certain technical and housekeeping changes. There are no costs associated with this action which would promote the export of decontrolled products. The Export Administration was made a Bureau in October 1987. The Export Administration Regulations were thereby transferred from 15 CFR 368-399 to 15 CFR 768-799. Furthermore, the Export Administration Act of 1979 was amended on August 23, 1988 by the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness (cont)

Abstract: On June 24, 1987 the President issued a national security override for a finding of foreign availability for certain types of sputtering equipment controlled under ECCN 1355A of the Commodity Control List. As a result of this override, export controls on the equipment were maintained pending the conclusion of negotiations with the source country to eliminate the foreign availability. The statutorily authorized 18-month negotiating period expired on December 24, 1988, with the source country agreeing to eliminate foreign availability for sputtering equipment until May 31, 1989. The source country has since agreed to eliminate foreign availability for certain types of sputtering equipment for an additional period. This rule amends ECCN 1355A by decontrolling to free world destinations that sputtering equipment that the source country has not agreed to control, and by maintaining controls on that equipment for which foreign availability has been eliminated.

Abstract: In accordance with section 5(a) (A) of the EAA, as amended by the 1988 Trade Act, this rule revises section 776.12 of the EAR to reduce export and reexport controls on U.S.-origin parts and components incorporated in foreign-made products. Under section 776.12 prior authorization is not required when U.S.-origin content comprises 25 percent or less and the foreign-made product is exported to a country listed in Supplements 2 and 3 to Part 773, i.e., countries cooperating in nuclear non-proliferation policy. This interim rule revises section 776.12 to apply the 25 percent exemption to all destinations, except the embargoed countries. The 10 percent exemption, but not the dollar value limitation, is continued for these proscribed destinations. The rule also exempts from control foreign-made products incorporating U.S.-origin content consisting of low level technology specifically designated on the Commodity Control list.

Abstract: Section 774.3(e) of the Export Administration Regulations provides that "separate specific reexport authorization by the Office of Export Licensing is not required" for reexports of U.S.-origin goods from CoCom countries to the Soviet Bloc if certain conditions are met. One of these conditions is that the "reexport receive unanimous approval from CoCom." Section 774.3(e) allows reexports of General-Exception level U.S. commodities from CoCom countries to the Soviet Bloc without a separate U.S. reexport authorization because the U.S. has an opportunity to review (and object to) these transactions in CoCom. Reexports of U.S. goods eligible for Administrative Exception treatment require a separate U.S. reexport authorization because the U.S. does not have an opportunity to review these cases in CoCom. Consistent with streamlining this regulation the agency may propose a regulation that will eliminate reexport authorization requirements for Administrative-Exception-Level U.S. commodities from CoCom countries to Q, W, Y countries.

This interim rule will amend section 786.3(h) to permit general license commodities and validated license commodities to be listed on the SED. The rule also will revise section 786.3(h) to clarify that the commodities that may be listed on the same SED must be included in one shipment on board a single carrier and must be from the same exporter to the same consignee.

Abstract: The Bureau of Export Administration maintains the Commodity Control List (CCL) which identifies those items subject to Department of Commerce export controls. This rule amends a number of List entries in the categories of general industrial equipment and electronics and precision instruments. Amendments to the multilaterally controlled entries on the CCL (specifically, those Export Control Commodity Numbers (ECCNs) that end with "A") have resulted from a review of strategic controls maintained by the U.S. and certain allied countries through the Coordinating Committee (CoCom). Such multilateral controls restrict the availability of strategic items to controlled countries. With the concurrence of the Department of Defense, the Department of Commerce has determined that these revisions to the CCL are necessary to protect U.S. national security interests. In addition, this rule amends a listing (in Supplement No. 1 to Part 773 of the Export Administration Regulations) of commodities excluded from special export licensing procedures. These amendments reflect commodity decontrols based on previous reviews of (cont)

Abstract: On Friday, May 16, 1986, a notice of proposed rulemaking was published in the Federal Register (51 FR 17986). It sought to provide clarified guidelines for the use of Export Administration Regulation section 779.3, General License GTDA, and invited comments from the public. This final rule will include some of the suggestions made in the public comments on that proposed rule, that generally recognized that the guidelines clarified certain ambiguities in the regulations, and yet will conform with existing Commerce Department interpretations.

for exports from the United States. General License GIFT authorizes export of parcels from U.S. individuals or charitable organizations overseas. General License GIFT is modified to allow no more than one gift parcel from the same donor to the same donee in any one month. Currently, one parcel may be shipped each week. This change is intended to assure that the license is utilized in conformity with its intended purpose, namely the donative provision of gifts between individuals. Specific authorization to exceed this limit may be granted on a case-by-case basis to meet compelling humanitarian concerns (e.g., gifts of medicine to relatives). The Bureau of Export Administration will grant case-by-case exemptions through issuance of a validated license. For clarity, new text is added on appropriateness of items as gifts.

Abstract: Section 775.3 of the Export Administration Regulations (EAR) currently requires that applicants obtain the official duplicate copy of Form 3, Hong Kong Import License, in support of an individual validated license application (Form BXA-622P) for the export to Hong Kong of commodities identified by the code letter "A" following the Export Control Commodity Number. This final rule changes that requirement by instructing exporters to obtain the Hong Kong Import Certificate instead of the Hong Kong Import License. This rule also changes the name and address of the Hong Kong authorities responsible for administering the Hong Kong Import Certificate/Delivery Verification procedure.

Consistent with the grace period provided in section 775.9(b)(2) of the EAR, applicants for export licenses to Hong Kong may continue to use the Hong Kong Import License in support of their applications through July 27, 1989. (54 FR 24888)

Abstract: This rule amends the Export Administration Regulations by removing reserving section 778.6, "Advice of the Manufacturer." This section had required exporters of goods capable of sensitive nuclear uses to request a written statement from the manufacturer specifying whether a validated license is required for export. The Department has determined that the practical utility of the letter of inquiry and the manufacturer's advice was minimal because section 778.6 stated that "notwithstanding the advice provided by the manufacturer, the exporter remains responsible for filing an export license application for any export subject to section 778.3." Section 778.3 contains provisions on licensing requirements for export of commodities and technical data with sensitive end-uses.

Abstract: The Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act (OTCA), signed by the President on August 23, 1988, amended section 5(a)(4) of the Export Administration Act of 1979 (EAA) to require the removal of controls on most reexports to CoCom and countries qualifying for full benefits under section 5(k) of the EAA. This final rule expands the permissive reexport provisions of 774.2 of the Export Administration Regulations (EAR) (15 CFR 774.2) to allow reexports of U.S. commodities to and among CoCom participating countries, Finland, and Switzerland, without prior U.S. authorization. CFR Citation: 15 CFR 799

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule amends the validated license controls on exports of carbon thermal insulating materials controlled under ECCN 1734A on the CCL. Exports of such material no longer require a validated license for exports to Country Groups T and V, except the People's Republic of China and Afghanistan. Previously, these items could be exported under General License GFW to all countries listed in Supplement Nos. 2 and 3 to Part 773 of the Export Administration Regulations. This rule allows exports of these items to all Free World countries under General License G-DEST. This action is intended to streamline U.S. export control requirements without injuring national security interests and make U.S. controls more comparable to those of other suppliers.

317. FIPS FOR C PROGRAMMING LANGUAGE

Legal Authority: 40 USC 759(f); EO 11717

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This standard will adopt an American National Standard (currently draft proposed standard) which defines the syntax of the C programming language and the semantics for its interpretation. The standard will be used by implementors as the reference authority in developing compilers, interpreters or forms of high level language processors and by other computer professionals who need to know the precise syntactic and semantic rules of the standard. Use of this standard will promote the portability of programs between different systems, and will enable organizations to more fully utilize staff training and skills.

Abstract: A marine fishery user fee system will provide a substantial and stable source of revenue to partially offset Federal fishery expenditures and information needed for effective fishery management. Fees would be collected from the sale of marine fish conservation emblems and licenses, and from an assessment on landing or delivery of fish for commercial purposes. Administration costs are estimated to be $6 million annually, with net Federal revenues of approximately $60 million. A bill entitled "The Exclusive Economic Zone Revenue Raising Act of 1988" (HR 5580) was introduced on October 21, 1988. 343. AMENDMENT 3 TO THE FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN FOR THE NORTHEAST MULTISPECIES FISHERY

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 651

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory. Final, Statutory.
NPRM 15 days and final action 110 days after receipt from the fishery management council.

Abstract: Amendment 3 will address biological objectives of the FMP by establishing a "Flexible Area Action System" to enable the New England Fishery Management Council, its Multispecies Committee, and NMFS to respond in a timely manner to protect large concentrations of juvenile, sublegal, and spawning fish. Under this system, measures ranging from mesh size restrictions to limited closed areas could be implemented. This system is needed to: (1) enhance age-at-entry controls; (2) eliminate the need for certain emergency actions; and (3) respond to requests from the fishing industry for timely action in a way that improves the climate for cooperation and progress between the Council and the fishing industry.

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory. Final, Statutory.

Abstract: Secretarial Fishery Management Plan on blue mussels to address the problem of periodic contamination of blue mussels with paralytic shellfish poisoning (PSP), particularly in the Nantucket Shoals area of the EEZ. Monitoring had been provided by the National Shellfish Sanitation Program whose jurisdiction does not extend to the EEZ. Because of cost this effort has become too burdensome and has been discontinued. Factors to be considered are: definition of the management unit, interrelationship of the stock with other managed shellfish stocks in the EEZ and PSP monitoring procedures.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1361 et seq. Marine Mammal Protection Act; 16 USC 1383b

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 216.15

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Based on a review of the best available information on the status to the coastal-migratory stock of bottlenose dolphins in the U.S. mid-Atlantic, the National Marine Fisheries Service (NOAA Fisheries) is considering the publication of a proposed rule designating this population stock as depleted under the Marine Mammal Protection Act (MMPA). This action is required by the MMPA when a species or population stock falls below its optimum sustainable population (OSP). If this population stock is designated as depleted, the MMPA requires the application of certain additional restrictions on taking and importation, and the preparation and implementation of a conservation plan to restore the stock to OSP. NOAA Fisheries is also requesting any additional scientific information on this action that may be available from interested parties, as required by the MMPA Amendments of 1988.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1456 Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 930

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On January 11, 1984, the U.S. Supreme Court issued its decision in Secretary of the Interior et al. v. California et al. No. 82-1326. The Court held that the sale of Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) oil and gas leases is not an activity "directly affecting" the Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972, as amended (CZMA), and therefore, that a consistency determination is not required under that section before such sales may be made. Section 307(c)(1) required that Federal agencies conducting or supporting activities "directly affecting the coastal zone" must conduct or support those activities in a manner which is consistent to the maximum extent practicable with federally approved state coastal zone management programs. NOAA engaged in rulemaking to revise certain CZMA regulations as a result of the Supreme Court decision. NOAA removed those references which identify OCS lease sales as activities covered by the Section 307(c)(1) requirements.

Additional Information: NOAA issued a final rule August 31, 1985 making the changes required by the Supreme Court decision, and decided to undertake a comprehensive study of the Federal consistency process. The Draft Study issued April 1985 will assist NOAA in evaluating the need for and consequences of further revision of the Federal consistency regulations. Further revision has been deferred pending review of public comment on the April study, and amendments to the CZMA enacted in 1986. In addition, the CZMA will be reauthorized soon, and amendments to the CZMA may result which would require further regulatory revision. Based on this review, NOAA will evaluate the need for, and consequences of further revision of the regulations.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1621 to 1630 Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946

Abstract: The final rule will establish general quality grading standards for all non-breaded forms of fresh or frozen shrimp. These grading standards will provide for the systematic differentiation of the quality of shrimp into categories -- U.S. Grades A, B and Substandard. The proposed standards will be applied to all commercial species of fresh or frozen shrimp in raw or cooked states in all non-breaded market forms. The adoption of grading standards is expected to facilitate trade in shrimp of all commercial species, as consumers will be able to select shrimp on the basis of identified quality. Industry has shown great interest in and support for the standards.

Legal Authority: PL 100-589; 16 USC 1801 et seq; 16 USC 1851

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 656

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Secretary of Commerce, after consultation with other Federal agencies, state agencies, and interested persons will implement regulations to prohibit catching and retaining striped bass in the Exclusive Economic Zone off North Carolina through Maine. This is being done in response to a Congressional directive contained in the Atlantic Striped Bass Conservation Act, and is consistent with the National Standards of the Magnuson Act. These regulations conform to and complement the Atlantic Striped Bass Plan developed by the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission and approved by its member states. Alternatives considered are no action, requiring those fisheries in the EEZ to conform to state regulations, and establishing a Federal Bag limit on catching striped bass in the EEZ. The cost of the preferred alternative is nominal, and appreciable benefits accrue to the migratory striped bass stocks.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq Endangered Species Act of 1973

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 222

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed regulations implement Section 10(a)(1)(B) of the Endangered Species Act, as amended (ESA). The proposal provides, under limited circumstances, for issuance of permits allowing the incidental taking of endangered species. The proposal applies to certain Federal permit or license holders and to private entities or State or local governments whose actions are not otherwise subject to Federal involvement or control. Prior to the 1982 amendments to the ESA, the taking of endangered species was prohibited except for scientific research or to enhance the propagation or survival of the species. Permits issued under the proposed regulations would allow permit holders to conduct their activities without risk of prosecution for the incidental take of species authorized by such permits.

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 630

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory. Final, Statutory.

Abstract: Amendment 1 will reflect concern for status of swordfish stocks based on recent stock assessments. The U.S. longline fishery now targets tunas and small swordfish in nearshore waters and seeks larger, more valuable swordfish in more distant waters. In an attempt to reduce the fishing mortality of small billfish in the exclusive economic zone, the South Atlantic Council's Amendment 1 would adopt an objective of achieving a specific and reduced fishing mortality rate for swordfish by establishing an overall harvest quota for the entire stock. North-South sub-quotas, vessel permit restrictions, minimum fish sizes and limitations on swordfish incidental catch in the tuna fishery are being considered by the Council.

Abstract: Amendment 1 will attempt to rebuild declining reef fish stocks, especially red snapper. A primary objective of the amendment will be to reduce red snapper harvest by 24 percent the first year through the use of a commercial quota of 3.1 million pounds, by the establishment of a 13-inch minimum fish for commercial and recreational fisheries taking red snapper, and by establishing a 7-fish red snapper bag limit per person in the recreational sector. The amendment will also protect other species of reef fish, as well as red snapper by proposing to (1) reduce use of fish traps from 200 to 100 per vessel and expand the stressed area off Texas and Louisiana; (2) prohibit the use of bottom long lines shoreward of the 50-fathom curve; and (3) prohibit use of entanglement nets west of Cape San Blas, Florida, and shoreward of the 20-fathom curve east of Cape San Blas, Florida. Several additional species will be included in the management unit, and additional conservation measures will be forthcoming.

This information is required to determine total fishery landings, fishing effort, and biological data (e.g., size of population, age classes) for stock assessment purposes. The regulatory amendment also will (1) clarify the scope of the regulations; (2) modify the requirements and procedures for obtaining a vessel permit; and (3) modify procedures for submitting daily fishing records. The amendment is intended to (1) obtain more timely and accurate data on swordfish (and incidentally caught species) landings, value and size composition of the catch; (2) improve stock assessment capabilities; (3) ensure accountability for information submitted on permit applications; and (4) ensure timeliness of information submitted on fishing records.

Abstract: Foreign fishing on the high seas of the central Bering Sea take excessive amounts of stocks of Alaska pollock which may be shared in the economic zones of the United States and the Soviet Union. The foreign fleets also use such fishing for illegal fishing incursions in the U.S. EEZ under cloud cover and cover of darkness.

366. REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE TAKING OF SMALL NUMBERS OF MARINE MAMMALS INCIDENTALLY TO OIL AND GAS EXPLORATION IN THE BEAUFORT AND CHUKCHI SEAS

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1371(a)(5)

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 238.3

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 101(a)(5) of the Marine Mammal Protection Act directs the Secretary to allow, on request by U.S. citizens who engage in a specified activity (other than commercial fishing) in a specified geographical region, the incidental take of small numbers of marine mammals. The agency must find that the taking will have a negligible impact on the species or stocks, and will not have an unmitigable adverse impact on the availability of the species for subsistence uses. The Service received a request from 6 oil companies for a take of marine mammals incidental to oil exploration in the Beaufort and Chukchi Seas. These regulations allow a take if certain conditions are met including requirements for monitoring and reporting and a prohibition on taking in the spring lead system used by bowhead whales in the Chukchi Sea. These regulations allow the oil companies to proceed with energy exploration while protecting marine mammals.

Additional Information: (A) Under existing regulations, at 50 CFR, Part 259, the acquisition of a qualified vessel is not interpreted to include the lease of a qualified vessel. The legislative history of the Tax Reform Act, 1986, indicates Congressional intent to consider lease hire payments from the CCF to be considered qualified withdrawals, if such payments are used for the acquisition of a qualified vessel through lease for a period of five years or more. The proposed rules would allow for payments from the CCF for such purpose. (B) Under existing conditions at 50 CFR Part 259, CCF benefits for fishermen are restricted in accordance with Part 251 of 50 CFR. The proposed rule would allow for either the moderation or lifting of these restrictions. (C) The proposed rules would add to 59 CFR Part 3 provisions for the assessment of user fee charges to fund operating costs for that portion of the CCF administered for fishermen.

400. REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE TAKING AND IMPORTING OF MARINE MAMMALS; IMPORTATION OF YELLOWFIN TUNA

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1361 et seq Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 216.24

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: U.S. tuna purse seine fishermen operating in the eastern tropical Pacific have been subject to certain restrictions relating to the take of marine mammals, whereas other nations fishing in a similar manner that export tuna to the U.S. often do not impose similar constraints on their own industry. Therefore, the Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972 was amended to require all such nations, prior to being allowed to import tuna, to provide documentary evidence that they have adopted a program governing the incidental taking of marine mammals that is comparable to that of the U.S. and that the average rate of incidental take in the fishery is comparable to the U.S. These regulations will implement this requirement.

401. ENDANGERED FISH AND WILDLIFE; APPROACHING HUMPBACK WHALES IN HAWAIIAN WATERS

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1382(a); 16 USC 1540(f)

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 222.31

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule will establish as regulation a previously published Notice of Interpretation regarding minimum distances that should be maintained in the presence of humpback whales in Hawaii. Establishing a 100 yard perimeter around any of the whales while in the Hawaiian Exclusive Zone as a regulation is considered necessary given a large increase in vessel traffic and other water use activities in areas where this species historically occurs. In response to comments received in the public record, NOAA is defining two specific sites as cow/calf areas in which an approach closer than 300 yds is prohibited. This addition creates a new subsection to the rule.

Abstract: This revised rule will expand the coverage of established voluntary standards for grades of fish fillets to include a new market form or style of fillet whereby bones are not removed. This style of fillet has become more familiar in the marketplace, resulting in the industry requesting the amendment. Responses to a previous request for comments indicate a national interest in this style of presentation. The amendment will allow this market form, bearing FDA's recommended labeling, to be inspected and reflect the U.S. Grade A mark.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 16 USC 4001 to 4017 Fish & Seafood Promotion Act of 1986 (FSPA)

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 270, (new)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule describes the conditions under which seafood marketing councils for one or more species of fish or fish products authorized under the FSPA may be established and operated. The councils will be funded through self-assessment by segments of the industry represented on the council and are established through (1) application of particular sector(s) of industry to the Secretary of Commerce; (2) favorable Secretarial review of the application and (3) passage of a referendum conducted by the Secretary among sector participants. The Secretary appoints members to the councils from lists of nominees supplied by the industry. Councils will submit annual plans and budgets for species-specific marketing and promotion, including consumer education, research, and other activities. Costs to the Federal Government are estimated to range from $100,000 to $200,000 for program start-up and other initial costs to establish one council. Annual costs will vary and depend upon the number of applications received and the number of referenda conducted. Benefits to the industry may be substantial.

Abstract: Two changes to the regulations implementing the fishery management plan for Pacific coast groundfish fisheries in the exclusive economic zone off the coasts of Washington, Oregon, and California are proposed. Abstract: When the Coastal Zone Management Reauthorization Act of 1985 becomes effective, the existing regulations for the National Estuarine Sanctuary Program will need to be updated to reflect the changes that will occur in the program–(1) a stronger emphasis for conducting, promoting and coordinating research within the system; (2) changes the name of the program to "National Estuarine Reserve Research System"; (3) the amount of Federal financial assistance is increased to $4,000,000 per site; and (4) submission of an annual report to Congress beginning with fiscal year 1986.

413. SAFETY OF UNITED STATES OBSERVERS ABOARD FOREIGN FISHING VESSELS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: PL 99-659

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 611.8

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: United States observers are required aboard foreign vessels permitted to fish in the U.S. Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ). Conditions aboard these vessels can be hazardous to the safety of observers. To prevent injury to observers, the Department of Commerce intends to publish minimum safety standards that must be maintained aboard foreign fishing vessels before they will be permitted to fish in the U.S. EEZ.

The alternative to establishing U.S. standards is to accept flag-state standards as adequate. This solution will probably not be feasible because there is a wide variation in foreign safety standards and differing degrees of compliance with standards. In some cases, foreign fishing vessels meeting existing flag-state standards would not be suitable for U.S. observers.

Costs of this action will be borne by the owners of foreign fishing vessels. This action is beneficial in that it may prevent serious injury, including death, to observers during the performance of their duty.

The effective date of the Trademark Revision Act of 1988 (P.L. 100-667) is November 16, 1989, by which date implementing rules must be final.

Abstract: The rules of practice in trademark cases are proposed to be amended to implement the provisions of the Trademark Law Revision Act of 1988 (P.L. 100-667), to codify changes in practice resulting from a certain Trademark Trial and Appeal Board decision commonly known as the "Crocker" decision (relating to requirements for foreign applicants seeking to register trademarks in the United States), and to otherwise clarify and revise procedures for the examination of applications. The rules involved are those relating to applications for registration of trademarks based on (1) use of a mark in commerce, (2) a bona fide intention to use a mark in commerce, and (3) ownership of a foreign registration. The rules involved relate also to post-registration procedures and to ex parte appeals and inter partes proceedings before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board.

Significance: Agency Priority

Abstract: PL 99-502 amended the Stevenson-Wydler Innovation Act of 1980 by establishing a number of procedures to encourage the development of technologies by laboratories owned or operated by the Federal Government, to facilitate the transfer of such technologies to the public, and to promote cooperation between these laboratories and the private sector.

Executive Order 10096 would be amended with regard to the government's rights to ownership of inventions created in laboratories owned or operated by the Federal Government. A revised version of the Executive order might be prepared and regulations would be developed to implement the amendments effected by PL 99-502.

This action will not increase Federal costs. In the short run it will encourage private sector collaboration to assist work done in Federal laboratories by appropriated funds, and in the long run increased commercialization of patents and inventions will increase tax revenues.

Abstract: The CFR must be updated to reflect the new Federal policy, as amended by the 1988 Trade Act (PL 100-48), regarding Federal use of the metric system in its procurements, grants and other business-related activities, and the impact on State and local governments and the private sector of this transition. No alternatives are being considered.

The costs to the Federal Government cannot be accurately estimated, but will include the cost of redoing some regulations and publications, costs associated with orienting employees and contractors to use of the metric system and some share of contractor costs for converting. The benefits will be the greater marketability of U.S. products which will improve our competitive posture in world markets and thereby improve U.S. trade balances.

The Administration has directed USTTA to undertake efforts to replace funding it receives from general Treasury revenue with monies raised by assessing a facilitation fee derived from the economic activities of the American travel industry and its consumers. Improving Government Regulations; Semiannual Agenda of Regulations AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, DoD.

ACTION: Publication of the consolidated semiannual agenda of DoD regulatory documents.

SUMMARY: The Department of Defense is publishing this consolidated semiannual agenda of regulatory documents, including those that are procurement-related for public information and comments under E.O. 12291 "Federal Regulation" and the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act of 1988 (102 Stat. 4055; 41 U.S.C. 402). This agenda incorporates the objective and criteria, when applicable, of the regulatory reform program under E.O. 12291, the Federal Procurement Policy Act, and other regulatory programs. It contains DoD issuances initiated by DoD Components that may have economic and environmental impact on state, local, public, or private interests under the criteria of E.O. 12291. Although most DoD issuances listed in the agenda are of negligible public impact, their nature may be of public interest and, therefore, are published to provide notice of rulemaking and an opportunity for public participation in the internal DoD rulemaking process.

This agenda updates the report published on April 24, 1989, and includes regulations expected to be issued and under review over the next 12 months. The procurement-related agenda items, included in this publication, will also be used by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy to publish a "Procurement Regulatory Activity Report" as required by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988.

The next agenda is scheduled to be published in April 1990. In addition to this agenda, DoD Components also publish rulemaking notices pertaining to their specific statutory administration requirements as required.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For information concerning the overall DoD regulatory improvement program and for general semiannual agenda information, contact Mrs. Pearl Rascoe-Harrison, telephone 202-746-0933, or write to Directorate for Information Operations and Reports, Washington Headquarters Services, 1215 Jefferson Davis Highway, Suite 1204, Arlington, Virginia 22202-4302.

For questions of a legal nature concerning the agenda and its statutory requirements or obligations, contact the Office of the General Counsel, DoD, Washington, DC 20301, or call 202-697-2714.

For general information on Office of the Secretary regulations, contact Mrs. Patricia H. Means, Directives Division, Correspondence and Directives, Directorate, Washington Headquarters Services, telephone 202-697-4111. For general information on the procurement-related agenda items, contact Mr. Owen L. Green III, telephone 202-697-7266, or write to the Defense Acquisition Regulatory System, Pentagon, Room 3D139, Washington, DC 20301-3062.

For general information on Department of the Army regulations, contact Mr. Kenneth L. Denton, telephone 202-325-6297, or write to Commander, U.S. Army Publications and Printing Command, ATTN: ASQZ-SPP, Room 1420, Hoffman I, Alexandria, Virginia 22331-0302.

For general information on Department of the Navy regulations, contact Ms. Alcinda P. Wenberg, telephone 202-697-7216, or write to Department of the Navy, Information Resources Management, IRM(C), Washington, DC 20350-1000.

For general information on Department of the Air Force regulations, contact Ms. Patsy J. Conner, telephone 202-694-3527, or write to Department of the Air Force, SAF/AADA, Pentagon, Washington, DC 20330-1000.

For specific agenda items, contact the appropriate individual indicated in each DoD Component report.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This consolidated agenda is composed of the regulatory status reports, including procurement-related regulatory status reports from the Office of the Secretary of Defense and the Departments of the Army, Navy, and Air Force. Included also in this agenda is the regulatory report from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, whose civil works functions fall under the reporting requirements of E.O. 12291. Their agenda will reflect these requirements, with follow-on reporting actions taken, as necessary.

DoD issuances range from DoD Directives (reflecting departmental policy) to implementing instructions and regulations (largely internal and used to implement Directives). The OSD agenda section contains the primary Directives under which DoD Components promulgate their implementing regulations.

To ease identification and to clarify the differences among the variety of issuances reported, they are identified by their DoD internal numbering system, which denotes Component level of authority and type of issuance in addition to the required CFR number.

In addition, this agenda, although published under the reporting requirements of E.O. 12291, will continue to be the DoD single source reporting vehicle, which will identify issuances that are currently applicable under the various regulatory reform programs in progress. Therefore, when applicable, DoD Components will identify those rules which come under the criteria of the:

a. Regulatory Flexibility Act;

b. Paperwork Reduction Act;

c. GATT International Trade Agreement; and

d. Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988.

These DoD issuances, which are directly applicable under these statutes, will be identified in the agenda and their action status indicated. Generally, the reports in this agenda will contain four sections: (1) Prerule stage; (2) proposed rule stage; (3) final rule stage; and (4) completed actions.

Although not a regulatory agency, the Department of Defense will continue to participate in regulatory initiatives designed to reduce the economic costs and unnecessary environmental burdens upon the public. Comments and recommendations are invited on the rules reported and should be addressed to the DoD Component representatives identified in each section.

Although sensitive to the needs of the public and regulatory reform, the

DOD

Department of Defense reserves the right to exercise the exemptions and flexibility permitted in its rulemaking process in order to proceed with its overall defense-oriented mission.

Note: The publishing of this agenda does not waive the applicability of the military affairs exemption in title 5, section 553 and section 1 of E.O. 12291.

D. O. Cooke,

Director, Administration and Management.

AGENCY: Department of Education.

ACTION: Publication of the semiannual agenda of Federal regulations.

SUMMARY: The Secretary of Education publishes a Semiannual Agenda of Federal Regulations as required by Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Bulletin No. 89-12 issued under the authority of section 6(b) of Executive Order 12291 (Federal Regulations). The purpose of the agenda is to encourage more effective public participation in the regulatory process by giving the public early information about pending regulatory activities.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Questions or comments related to specific regulations listed in this agenda should be directed to Kenneth C. Depew, Acting Director, Division of Regulations Management, Office of the General Counsel, Department of Education, Room 2131, FOB-6, 400 Maryland Avenue SW., Washington, DC 20202-2241. Telephone: (202) 732-2887.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291, dated February 17, 1981, and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, Pub. L. 96-354, enacted September 19, 1980, require the Department of Education to publish, in October and April of each year, (1) an agenda of regulations that the Department expects to issue, and (2) currently effective regulations that are under review. The agenda includes both notices of proposed rulemaking (NPRMs) currently being drafted and pending final regulations.

Under the authority of Executive Order 12291, the Director of OMB has issued OMB Bulletin No. 89-12, dated July 15, 1989, prescribing the content and structure of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations. The Unified Agenda will be issued semiannually and will cover the succeeding 12 months from the date of publication.

For each set of regulations listed, the Agenda provides the title of the document, the type of document, a citation of any rulemaking or other action taken since publication of the most recent Agenda, and planned dates of future rulemaking. In addition, the Agenda provides the following information:

- An abstract, which includes a description of the problem to be addressed, any principal alternatives being considered, and potential costs and benefits of the action.
- An indication of whether the planned action is likely to have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601(b)).
- A reference to where a reader can find the current regulations in the Code of Federal Regulations.
- A citation of legal authority.
- The name, address, and telephone number of the contact person at the Department from whom a reader can obtain additional information regarding the planned action.
- An indication if the action is priority and the criteria used in determining the priority status.

If the "Abstract" section of an entry refers readers to the preamble, it means that amendments to those particular regulations would be designed (1) to effect regulatory relief, including reducing paperwork and compliance burdens, improving cost effectiveness, and to the extent possible, vesting greater discretion in State and local agencies; and (2) if necessary, to clarify and simplify requirements governing that program.

The Department will review all regulations to be promulgated to ensure that they reflect the principles set forth in the joint statement issued by the President and the Nation's Governors developed during the course of the Education Summit held on September 27-28, 1989, in Charlottesville, Virginia. Particular attention will be given to increasing flexibility at the State and local levels in the use of Federal funds, in return for greater accountability for increasing the levels of education and training under the Department's programs.

This publication in the Federal Register does not impose any binding obligation on the Department with regard to any specific item on the agenda. Regulatory action in addition to the items listed is not precluded. Dates of future regulatory action are subject to revision in subsequent agendas.

Dated: August 25, 1989.

Edward C. Stringer,

General Counsel.

Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Department of Energy.

ACTION: October 1989 regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: In order to make Government more responsive to the citizens of the United States and to assist in fulfilling the President's commitment to lessen regulatory burdens, the Department of Energy (DOE) is publishing this agenda of DOE rulemakings in progress and proposed rulemakings that DOE foreseeably may issue in the next year. This agenda also includes any rules which are being reviewed within the Department to determine whether to propose modifications and rulemakings and rule reviews which have been completed since the last regulatory agenda in April 1989. It also contains information on any rulemakings which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, and it contains additional data on procurement-related actions.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

General: For further information on the agenda in general, contact: Theodore Wilson or Peter A. Greenlee, Department of Energy, Room 6A-141, Forrestal Building, 1000 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, DC 20585, (202) 586-9507.

Specific: For further information about any particular item on the agenda, contact the individual listed under that item.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Covered agencies publish regulatory agendas under Executive Order 12291 in April and October of each year. The Executive order authorizes the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) to set forth standards and procedures for the preparation of these agendas. The October 1989 regulatory agenda has been prepared in accordance with OMB Bulletin No. 89-12.

There are important reasons for preparing this agenda. It is vital to efforts to reduce the burdens of existing and future regulations, to increase agency accountability for regulatory actions, to provide for Presidential oversight of the regulatory process, to minimize duplication and conflict of regulations, and to insure well-reasoned regulations. The Department has made considerable progress in these efforts.

Executive Order 12291 provides that the regulatory agenda may be incorporated with the "regulatory flexibility agenda" required under the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 602 et seq. The regulatory flexibility agenda must cover any rule which the agency expects to propose or promulgate which is "likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities." Its information requirements are similar to those of the Executive order. The regulatory flexibility agenda required under 5 U.S.C. 602(a) is incorporated in today's notice.

The Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988, 41 U.S.C. 402, require publication twice a year of a "Procurement Regulatory Activity Report." As determined by OMB, agency information is now in the agenda for use by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy (OFPP) in producing these reports.

Entries appended to this notice reflect the status of activities as of approximately August 15, 1989. They are divided into categories first by DOE subagency and then according to their stage of rulemaking action: prerule, proposed rulemaking, final rulemaking, or completed action.

Appended entries contain the following information: (1) DOE organizational unit responsible for the regulation; (2) RIN number (that is, the Regulation Indentifier Number assigned by OMB/OIRA); (3) title; (4) significance (that is, whether the regulation appears in the Regulatory Program prepared annually under Executive Order 12498 and, if it does not, whether it is nevertheless a departmental priority); (5) the name, title, address, and telephone number of a person who is knowledgeable about the regulation; (6) effects on small businesses (that is, whether the action is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities" as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act) and effects on Federal, State, and local governments; (7) CFR citation (that is, portion of the Code of Federal Regulations that will be affected); (8) legal authority (that is, a citation to the section of the United States Code (U.S.C.), Public Law (Pub. L.), or Executive Order (E.O.) that authorizes the regulatory action); (9) abstract (that is, a description of the problem the regulation will address, the regulatory approach under consideration, the alternatives being considered for addressing the problem, and the potential costs and benefits of the action); (10) legal deadline (that is, the statutory or judicial deadline, if any); and (11) timetable (that is, the dates, and citations if applicable, for all past stages and, generally, the date for at least the next stage of the rulemaking). The timetable for completed actions (that is, regulations completed or withdrawn and reviews completed since the preceding agenda) gives the completion date and the citation, if appropriate.

For each procurement-related regulatory action, additional information is provided in the Additional Information data element (Block A): (1) A statement that the action is procurement-related; (2) an indication of whether or not there is a statutory requirement for the action; and (3) an indication of whether or not there is a paperwork burden associated with the action.

Organizational Note: The previous agenda contained two regulatory actions under the "Economic Regulatory Administration" heading. Functions related to these two actions have been transferred to the Assistant Secretary for Fossil Energy. Accordingly, these two actions now are grouped under the "Departmental and Others" heading, which includes actions of the Assistant Secretary.

A draft of this agenda has been transmitted to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration for comment, if any, to fulfill the requirements of 5 U.S.C. 602(b).

DOE's next agenda will be published in April 1990.

Issued in Washington, DC, on September 7, 1989.

Eric J. Fygi,

Acting General Counsel.

Abstract: The Energy Policy and Conservation Act (EPCA), as amended, establishes initial energy-efficiency standard levels for most types of major appliances and generally requires DOE to undergo two subsequent rulemakings, at specified times, to determine whether the extant standard for a covered product should be amended. These products are: refrigerators, refrigerator-freezers, and freezers; room air conditioners; central air conditioners and central air conditioning heat pumps; water heaters; pool heaters; direct heating equipment; furnaces; dishwashers; clothes washers; clothes dryers; kitchen ranges and ovens; and fluorescent lamp ballasts. Other appliances, including television sets, may be regulated by the Department. This rulemaking will review the Abstract: Under the National Energy Conservation Policy Act, DOE has promulgated regulations establishing a methodology for estimating and comparing the life cycle costs of Federal buildings and for determining life cycle cost effectiveness. The Energy Security Act required that the regulations provide for the use of marginal energy costs in the life cycle cost analyses. DOE sought legislative revisions to authorize use of average energy costs rather than marginal costs. Appropriate legislative relief came with the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986. The current rulemaking would update base year prices and energy cost escalation rates based on current average energy cost projections. It would also eliminate the need for Federal Register publication of future annual updates so long as there is no significant change in the method for making average energy cost projections. In addition, the Federal Energy Management Improvement Act requires the Secretary of Energy to establish the discount rate for life cycle costing. The current rulemaking would include the methodology by which the discount rate will be established.

616. ENERGY EFFICIENCY TEST PROCEDURES FOR WATER HEATERS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6293

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 430.22

Abstract: Final test procedures for 13 types of appliances were established during 1978. The test procedures form the basis of manufacturers' representations on the Federal Trade Commission's EnergyGuide label. In February 1984, DOE proposed to establish test procedures for heat pump water heaters and to eliminate the need for the test procedure waiver granted to A.O. Smith for its water heater with a thermal compensatory dip tube. Based on the comments received pursuant to the February 8, 1984 NPRM, the Department prepared a new NPRM published March 13, 1987. This NPRM proposed a single test procedure to cover gas, oil and electric water heaters as well as heat pump water heaters, and extended the test procedures to cover instantaneous type water heaters. In addition to the A.O. Smith matter, the rulemaking would eliminate the need for the test procedure waivers granted Bock Corp., Ford Products and Lockinvar Corp. for their high mass oil-fired water heaters.

618. ENERGY-EFFICIENCY STANDARDS FOR REFRIGERATORS AND RELATED PRODUCTS, AND SMALL GAS FURNACES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6295

Legal Deadline: Other, Statutory. EPCA requires DOE determinations to amend Federal appliance standards in a period from 7/1/89 to 1/1/94. The Statute requires completion of a second reanalysis of all then-extant (cont)

Abstract: The Energy Policy and Conservation Act (EPCA), as amended, extensively amends the Department's statutory authorities and responsibilities regarding energy efficiency standards for major household appliances. EPCA establishes initial statutory energy-efficiency standard levels for most types of major appliances and generally requires the Department to undergo two subsequent rulemakings, at specified times, to determine whether the extant standard for a covered product should be amended. These products are: refrigerators, refrigerator-freezers, and freezers; room air conditioners; central air conditioners and central air conditioning heat pumps; water heaters; pool heaters; direct heating equipment; furnaces; dishwashers; clothes washers; clothes dryers; kitchen ranges and ovens; and fluorescent lamp ballasts. Other appliances, including television sets, may be regulated by the Department essentially as provided for in prior law. This rulemaking will review the statutory standard levels for refrigerators, refrigerator-freezers, and freezers to determine whether those levels need to be (cont)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6293

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 430.22

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: DOE has proposed to amend existing test procedures for refrigerator-freezers and freezers to alleviate the requirement for waivers for units equipped with variable defrost controls. The proposal also addresses refrigerator-freezers equipped with two compressors. The proposed amendments would eliminate the need for the test procedure waivers granted Whirlpool and White Consolidated Industries, Inc., for their variable defrost control refrigerator-freezers.

620. ENERGY CONSERVATION STANDARDS FOR WATER HEATERS; TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6292

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 430.32

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action would be a technical amendment, based on water heater test procedure changes in progress (see 1904 - AA12), of the statutory standard for water heaters contained in the National Appliance Energy Conservation Act of 1987 (NAECA), as amended. This amendment could change the way the standard level is measured, but would not change the level of the minimum energy conservation standard itself. NAECA requires amendment of the applicable standard if the Secretary determines that an amended test procedure will alter the measured efficiency of the standard. This technical amendment of the standard is to be completed concurrently with the rulemaking with respect to the amended test procedure.

Abstract: The protection of certain of the Department's security interests, with the potential, if misused, of causing unacceptable damage to the national security, requires the implementation of a program designed to assure that individuals occupying positions affording access to certain material, facilities, and programs meet the highest standards of reliability. This action would establish a Q(R) access authorization for individuals applying for or currently holding a position identified as a Personnel Security Assurance Program (PSAP) position. The security clearance determination would, through a system of continuous evaluation, identify those individuals whose judgment may be impaired by physical and/or emotional disorders, the use of controlled substances, or the use of alcohol habitually to excess.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 42 USC 10222

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 961 (Revision)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On April 18, 1983, the Department of Energy (DOE) published a rule which established the Standard Contract for Disposal of Spent Nuclear Fuel and/or High-Level Radioactive Waste (standard disposal contract) to be used by the DOE in furnishing disposal services to the owners or generators of spent nuclear fuel and/or high-level radioactive waste (48 FR 16590). On March 17, 1989, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia (Consolidated Edison Co. et al. v. DOE, No. 88-1194) ruled that the ongoing 1.0 mill per kilowatt hour (1M/KWH) fee in DOE's standard disposal contract should be based on nuclear electricity actually sold rather than net generation of electricity as adopted in the amended final rule of September 17, 1987 (52 FR 35356). This notice publishes for comment amendments to Article I.13, Article VIII.A.1 and B.1, and Appendix G of the standard disposal contract to be consistent with the court's ruling. This amendment is expected to reduce revenues from the ongoing fee about 6 to 8 percent.

Abstract: Legislative changes and economic conditions have made it necessary to modify the regulatory language to comport with Congressional intent of the amended Fuel Use Act. Specifically, it is proposed to remove all language that relates to industrial facilities. The fuel price calculations and inflation indices used in the cost test calculations supporting exemptions based on a lack of alternate fuel at a cost that does not substantially exceed the cost of using imported petroleum will be changed. It also is proposed to insert language that will dramatically decrease the evidence that must be presented to qualify for an FUA exemption when a powerplant certifies to the technical and financial feasibility of using an alternate fuel at a future date.

Abstract: The Department of Energy does not have a policy for indemnifying its employees who are sued personally and suffer an adverse judgment as a result of conduct taken within the scope of employment. Lawsuits against Federal employees in their personal capacity can constitute a major impediment to the effective conduct of the public's business, since employees faced with the potential of being held personally liable may be inhibited in discharging their duties. To deal with this problem, the Department proposes to establish a policy permitting, but not requiring, the indemnification of an employee who suffers an adverse verdict, judgment, or other monetary award when the actions giving rise to liability were within the scope of his employment and indemnification is in the interest of the Government. This policy would be modeled on a similar policy already adopted by the Department of Justice for its employees.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7254; 5 USC 301; 28 CFR 1621

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 202

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The intent of this regulation is to establish an agency-wide procedure for processing and responding to subpoenas or requests for Department of Energy records or testimony by Department of Energy officers and employees. A regulation intended to fulfill this purpose currently exists. However, relocating its position in the Code of Federal Regulations and some minor language changes would clarify its applicability. In addition, efficient application of the regulation will be promoted by more closely modeling it on the comparable Department of Justice regulation, since the Department of Justice is usually responsible for representing the Department of Energy in such matters. The cost of this action is expected to be de minimis and could effect a savings, since clarification and recodification of the existing regulation may avoid needless litigation.

657. REVISIONS TO "QUALITY OF CARE" EXCLUSION AND PAYMENT DENIAL REGULATIONS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1320a-7(b)(6)(B); 42 USC 1320c-3(a)(2); 42 USC 1320c-5

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 1001; 42 CFR 1004; 42 CFR 466

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rulemaking would revise and consolidate, where feasible, the principal regulations pertaining to "quality of care" exclusions from Medicare and other health care programs. Such exclusions may be based on the furnishing of excessive services, the failure to furnish care that meets professionally recognized standards of medical care, or the failure to properly document medical services. This rulemaking would attempt to make the various OIG regulations relating to such quality of care exclusions consistent with each other, consistent with HCFA's PRO payment denial regulations at 42 FR 466, and consistent with the case law that has been decided in the U.S. Courts of Appeals in recent years.

677. UNIFORM ADMINISTRATIVE REQUIREMENTS FOR GRANTS AND COOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS

Legal Authority: 5 USC 301

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 74; 45 CFR 92

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Fiscal and Administrative requirements governing grants and cooperative agreements to non-governmental recipients are presently codified in an HHS-specific regulation (45 CFR Part 74). This rule would move those requirements (with many changes and additions) to a new rule (45 CFR Part 92) that would be virtually identical to the rules of 26 other federal agencies. The same action would also create a mechanism for applying a new set of liberalized rules to research grants. Since all Federal agencies' grants and cooperative agreements would henceforth be subject to identical rules, there should be administrative benefits for multi-award recipients and better understanding of the terms and conditions of awards.

680. IMPLEMENTATION OF THE EQUAL ACCESS TO JUSTICE ACT IN AGENCY PROCEEDINGS

Legal Authority: 5 USC 504(c)(1)

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 13

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Equal Access to Justice Act requires agencies to pay attorney fees to parties prevailing against the Government in certain types of administrative proceedings. It requires each agency to issue rules implementing the Act as it applies to these proceedings. As originally enacted, the Act had a sunset clause. A recent statutory amendment eliminated the sunset provision and made other changes in the Act. The instant regulation would amend 45 CFR Part 13 (HHS's regulation implementing the Act) to eliminate the corresponding sunset provision and to make other changes conforming with the statutory changes.

Abstract: Sec. 2615 of Pub. L. 98-369 amended sec. 1127 of the Social Security Act to eliminate loopholes that permitted some people who were paid Old-Age, Survivors and Disability Insurance (OASDI) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits retroactively to receive more in total benefits for the same period than if they had been paid the benefits when regularly due. The two main changes are: (1) SSI benefits will be reduced where retroactive OASDI benefits have been paid before the SSI benefits. Under prior law, reductions could be made only in retroactive OASDI benefits and only when the retroactive SSI had been paid first. (2) OASDI or SSI benefits payable upon reinstatement following a period of suspension or termination will be reduced by the amount of SSI benefits that would not have been paid if the OASDI benefits had been paid when regularly due. We will amend our regulations to conform to the statutory changes. The program savings to SSA are estimated as $5 million a year.

Abstract: This provision of the law requires us to consider the combined effect of all of a person's impairments in determining disability regardless of whether any single impairment, if considered separately, would be of sufficient severity. If we do find a medically severe combination of impairments, the combined impact of the impairments must be considered throughout the disability determination process. When the combined effect is found to be severe, the person's impairments are evaluated throughout the full sequential evaluation process. We are revising the regulations to explain in greater detail how we consider the combined effect of multiple impairments and what we mean by a severe impairment.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Abstract: Section 112.00 of Appendix 1 to the Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance Disability Regulations 404.1501 through 404.1599 describe the medical criteria that apply only to the evaluation of mental impairments of persons under age 18. We are proposing comprehensive revisions to that section to ensure that the medical criteria are up to date and consistent with the latest advances in medicine. The Supplemental Security Income program incorporates by reference and uses the same medical criteria as the Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance program.

Abstract: Sections 10.00 and 110.00 of Appendix 1 to the Disability Regulations (404.1501 through 404.1599) describe immune system disorders which are severe enough to prevent a person from doing any gainful or age-appropriate activities. We are proposing to add the criteria for evaluation of AIDS to these sections. The Supplemental Security Income program incorporates by reference and uses the same medical criteria as the Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance program. The budgetary impact is unknown at this time.

705. OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE PROGRAM; NONPAYMENT OF BENEFITS TO PRISONERS, VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION EXCEPTION

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 42 USC 402(x)(1); 42 USC 405

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 404D

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Existing regulations at 20 CFR 404.468(d) provide a vocational rehabilitation exception to the nonpayment of benefits to prisoners provision described at 20 CFR 404.468(a). Under the exception, the nonpayment provision does not apply if a prisoner who is entitled to benefits on the basis of disability is actively and satisfactorily participating in a rehabilitation program which has been specifically approved for the individual by court of law. In addition, the Secretary must determine that the program is expected to result in the individual being able to do substantial gainful activity upon release and within a reasonable time. No benefits will be paid to the prisoner for any month prior to the approval of the program. The proposed regulations would set out more definitive criteria for applying the exception and would define terms, such as "rehabilitation program," "court of law," and "reasonable time," for purposes of applying the exception.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 8 of Pub. L. 99-643 provides that effective for benefits payable for months after May 1986, an underpayment shall be paid to any surviving spouse of a deceased SSI recipient whether or not the spouse was eligible for SSI, if such spouse was living in the same household with the recipient at the time of death, or within the 6 months immediately preceding the month of death, or to the parent(s) of a deceased disabled or blind child who was an SSI recipient if the child was living with the parent(s) at the time of death or within the 6 months immediately preceding the month of death. These proposed regulations would also reflect a policy change that would continue the appeals process (versus automatic dismissal), at the Administrative Law Judge or Appeals Council level, for the survivors' entitlement to an underpayment if they meet certain conditions. The cost estimate for these provisions is estimated to be $2 million per year in program costs and less than $1 million

Abstract: This proposed regulation would establish rules on the evidence an individual must submit with a request to correct the Secretary's record of earnings and state the conditions under which the Secretary will assist the requester in obtaining evidence that establishes such records as incorrect. This proposed regulation would reduce the number of unproductive efforts the agency makes to investigate unsubstantiated assertions that the Secretary's records are incorrect and facilitate the correction process in many cases by relying more upon evidence readily available to the requester.

Abstract: Under the current SSI rules, three different formulas are used to calculate the amount of income deemed to an eligible child from his or her ineligible parent(s) when they are living together. The formulas produce different results depending on the type of income (earned versus unearned) and the number of children in the household. This sometimes creates anomalies. The rule would resolve the anomalies by providing that one formula be used regardless of the type of parental income. The formula to be used is the formula now used when the parent(s) has both earned and unearned income.

Under these proposed regulations a State agency would be required to limit the amounts it pays for laboratory tests to the maximum payment level contained in the Health Care Financing Administration's (HCFA) National Limitation Amounts for Laboratory Fee Schedules. These proposed regulations will also provide that the one-third reduction rule which applies when a person who lives in another's household and receives in-kind support and maintenance will not apply if the SSI recipient pays his or her pro rata share in cash and no later than the month under consideration. Abstract: We are proposing to revise our rules on reducing the Social Security spouse's benefits of a person who is also receiving a Government pension based on noncovered employment. The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987 (PL 100-203, sec 9007) requires that a Federal Government employee who elects to be covered under Social Security after December 31, 1987 must work for at least 60 months after that date in order to avoid the reduction after he or she becomes entitled to Social Security spouse's benefits. That requirement is extended to the foreign service pension system by the Technical and Miscellaneous Revenue Act of 1988 (PL 100-647), which also provides that under certain circumstances the reduction does not apply to any individual who retires before his or her coverage election becomes effective.

Abstract: These proposed rules reflect sec. 9110 of Pub.L. 100-203. They extend Interim Assistance Reimbursement to cases in which assistance is provided by a State while an individual's Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments are suspended or terminated and then subsequently reinstated. Current regulations provide for reimbursement to a State only for interim assistance payments made while an individual's initial application for SSI is pending. Abstract: This proposed rule would change one of the requirements for determining whether an insured person is contributing to the support of a child at a specific time. The requirements that contributions be made regularly and be large enough to meet an important part of a child's living expenses would be replaced by a requirement that consideration be given to the economic circumstances of both the insured person and the child and that recognition also be given to the child's needs. Abstract: We have learned that old-age and survivors' insurance beneficiaries whose estimate of earnings for the current year is more than the exempt amount for that year, but is equal to or less than the prior year's earnings, tend to underestimate or fail to report their work for the next year which results in overpayments. We are proposing an addition to the current regulation which will clarify that our interpretation of Section 203(h)(3) and (h)(4) of the Social Security Act permits SSA to request estimates of earnings for the next taxable year as well as the current taxable year. If a beneficiary does not furnish the requested future year's earnings estimate, we will use the estimate for the current year to determine whether to withhold benefits for the next year. We estimate savings of $3.5 million per year.

If it is determined that a State agency has substantially failed to make disability determinations in a manner consistent with Federal regulations or other written guidelines, the Social Security Administration, in accordance with section 221 of the Social Security Act (42 USC 421), must assume the responsibility for making the disability determinations. Abstract: This regulation reflects the provisions of two sections in PL 100-647. The first provision requires Social Security to deny or terminate benefits if the beneficiary is deported (or ordered deported) because of certain actions performed while associated with the Nazi government of Germany or one of its allies. The second provision extends the current law treatment of self-employed workers who may claim an exemption from Social Security coverage if they are members of a religious faith that is opposed to participation in Social Security programs to their employees in cases where both the employee and the employer are members of a qualifying religious faith.

Abstract: These proposed amendments revise the medical evaluation criteria for mental disorders for the Social Security disability programs. Abstract: We propose to amend our regulations on redeterminations of Supplementary Security Income eligibility. Our current policy does not include in the redetermination period the month of eligibility, the month of application, or the month of the last redetermination or eligibility update. The redeterminations omit these months and, as a result, we do not have an accounting of all living arrangements, income, and resources for the period of eligibility. month of eligibility update for the first redetermination and the month of the last redetermination for subsequent redeterminations.

Abstract: The proposed rules would have provided for the reopening and revising of Supplemental Security Income determinations within four years of the notice of the initial determination if we discovered an error affecting a claimant's eligibility or benefit amount during this period through the use of information exchange and data gathering involving either our records or our records and those of other Federal or State agencies. We have determined that this proposed change is no longer necessary because improved systems processes since the publication of the NPRM allow us to process most of the errors discovered within the two-year limit on reopening an SSI determination and have relieved the need for an exception to the current two-year reopening limit.

Abstract: These rules will revise 20 CFR 404.2040, which stipulates the use of benefit payments by a representative payee, explaining that retroactive and monthly title II benefits received by a representative payee may be used for other members of the AFDC Unit. We are also providing for direct payment to a beneficiary under age 18 if the beneficiary is within 7 months of attaining age 18 and is initially filing an application for benefits. Abstract: The regulations include standards for obtaining consultative examinations, the types of consultative examination referrals to be made, and monitoring procedures for consultative examinations and the referral process. The regulations also provide for evaluating all medical evidence of record and developing a 12-month medical history. References to "medical assessments" will be replaced by references to medical source statements as to what a person can still do despite his or her impairment(s). The regulations also set forth the standards to be used in evaluating the medical opinions of treating and other medical sources. Abstract: Public Law 98-460 created 2 new provisions under which SSA will pay vocational rehabilitation (VR) agencies for the costs of services provided to disabled or blind social security beneficiaries or SSI recipients. Under the first new provision, SSA will allow payment to vocational rehabilitation agencies (VRAs) for the costs of VR services provided to individuals continuing to receive payment because they are participating in a VR program after their period of disability has ceased due to their medical recovery. The second new provision allows payment to VRAs for the costs of VR services provided to beneficiaries/recipients who refuse without good cause to continue or to cooperate in a VR program in such a way as to preclude their successful rehabilitation with such refusal resulting in the nonpayment of their disability or blindness payments. It is estimated that the first year costs of this program will be less than $1 million.

The 10 percent requirement will apply only to recipients in current payment status. The 10 percent limit will not apply in situations involving conditional disposition of resources agreements, misuse of burial funds, recovery by refund, cross program adjustment for individuals not in SSI current pay or where it is determined that the overpayment occurred because of recipient fraud, willful misrepresentation, or concealment. The rules, in negotiated cases, set a rate of withholding that is appropriate for the financial condition of the overpaid person after (continued)

Abstract: If the court remands a case and the SSA Appeals Council remands it to an administrative law judge (ALJ), under current regulations the ALJ returns the case to the Appeals Council with a recommended decision, and the Appeals Council must review that decision and take further action in every case before the decision becomes final. This can involve delay. The regulation will permit the ALJ to make a decision which would become final unless, within 30 days after the decision is received, the claimant files exceptions or within that period requests an extension of time to file exceptions, or within 60 days after the date of the decision the Appeals Council decides to review the decision on its own. The change will permit more timely final decisions, and result in administrative savings of about $1 million per year, due to a reduction in the number of personnel required to review the ALJ decision.It will not affect program cost.

Abstract: PL 98-21 changed the timing of crediting deferred compensation for Social Security purposes. It also changed the treatment of retirement pay depending upon whether it is paid under a qualified deferred compensation plan. Further, it excluded from coverage various fringe benefits and payments under a Simplified Employee Pension Plan. Finally, the amendments codify certain provisions pertaining to meals and lodging and tax-sheltered annuities. PL 98-369 amended the wage exclusion for qualified bond purchase plans. PL 99-514 excluded from coverage payments under a cafeteria plan; amended the law for determining self- employment income when an individual works for a church or church-controlled organization which has elected not to pay Social Security taxes; and amended the law for receiving an exemption from Social Security coverage for members of religious orders, ministers, and Christian Science practitioners. We are adding to the final rule the provisions in sec 9003 of PL 100-203 and sec 8013 of PL 100-647 concerning wage exclusion of group life insurance payments. These regulations merely reflect the above provisions and do not add substantive rules.

Abstract: Under the rule, a parent will be able to request a Social Security number in the hospital when he or she provides birth registration information for a newborn child. The State vital statistics office will receive the information and the request from the hospital and electronically transmit this information to the Social Security Administration (SSA). SSA will assign a Social Security number to the child and send a card to the parents. We expect annual savings of $11.4 million. A pilot project in three States has shown this procedure to be efficient and well-received.

Legal Authority: PL 100-690

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 96

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 2027 of Public Law 100-690 amends Section 1916 of the PHS Act to set a floor on the amount States must spend each year beginning in FY 1991 from Alcohol and Drug Abuse and Mental Health Services Block Grant funds for new mental health services and programs. However, the Secretary may grant any State that he determines to be in a financial crisis a waiver lowering that floor by up to a certain amount. The Act requires that such determinations be based on standards published in regulations. Issues to be resolved in regulations include: (a) how to determine when a State is in a financial crisis; (b) what information States must provide to assure that a waiver is needed to avoid disruption to existing and planned high priority services; (c) how to determine the extent of relief to be granted for approved waivers; and (d) imposing requirements that are cost effective.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 30 USC 842(h); 30 USC 844; 30 USC 957

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 11; 42 CFR 84

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule addresses three major problems of the current regulation by (1) substantially upgrading laboratory performance tests for certifying respirators; (2) adding quantitative face seal performance tests; and (3) replacing current certification tests that are design- or application-specific with tests that are performance-based. The first NPRM for revising 42 CFR Part 84 was published in the Federal Register on August 27, 1987 (52 FR 32402). In response to the many comments on the first proposal, NIOSH is in the process of developing a second NPRM.

769. INTERSTATE SHIPMENT OF BIOLOGICAL MATERIAL THAT CONTAINS OR MAY CONTAIN AN ETIOLOGIC AGENT

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 42 USC 216; 42 USC 264; 42 USC 271

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 72

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The revised regulation will clarify the requirements for packaging and shipping material containing etiologic agents. Some users have had difficulty applying the current regulation, particularly with respect to the definition of material covered. The revised regulation is not expected to have a major impact on the cost of shipping these materials and is expected to result in increased conformance so that those handling such packages will have an even lower probability of exposure to potentially infectious material.

These materials will be published as an appendix of this regulation. The regulation describes the vaccine information materials and the health care providers' duties to disseminate a copy of the materials to any adult to whom the provider intends to administer vaccine and to the legal representative of any child to whom the provider intends to administer vaccine. 772. DRUG EXPORTS

Legal Authority: PL 99-660 Drug Export Amendments Act of 1986

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Drug Export Amendments Act of 1986 authorizes the export for commercial marketing abroad of veterinary and human drugs not approved for marketing in the United States. Under previous law, the export of new human and animal drugs for marketing was confined to drugs that were approved by FDA for domestic use. The law establishes three separate pathways for the export of unapproved products. Under each pathway, FDA approval is required before export is permitted. As a prerulemaking activity, FDA is developing guidance material for manufacturers instructing them as to what information must be submitted to the agency to obtain approval for the export of unapproved products. The guidance material will also identify FDA sources of information on agency practices and policies concerning the implementation of the Drug Export Amendments Act of 1986. The agency will then decide what, if any, regulations are necessary for the efficient implementation of the amendments, and establish timeframes for the development of those regulations.

773. COMPUTER PRODUCTS; POLICY GUIDANCE

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 21 USC 321(h)

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 800

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: As a prerulemaking activity, FDA is developing guidance for manufacturers respecting how FDA would apply existing statutory requirements to the regulation of computer products (i.e., both hardware and software) when such products meet the definition of a medical device under the act.

On September 25, 1987, FDA made available a draft policy guidance intended to clarify how FDA would apply existing statutory requirements to the regulation of such products to provide opportunity for public participation in this activity.

Upon analysis of the public comments on the complex issues pertaining to the regulation of computer products, the agency will decide whether any additional steps are necessary to clarify which computer products meet the definition of a medical device and what level of regulation, if any, is appropriate under the act.

Abstract: The agency has issued an advance notice of proposed rulemaking requesting public comment on possible changes in the labeling of food products regulated by FDA. The agency has long required certain labeling, such as ingredients and net weight on packaged foods, and in recent years has bolstered such labeling with requirements for label information about the nutritional quality of foods. Now, FDA believes it is timely to consider revising the food labeling requirements, and has sought public comment on five areas: (1) whether to revise the requirements for nutrition labeling; (2) whether to change the nutrition label format on food packages; (3) whether to revise the requirements for ingredient labeling; (4) whether to formally define commonly used food descriptions and/or reconsider the use of standards of identity for foods; and (5) how to reasonably permit the use of messages on food labels that link food components to the prevention of disease.

Abstract: FDA is responsible for issuing regulatory standards for blood and blood components to ensure the continued safety, purity, and potency of such products. Since 1975, CGMP regulations have been in effect that provide standards for facilities, personnel, and manufacturing procedures for blood and blood components. In accordance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act, FDA has conducted a retrospective review of its CGMP regulations for blood and blood components, to determine how the regulations may be revised to relieve regulatory burdens and increase flexibility without adversely affecting the public health. Part of the retrospective review of the CGMP will be completed through FDA's implementation of an efficacy review of blood and blood derivatives which responds to recommendations of a Committee of scientific experts--the Panel on Review of Blood and Blood Derivatives. To complete the remainder of the retrospective review program regarding the CGMP, FDA will issue a proposed rule to revise the CGMP regulations.

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 514.1; 21 CFR 514.8

Abstract: Based upon an evaluation of an action issues report, the agency has concluded that it will recommend that the Secretary propose revision of the existing regulations in a manner consistent with the current procedural regulations for human drugs where appropriate. The New Animal Drug Application (NADA) revisions would articulate general requirements in regulations containing performance standards and would complement them through detailed guidelines on, among other matters, appropriate ways of meeting requirements for submission of chemistry, pharmacology, and statistical data that would better address the intricate scientific issues involved.

Although the guidelines would not establish regulatory requirements, persons would be able to rely on them with confidence that action taken under a guideline would be acceptable to the agency.

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 211; 21 CFR 310; 21 CFR 600

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulatory action is being taken to improve the safety of marketed drug products by a reporting scheme that will require serious adverse reactions associated with licensed biological products to be reported to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

The purpose of the regulatory action is to require prompt reporting to the agency of serious adverse experiences for all licensed biological products.

The regulatory action being considered by FDA would be consistent with the agency's requirements regarding adverse reactions reporting for approved new drugs under 21 CFR 314.80 (see February 22, 1985; 50 FR 7452). These biologic regulations would require that all "serious and unexpected" adverse experiences and any "significant increase in frequency" of a serious expected event be reported to the agency within 15 working days. Known and nonserious adverse biological product experiences would be required to be reported to the agency at quarterly or annual intervals, depending on the length of marketing experience with the product. 780. PROPOSED RULE TO IMPLEMENT THE ORPHAN DRUG AMENDMENTS TO THE FEDERAL FOOD, DRUG, AND COSMETIC ACT

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: PL 97-414 Orphan Drug Act; PL 100-290

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Orphan Drug Act is intended to provide incentives for drug companies to invest in the development of drugs for rare diseases or conditions. Certain incentives are necessary because "orphan drugs" are unlikely to be profitable. The agency is required to carry out provisions of the Orphan Drug Act, e.g., by designating a drug as an orphan drug, by providing protocol assistance, and by granting seven years of exclusive approval status. The proposed rule would establish procedures whereby drug sponsors can take advantage of the incentives to encourage development of orphan drugs. While several provisions of the Orphan Drug Act call for promulgation of regulations, the agency is considering the extent to which regulations will be needed to provide the framework and guidance for implementing a program of incentives to drug sponsors and manufacturers.

Abstract: Until the passage of Title I of the "Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act of 1984," abbreviated new drug application (ANDA) procedures were only available for generic products equivalent to pioneer drugs approved before 1962. Title I opened up the ANDA policy to generic copies of products approved after 1962. On July 10, 1989 (54 FR 28872), FDA proposed regulations to implement Title I. The proposal provides for the submission of abbreviated new drug applications for generic versions of drug products first approved after 1962. These new provisions will benefit consumers by making generic drug products available more quickly.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 21 USC 351 to 360k; 21 USC 374; 42 USC 262 to 264

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The agency currently requires that all blood and blood components intended for the manufacture of any product be tested for antibody to human immunodeficiency virus (HIV). In instances when the blood of a donor is found to contain antibodies to HIV, some blood centers have initiated a program of voluntary "look-back" in which recipients of blood and blood components obtained from the donor's prior donations are traced and tested. A well-conducted look-back program can provide an effective mechanism for identifying, testing, and counseling transfusion recipients who are at increased risk of HIV infection--those who receive blood from a donor later found to be infected with HIV. The agency is considering a proposal to establish a mandatory look-back program. The proposal would require that blood collection facilities notify the appropriate transfusion facilities as soon as an infected donor is identified and implement a system of followup to ensure that either recipients are notified or that the physician of record determined that notification was inappropriate or was not possible.

Abstract: Acceptable evidence and information exists to show that a subgroup of asthmatics is at moderate to severe risk for a severe reaction upon exposure to sulfites. The agency's primary tool for handling a situation where population subgroups may be at increased risk from a food ingredient that is safe for most people is to use labeling to inform those persons who need or want to avoid the ingredient. The agency issued a final rule, effective January 7, 1987, that requires that when a sulfiting agent is present in a finished food at 10 parts per million or greater, the sulfiting agent must be declared on the label. In addition, FDA issued a final rule, effective August 8, 1986, prohibiting the use of sulfiting agents on raw fruits and vegetables intended to be served or sold raw to consumers (e.g., in salad bars). On December 10, 1987, FDA announced its tentative conclusion that there is no longer a basis to find that the use of sulfiting agents on "fresh" potatoes served or sold unpackaged to consumers is GRAS. On December 19, 1988, FDA proposed to affirm, with specific limitations, that certain other uses of sulfiting agents are GRAS. (cont)

Abstract: Substantial progress has been made in reducing the number of provisionally listed additives and only 1 color additive remains on the provisional list. The agency is presently reviewing petitions to list the color additive permanently. Because FD&C Red No. 3 animal feeding studies have shown a treatment-related increased incidence of tumor bearing animals, the agency considered the use of quantitative risk assessment as a basis for assessing the safety of this color additive in external drugs and cosmetics. As a preliminary step in its consideration of this approach, the agency formed a scientific peer review panel of government scientists to consider whether it is possible to quantify the risk presented by the use of FD&C Red No. 3 based on the scientific data available to the agency and, if so, what level of risk is presented by the use of this color additive. The agency has received the report from the scientific review panel in which the panel estimates the risk of cancer from use of FD&C Red No. 3 in external drugs and cosmetics. Furthermore, for FD&C Red No. 3 the industry has postulated a secondary mechanism for the observed tumorigenic response in the animal feeding (cont)

Abstract: In the FEDERAL REGISTER of August 4, 1987, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) discussed an initiative concerning health-related claims or information on food labeling and the criteria it will apply in evaluating the propriety of such labeling. Consistent with this initiative, FDA proposed to amend certain regulations on food labeling to codify and to clarify its policy on the appropriate use of health-related messages. The agency also announced its intention to form a Public Health Service (PHS) committee that will attempt to develop "health messages" appropriate for use on food labeling.

FDA recognizes that this initiative represents a substantive change in past agency policy, and because of the complexity of the matter and the broad public interest, wishes to proceed cautiously and deliberately in its regulatory approach.

Pending this rulemaking proceeding, the agency will employ the criteria discussed in the preamble to the notice in evaluating the propriety of bringing enforcement action against products bearing health messages on food labeling.

Abstract: In the FEDERAL REGISTER of November 25, 1986, the agency published a proposed rule that would provide a mechanism to allow relevant, truthful, and nonmisleading claims about cholesterol and fatty acid on product labeling for consumers. This proposed rule resulted from the medical and consumer interest in the association between dietary fat and cholesterol and the occurrence of coronary heart disease, the leading cause of death and disability in the United States today. The proposed rule would allow industry voluntarily to provide consumers with cholesterol and fatty acid information currently prohibited by regulations by permitting the use of meaningful descriptors of the cholesterol content of foods as established by regulation (e.g., "cholesterol free," "low cholesterol," and "reduced cholesterol"). Additionally, the proposal would allow the use of comparative claims (e.g., 50 percent less cholesterol than our original product), provided quantitative cholesterol content information is supplied. Public comments submitted in response to the proposed rule are being reviewed.

Abstract: In 1980, FDA published a regulation (21 CFR 102.33) to require the declaration of the percent of juice contained in all diluted juice beverages. This regulation was published to extend the percent juice declaration required for diluted orange juice beverages (21 CFR 102.32) to all other diluted juice beverages. These two regulations were developed to provide consumers with information as to the various amounts of juice in the diluted juice beverages offered for sale. The regulation regarding percentage juice declaration for diluted orange juice beverages had been in effect for several years and functioning well before the regulation addressing all other diluted juice beverages was published. With publication of 21 CFR 102.33, a controversy developed over the applicability of the regulation to diluted cranberry juice beverages. The controversy centered around the fact that cranberry juice is a high acid juice and is not normally consumed as a single strength juice. Due to this unresolved controversy, 21 CFR 102.33 has not been made effective. In the FEDERAL REGISTER of July 16, 1987 (52 FR 26690), the agency proposed to revoke the common or usual (cont)

The revocation of this regulation will allow voluntary percentage labeling of these diluted juice beverages at the discretion of the manufacturer and according to the demands of the marketplace. Diluted orange juice beverages would continue to be subject to the percentage labeling requirement that has been in effect for diluted orange juice beverages since 1973. Abstract: In the Federal Register of June 3, 1986 (51 FR 20204), the Office of Science and Technology Policy (OSTP) issued for public comment a proposed Model Federal Policy for the Protection of Human Research Subjects. This Model Policy is to enhance uniformity in the implementation of a common core of regulations governing research with human subjects. FDA has concurred in the proposed Model Policy to the extent permitted by law. FDA has proposed (53 FR 45678) to amend its regulations to eliminate certain inconsistencies with the proposed Model Policy.

Abstract: On September 23, 1988 (53 FR 37250), FDA proposed to amend its current regulations governing user labeling for menstrual tampons to require uniform absorbency testing of tampons and to standardize a method of expressing absorbency on tampon package labels. Under the proposal, manufacturers would have been required to include on the package label one of six letters (A-F) corresponding to a specific range of absorbency. After analyzing all the comments received in response to the proposal, FDA decided to repropose the amendments to 21 CFR 801.430 that would replace the letter designation initially proposed with six absorbency terms that are different from currently used terms (e.g., regular, super, and super plus). See 54 FR 25076; June 12, 1989. The new terms (i.e., low, medium, medium-high, high, very high, and highest absorbency), each of which would convey absorbency information, would correspond to the six absorbency ranges set out in the initial proposal. Under the reproposal, FDA would also require that the applicable new term of absorbency be placed on the principal display panel(s) of tampon packages, separate from and more prominent than any (cont)

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 109; 21 CFR 509

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On April 21, 1989 (54 FR 16128), FDA proposed to (1) amend its regulations creating and describing action levels for added poisonous or deleterious substances in food (including animal feed) to make clear that action levels constitute prosecutorial guidance rather than substantive rules, and (2) revoke the provisions for exceptions to action levels in 21 CFR Part 109 (human food) and 21 CFR Part 509 (animal feed) because of a court decision that relied on those regulations in determining that the action levels were substantive rules. Under the proposal, an action level would define a level of contamination at which the agency may regard a food as adulterated. The proposed amendments are intended to make it clear that action levels do not have a present effect and are not binding.

Abstract: On June 1, 1989 (54 FR 23485), FDA proposed to establish a regulatory limit for ceramic food-service pitchers, excluding creamers, that would limit the leaching of lead from the glazes and decorations on the food-contact surface of these pitchers to no more than 0.1 microgram per milliliter (ug/mL) of test solution. FDA also proposed to provide that decorative ceramicware that appears to be suitable for food use will be deemed to be for food use unless it bears a conspicuous, permanent label statement molded or fired onto the ceramic piece that states that the piece is not for food use, or a hole is bored through the possible food-contact surface of the piece. FDA proposed this provision to ensure that decorative pieces are not confused with food-contact ceramicware. Finally, by means of the notice, FDA solicited comments and information on several other matters, including the need to decrease leachable lead from other ceramicware (flatware, cookware, and large and small hollowware other than pitchers) and appropriate measures for achieving any needed decrease.

Abstract: The Food and Drug Administration and the National Institute on Drug Abuse are considering a proposal to revise the conditions for the use of methadone in the maintenance treatment of narcotic addicts. The proposal would allow programs to provide minimum service (interim) maintenance treatment to patients awaiting placement in comprehensive maintenance treatment and require programs to provide counseling on avoidance of human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) transmission. These requirements are being considered in response to the HIV epidemic and are intended to allow more narcotic addicts into treatment more quickly, thereby decreasing the incidence of intravenous drug abuse and the transmission of HIV.

Abstract: In the FEDERAL REGISTER of October 21, 1988 (53 FR 41561), FDA issued an interim rule effective upon date of publication, with opportunity for public comment, that set forth procedures designed to speed the availability of new therapies to desperately ill patients, while preserving appropriate guarantees for safety and effectiveness. These procedures are intended to facilitate the development, evaluation, and marketing of such products, especially where no satisfactory alternative therapies exist. These procedures reflect the recognition that physicians and patients are generally willing to accept greater risks or side effects from products that treat life-threatening and severely-debilitating illness. These procedures also reflect the recognition that the benefits of the drug need to be evaluated in light of the severity of the disease being treated. The procedures apply to life-threatening or severely-debilitating illnesses. The agency is reviewing the public comments submitted in response to the interim rule and preparing a FEDERAL REGISTER document that will respond to these comments.

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend existing regulations governing section 787 of the PHS Act, by adding statutory changes made by Title VI of Pub. L. 100-607, including: 1) that 10 percent of the amount of funds appropriated during any fiscal year be set aside for community-based programs; 2) that schools not having large enrollments of students from disadvantaged backgrounds increase their enrollments of such students during a period of 3 years by 20 percent over the base year of 1987; and 3) that the amount of grant funds obligated to institutions of higher education be changed from 80 percent to 70 percent. It would also require that an individual complete at least the junior year of high school (or its equivalent) in order to receive educational assistance.

Abstract: Public Law 93-638 passed in 1975, requires the IHS to turn over administrative responsibility to tribes so requesting, using the mechanism of contracting. Public Law 93-638 also authorizes the IHS to make grants to tribe(s) for the planning, development, and/or operations of health programs. Public Law 100-472, enacted October 5, 1988, significantly expands the scope of programs covered beyond those administered by IHS. This Act further provided that all contracting requirements be contained in regulations promulgated in final within ten months of enactment. The Law provides for tribal consultation and participation in the development of the regulations.

Additional Information: This is a procurement-related action for which there is a statutory requirement. There is a paperwork burden associated with this action.

1. The Act (P.L. 100-472) provides that except for construction contracts, the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act and Federal Acquisition Regulations shall not apply to self-determination contracts. Therefore, implementing regulations for the Indian Self-Determination Act amendments will include a subpart on construction contracts, which, unlike other self-determination awards will be made subject to certain procurement rules (e. g., FARS, HSARS, FSARS). 2. There is a statutory requirement to implement P.L. 93-638 regulations. 3. There is a paperwork burden associated with the action. It will be included with the overall clearance package.

Abstract: This proposed rule would implement section 9401 of Pub.L. 99-272, which provides that, under Medicare, a physician must request from the Peer Review Organization (PRO) preadmission review for certain surgical procedures. Under section 9401, if the PRO determines that the procedure is not appropriate and medically necessary, the PRO will deny payment under Medicare. If the PRO cannot determine whether a surgical procedure is medically necessary and appropriate, the beneficiary would obtain an opinion from a second physician, or where the opinion of the second physician differs from the first physician, the beneficiary may obtain an opinion from a third physician. In addition, as required by section 4096(b) of Pub. L.100-203, if an assigned claim by a physician or supplier or any claim by a provider is denied because the services furnished are not reasonable and necessary or constitute custodial care and the physician, suppler or provider, but not the beneficiary, knew, or reasonably could be expected to know, that the services were not covered by Medicare, (cont)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule proposes to establish optional prospective payment rates for routine services furnished by certain skilled nursing facilities. The prospective rate would be on a per diem basis and would include payment for the cost of furnishing general inpatient routine services and associated capital-related costs. Ancillary services will be paid on the basis of reasonable cost. As specified in the Conference Committee Report accompanying PL 99-272, the rates paid to proprietary SNFs would include a component for the routine service portion of the return on equity capital. As specified in section 1861(v)(1)(B) of the Act, the return on equity component would only be included in the rate paid to proprietary SNFs. This rule would propose instructions for determining eligibility for payment under this system, and the methodology for calculating the prospective payment rates. Freestanding SNFs electing to be paid under this prospective payment system may file a simplified cost report.

Abstract: Under this final notice, hospital-based home health agencies accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation for Healthcare Organizations' and home health agencies accredited by the National League for Nursing are considered or "deemed" to meet the Medicare conditions of participation. Thus, these agencies will not ordinarily be subject to an inspection by State survey agencies to determine their compliance with Federal requirements. 851. APPLICATION OF THE COMPARABLE SERVICES LIMITATION IN DETERMINING REASONABLE CHARGES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1395u(b)(3)(B); 42 USC 1302; 42 USC 1395hh

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 405.508

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would clarify the circumstances under which Medicare carriers are to apply the comparable services limitation in making their determination of a reasonable charge for Medicare Part B services. Under section 1842(b)(3)(B) of the Act, carriers are prohibited from making a determination of a reasonable charge that would be higher than the charge upon which they would base payment to their own policyholders for a comparable service under comparable circumstances. Currently, there is a great deal of confusion among the carriers as to what constitutes comparable services and comparable circumstances, the result of which is that very few carriers are applying the comparable services limitation in their reasonable charge determination. We would revise the regulations to more clearly state how the comparable services limitation should be implemented by the carriers.

Regulation must be promulgated containing methodology. Section 1915(d)(5)(B)(iii)

Abstract: This regulation would implement section 1915(d) of the Act. These rules would allow a State to provide skilled nursing facility (SNF), intermediate care facility (ICF), and home and community-based services to individuals 65 years of age and older, in exchange for a "cap" on the amount of money for which Medicaid Federal financial participation would be available. The program would be administered by means of waivers which a State could request. As currently constructed, the statute allows for waivers of statewideness, comparability, and income deeming. Home and community-based services could be made available to individuals age 65 or older who are shown by an evaluation to be likely to require the level of care provided in an SNF or ICF, the cost for which could be paid by Medicaid. For States electing this option, the waiver would replace the home and community-based services waivers available under section 1915(c) of the Act, for individuals in this age category.

Abstract: Amendments to the Clinical Laboratory Improvement Act of 1988 (CLIA) require all clinical laboratories to be regulated regardless of their ownership, location or of how few tests they perform. This proposed rule would set forth provisions of CLIA '88 that are not self-implementing. (The self-implementing provisions are contained in the final regulation "Review of Current Rules Affecting Clinical Laboratories.") This rule would contain requirements for performance standards for laboratories not regulated under CLIA as of December 31, 1988, that may vary depending on the complexity of the testing and a provision that will allow some laboratories that perform only simple examinations and procedures that have a low risk of erroneous results, a waiver from the standards and inspections. The proposed rule will also contain the requirements that would address fees for certified laboratories as well as laboratories issued a certificate of waiver from standards and inspections. The fees would be charged to meet administrative costs, as well as the cost of onsite inspections and ongoing monitoring of laboratory performance.

Abstract: This proposal would eliminate the requirement that HCFA publish in the Federal Register a proposed notice with opportunity for public comment and then a fiscal notice for any changes in MMIS requirements, performance standards and other conditions for approval and reapproval. Instead we would use well established communication arrangements under which States provide input during the development of revisions, and we issue revised manual instructions well in advance of implementation changes. Abstract: These regulations will implement provisions of section 948 of P.L. 96-499 and section 2307 of P.L. 98-369. This legislation deals with certain problems that have arisen in the Medicare program with respect to payment for physicians in the teaching setting. Specifically addressed by Congress is the problem of distinguishing between the services a physician furnishes to individual patients as a teaching physician and services furnished to the provider, as well as the method of reimbursement for these services. This rule sets forth the conditions under which physicians in teaching settings will be reimbursed on a reasonable cost basis or, alternatively, on a reasonable charge basis. It also describes the methods used to determine the customary charges for the services of those physicians. This rule will also clarify related issues of physician reimbursement.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This final rule revises the regulations governing the Medicaid eligibility quality control (MEQC) program to include more specified program requirements and to establish new time frames for completing and reporting MEQC case findings to HCFA. The final rule also establishes a performance-based threshold for States to meet before HCFA will consider good faith waiver requests of disallowance of Federal financial participation in erroneous Medicaid payments and provides more definitive criteria for evaluating States' good faith efforts to meet the national standard error rate. In addition, the rule makes several technical changes and specifies that States may rebut their quarterly projected error rates when they can present evidence that the projected rates were based on erroneous data. The revisions will strengthen the MEQC program and provide flexibility and incentives to States to produce more accurate Medicaid eligibility determinations.

Abstract: Currently, hospital-based and independent laboratories are subject to varying State Licensure requirements and to Medicare regulations that vary from requirements of private accreditation entities and from regulations governing laboratories performing tests under interstate commerce. One consequence is that the quality of laboratories' services is adjudged using different standards. Inconsistent standards not only create confusion regarding necessary performance levels, but may permit laboratories with substandard performance to continue furnishing covered services. This rule will amend the requirements to improve the quality of laboratory services. It will provide recognition of new technologies in laboratory quality assurance, refine outcome measures of performance and include personnel standards that take into account accepted management and testing practices that contribute to the quality of laboratory services. Also, this rule will provide consistent criteria for an effective proficiency testing program for Medicare, Medicaid, and CLIA laboratories.

Additionally, it would include requirements regarding timely refunds to Medicare when collections have been made from another insurer. It also clarifies rules for Medicare payment for services furnished to an end-stage renal disease (ESRD) patient who is also covered under an employer group health plan. It would include the changes pertaining to Medicare conditional payments for ESRD beneficiaries made by section 4036(a) of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987. It would update policies pertaining to Medicare payment for services covered under a workers' compensation law or plan, or under no-fault or liability insurance. It would make Medicare secondary to all kinds of no-fault insurance, not just automobile no-fault insurance.

Abstract: These regulations make explicit in the regulations HCFA's policy on the relationship between State Medicaid eligibility determinations based on disability and disability determinations by SSA under the Supplemental Security Income Program. The regulations incorporate the conditions under which the State agency must make independent determinations of disability and the effect of determination by SSA of disability for purposes of establishing Medicaid eligibility. The regulations also conform the Medicaid provisions on composition of medical review teams, required information, and the time limit for making determinations more closely to similar provisions used by SSA in making SSI determinations. Because of numerous questions raised and litigation, it is necessary to clarify our policy on the controlling nature of SSI disability determinations on Medicaid eligibility.

Abstract: This final rule will implement sections 9121 and 9122 of PL 99-272 as amended by PL 100-203. Specifically, under section 9121, Medicare participating hospitals with emergency departments would be required to provide upon request medical examinations and treatments for individuals with emergency medical conditions and women in active labor. Hospitals failing to meet those requirements may have their Medicare provider agreements suspended or terminated. In addition, the hospital and the responsible physician may each be subject to a civil money penalty for each such violation. Under section 9122, Medicare participating hospitals would be required to accept CHAMPUS and CHAMPVA payment as payment in full for services provided to CHAMPUS and CHAMPVA beneficiaries. These regulations will also implement section 233 of PL 99-576, which requires Medicare hospitals to admit veterans. They will also implement section 9305(b)(1) of PL 99-509, which requires Medicare hospitals to give patients a notice of their discharge rights.

Abstract: This final rule amends the Medicaid regulations to specify for Medicaid, mandatory categorically needy eligibility for individuals who, although severely impaired, work and demonstrate ability to perform substantial gainful activity and who are considered to be Supplemental Security Income (SSI) beneficiaries by virtue of Section 1619 of the Social Security Act. It also specifies how States electing the option under Section 1902(f) of the Social Security Act to provide Medicaid under criteria more restrictive than SSI, will treat the "1619" individuals. It also specifies how SSI payments made to certain institutionalized individuals are to be disregarded as income under Medicaid for up to two months. The amendments conform the regulations to provisions of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 and the Employment Opportunities for Disabled.

Abstract: This regulation implements Section 9332(c) of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 under which nonparticipating physicians who provide, on an unassigned basis, services which are determined to be medically unnecessary are required to refund to the beneficiary any amounts collected for such services. Exceptions to the refund requirement will be granted only if the physician did not know and could not reasonably have been expected to know that the service was not covered, or if the beneficiary, after being informed that Medicare will not pay for the service, agrees to pay.

Effective for services performed on or after 01/01/89.

Abstract: As a result of provisions included in section 4049 of PL 100-203, we are setting forth a fee schedule for radiology services furnished by a board-certified or board eligible radiologist or by a physician whose charges for radiology services account for 50 percent or more of his or her total Medicare charges. These physicians will be paid at 80 percent of the lower of the actual charges or the appropriate fee schedule amount. The fee schedule amount for a nonparticipating physician will be 95 percent of the amount applicable to a participating physician. In addition, a nonparticipating physician's charges to beneficiaries will be capped. The proposed fee schedule will result in overall payment to physicians for radiology of 3 percent less than would have occurred without a fee schedule. The fee schedule will be updated annually in accordance with the annual increase in the Medicare Economic Index.

Abstract: This final rule implements section 8424 of the Technical and Miscellaneous Revenue Act of 1988, Pub. L. No. 100-647. It removes from Medicare conditions of participation the requirement that providers of outpatient physical therapy and physical therapists in independent practice accept for treatment only patients referred to them by physicians, and that written plans of care be established and reviewed by physicians. It also extends the same exemption to providers of outpatient speech pathology and speech pathologists in independent practice. It affects care provided to non-Medicare patients only. The requirements for physician involvement continue to apply for services provided to Medicare beneficiaries. The purpose of the rule is to relieve providers of outpatient physical therapy and outpatient speech pathology and independent therapists of unnecessary burden imposed by current Federal regulations. States would have the flexibility under State law to establish the most appropriate requirements for non-Medicare patients in need of physical therapy or speech pathology services.

Abstract: Historically the Department has regulated laboratories by "location," rather than by types of tests they perform. Amendments to the Clinical Laboratories Improvements Act of 1988 changes this approach. The amendments require that the Department "regulate by test," using what is commonly referred to as the "complexity model." This proposed rule would set forth standards for all laboratories based on complexity. It will also seek public comments on the proposed standards as well as ask for suggestions and alternatives.

Abstract: This NPRM rule, which implements section 20 of the Child Support Enforcement Amendments of 1984 (Pub. L. 98-378) specifies that in any case where the collection or increased collection of support under title IV-D of the Social Security Act contributes wholly or partly to a family's ineligibility for AFDC, the family is deemed, but only for the purpose of Medicaid eligibility, to be receiving AFDC for a period of four calendar months after the last month of AFDC eligibility. This applies only to families who receive AFDC in three of the six months immediately preceding the month of ineligibility. "Received" includes those individuals denied an AFDC payment solely because the payment amount is under $10, the recoupment of overpayment, or because the payment is determined to be zero as a result of rounding.

Abstract: Would update current regulations by adding statutory exclusions for certain per capita distributions of Indian judgment funds and other funds held in trust by the Department of Interior, and initial purchases made with such funds. Additionally, would exclude the following types of distributions received from a Native Corporation pursuant to the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act. (1) Cash to the extent that it does not in the aggregate, exceed $2,000 per individual per annum; (2) Stocks; (3) A partnership interest; (4) Land or an interest in land; and (5) An interest in a settlement trust. Regulations would reflect the statutes; therefore, no alternatives are being considered. We estimate that the Federal share of the cost of the trust funds exclusions required under PL 97-458 and PL 98-64 would be $696,960 per year, the Federal share of the cost of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act exclusions required under PL 100-241 would be $1,878,108 per year. Therefore, the annual result would be a cost of $3,575,068.

Abstract: These rules make revisions to the regulations designed to incorporate changes made by Section 9101 of PL 99-509, which amended Section 1137 of the Social Security Act to allow States flexibility in targeting uses of data through the Income and Eligibility Verification System. States will not be required to verify and act on all data. This changes earlier regulations which required 100% verification and allows the States the option to target their uses to those identified in the State Plan as most likely to be productive.

Abstract: Current regulations provide for a number of work and training programs. Some States have designed their own programs. However, since most of these work programs are optional, and State support for these programs have varied, implementation of work and training programs has been uneven among the states. The Family Support Act (Public Law 100-485), which was signed 10/13/88, establishes under title IV-F of the Social Security Act, the Job Opportunities and Basic Skills (JOBS) training program. JOBS' purpose is to assure that needy families with children obtain the education, training, and employment that will help them avoid long term dependence. The legislation mandates that all States implement a JOBS program by October 1, 1990. The regulation also includes child care and supportive services provisions from Title III of the Family Support Act. These services include services needed by JOBS participants, as well as transitional child care for former AFDC recipients.

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Department of Housing and Urban Development.

ACTION: Semiannual agenda, under Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, of regulations expected to be issued and under review.

SUMMARY: In accordance with section 5 of Executive Order 12291 "Federal Regulation," the Department is publishing its agenda of proposed regulations already issued or expected to be issued and of currently effective rules that are under review. Also, under section 602 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the Department has prepared a regulatory flexibility agenda of regulations expected to be proposed or promulgated which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. As permitted by Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the two agendas are combined for publication.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Grady J. Norris, Assistant General Counsel for Regulations, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Room 10276, 451 Seventh Street SW., Washington, DC 20410, (202) 755-7055. (This is not a toll-free number.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291 "Federal Regulation," issued on February 17, 1981 (46 FR 13193), requires each agency to publish semiannually an agenda of regulations that the agency has issued or expects to issue and of currently effective regulations that are under agency review.

The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601-612, requires each agency to publish semiannually a regulatory flexibility agenda of rules expected to be proposed or promulgated which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities," meaning small businesses, small organizations, or small governmental jurisdictions.

Executive Order 12291 and section 605 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act each permit incorporation of the agenda it requires with any other prescribed agenda. Accordingly, the agenda set out below combines the information required by the Executive order and by the Regulatory Flexibility Act. In addition, the agenda contains certain information not required by either the Executive order or by the Act which the Department considers useful, both better to inform the public and to enhance the Department's own inventory control over its body of regulations.

For purposes of Executive Order 12291, "regulation" or "rule" is defined as "an agency statement of general applicability and future effect designed to implement, interpret, or prescribe law or policy or describing the procedure or practice requirements of an agency" subject to certain exceptions. The agenda published below concentrates upon regulatory material contained or expected to be contained in the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) (or incorporated therein by reference) following publication in the Federal Register. As appropriate, however, issuances in the nature of general statements of policy may be published in the Federal Register but not for codification in the CFR.

The Department also is subject to certain requirements involving congressional review of rulemaking actions, including publication of an agenda. Section 7(o) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act (42 U.S.C. 3535(o)) requires that the Secretary transmit to the congressional committees having jurisdictional oversight (the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs and the House Committee on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs) a semiannual agenda of all rules or regulations which are under development or review by the Department. A rule appearing on the agenda cannot be published for comment before or during the first 15 calendar days of continuous session of Congress after transmittal of the agenda. If, within such period, either Committee notifies the Secretary that it intends to review any rule or regulation or portion thereof which appears on the agenda, the Secretary must submit to both Committees a copy of the rule or regulation, in the form it is intended to be proposed, at least 15 calendar days of continuous session before it is published for comment. The Semiannual Agenda appearing hereinafter is the agenda transmitted to the Committees in compliance with the foregoing requirement.

The agenda items are divided first by program office. Within each program office, the agenda items are divided into four groups: (i) Prerulemaking actions, (ii) publications or other implementations of notices of proposed rulemaking, (iii) publications or other implementations of final rules, and (iv) completed actions. Within each grouping, rules are listed in chronological order by the part number of the CFR affected. Where a rule affects multiple parts of the CFR, the rule is listed by the first affected part number. Priority rules include all regulations designated for priority development by the Department.

Items listed in this agenda are from the following Offices within the Department: Office of the Secretary; Office of Housing; Office of Public and Indian Housing; Office of Community Planning and Development; Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity; Office of Administration; and Government National Mortgage Association.

Dated: August 23, 1989.

999. PROCEDURE FOR FLOODPLAIN MANAGEMENT AND THE PROTECTION OF WETLANDS; IMPLEMENTATION OF EXECUTIVE ORDERS 11988 AND 11990 (S-7-84; FR-865)

Legal Authority: EO 11988; EO 11900; 42 USC 3535(d)

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 55; 24 CFR 50; 24 CFR 58; 24 CFR 200

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulation sets forth the policy, procedure and responsibilities of the Department of Housing and Urban Development to implement and enforce Executive Order 11988, Floodplain Management, and Executive Order 11990, the Protection of Wetlands. This regulation replaces a general statement of Departmental policy (44 FR 47623; August 14, 1979) implementing these Executive Orders. In addition, this rule would revise HUD's Minimum Property Standards for One and Two Family Dwellings to accord with Executive Order 11988 and FEMA's regulations for its National Flood Insurance Program.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule would implement HUD's responsibilities under the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973. It would add a new Part 56 to specify HUD's responsibilities to require that flood insurance be obtained for eligible properties. This part would then be cross-referenced in the rules governing programs involving insurance, loans and grants. This rule would do the following: (1) authorize certain exemptions for the first time; (2) clarify the statutory limitation on the conduct of HUD programs; (3) describe implementation actions to be taken by the approving official and the affected property owner; and (4) correct or remove from Title 24 outdated or inadequate references pertaining to this statutory responsibility.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1439

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 791

Abstract: The rule revises HUD's regulations for the allocation of housing assistance funds to reflect statutory changes made by the Housing and Urban-Rural Recovery Act of 1983. It contains an explicit description of the allocation formula, including some modifications to the factors making up the formula; deletes specific requirements on allocating funds in accordance with approved Housing Assistance Plans; and eliminates the requirements for local consultation in the allocation process. Part 791 would also be amended to consolidate local government submission requirements and HUD criteria for review of applications for housing. The rule tightens the headquarters funding process as well.

This rule will replace the rule published on April 1, 1986, which was not made effective, but has been withdrawn. This new rule will provide that alien status must be verified with the Immigration and Naturalization Service by the entity responsible for tenant selection (or for approval of a Section 235 mortgage application).

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1710

CFR Citation: 00 CFR 000

Abstract: Section 1064 of the Stewart N. McKinney Homeless Assistance Amendments Act of 1988 authorizes HUD to add pre-foreclosure sales to its roster of servicing options, as a means of saving the Department money and of assisting qualified mortgagors to avoid foreclosure of their FHA-insured mortgages. The Department may now pay a claim to a mortgagee to "bridge the gap" between the proceeds of a sale of the property to a third party buyer at current fair market value, and the original owner's indebtedness under the note. Until the Department received the authorization to pay these claims, such pre-foreclosure sales (or "short sales," as they are also known) were impracticable. At this time, implementing regulations are being planned to introduce the pre-foreclosure sale option throughout her Department.

Abstract: This rule would codify HUD policies for implementing section 250(a) and (b) of the National Housing Act, as added by section 433 of the Housing and Urban-Rural Recovery Act of 1983 and amended by section 261 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1987. This rule would restrict prepayment of multifamily project mortgages whenever Secretary has prepayment approval responsibilities. Prepayment will not be approved unless project is no longer needed for lower income housing, tenants have been given notice and opportunity to comment, and a relocation assistance plan has been put in place. Similar restrictions will apply to termination of insurance. Where the Secretary is not responsible for approving prepayment and therefore cannot restrict it, priority will be given for additional section 8 and troubled project assistance in order to discourage prepayment. Additional requirements imposed on the prepayment of multifamily project mortgages by Title II, Subtitle B of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1987 have been implemented by separate rulemaking (FR-2450; H-10-88; RIN: 2502-AE34).

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend HUD regulations to implement section 181 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1987 and section 1010 of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Amendments of 1988. Section 181 expanded the scope of section 203 of the Housing and Community Development Amendments of 1978 to include projects that are subject to a HUD-held mortgage and are delinquent, under a workout agreement, or being foreclosed upon by HUD. HUD, when it is owner or mortgagee-in-possession, and the owner in other situations now covered by section 203 must, to the greatest extent possible, maintain all such occupied projects in decent, safe, and sanitary condition and maintain full occupancy and must also maintain all such projects for purposes of providing rental or cooperative housing for the longest feasible time. The statute directs HUD to provide not less than one of several specified forms of financial assistance to a purchaser other than HUD at foreclosure, or after sale by the Secretary. Abstract: This rule would revise the existing administrative criteria for acceptability of insured 10-year protection Plans (Plans). The Department began this proceeding by publishing a Notice informing the public that HUD intended to revise the criteria. This rule describes, among other things, criteria related to Plan acceptability, insurance and financial backing, Plan coverage, and methods for determining Plan obligations.

HUD acceptance of these Plans is a prerequisite to reduced inspection requirements on a property accepted for mortgage insurance before the commencement of construction. It is also a prerequisite to high loan-to-value insured financing for existing one-to-four family dwellings that are less than one year old and that were not approved and inspected by HUD or the Veterans Administration before the start of construction.

Abstract: This rule would implement section 406 of the Housing & Community Development Act of 1987. Section 406 provides that this occupancy requirement only applies if the mortgage involve a principal obligation that exceeds 75 percent of the loan-to-value or equivalent calculation under the insuring authority involved. Abstract: This final rule will modify the rule for FHA mortgage insurance on Hawaiian Homelands to remove its dependence on the Temporary Mortgage Assistance Payments program rule, because that rule has never been made effective. This rule also (1) makes effective a previously proposed change to the Assignment Program for FHA insured mortgages not on Hawaiian Homelands requiring defaulted mortgagor to have reasonable prospects of repayment of the mortgage to be eligible for assignment and forbearance (to conform the rule to section 230 of the National Housing Act); and (2) adds a limit on the interest rate to be charged in the Assignment Program (to reflect a change made by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1987).

Abstract: The regulation implements provisions of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1987 that provide that mortgages on "eligible low income housing" may be prepaid only in accordance with a "plan of action" approved by the Secretary. The regulation establishes procedures for the submission and negotiation of such plans of action, lists incentives which may be part of the plan of action, and provides standards which the plans of action must meet. The regulation is designed to preserve needed low income housing in cases where the project owner might otherwise prepay its mortgage and convert the project to higher-income use.

For HUD-assisted community development and housing programs, the expanded coverage will apply to displacements occurring on or after April 2, 1989. The amendments will contain the necessary conforming changes to HUD programs consistent with the final governmentwide rule implementing the 1987 Amendments to the Uniform Act. CFR Citation: 24 CFR 511

Abstract: This rule will implement sections 150(b) and 150(f) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1987 which amend sections 17(a)(1)(A)and 17(k)(4), respectively, of the United States Housing Act of 1937. Section 150(b) makes eligible for rehabilitation grant funds property that will be privately owned upon completion of rehabilitation. The previous authorizing legislation and current regulations limit the use of rehabilitation grant funds to properties that are (and continue to be) privately owned. Section 150(f) expands the definition of "privately owned real property to be used primarily for residential rental purposes" (and thus eligible for rehabilitation grant funds) to include housing that is owned by a State or locally chartered, neighborhood based, nonprofit organization the primary purpose of which is the provision and improvement of housing.

Abstract: The rule will implement statutory amendments established by section 1088 of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Amendments Act of 1988 (Pub. L. 100-628). The amendments make a number of changes to the Lead-Based Paint Poisoning Prevention Act, including the possible selection of the 1978 CPSC standard for lead in paint of .06 percent by weight of the dry paint film as a criteria for determining when, and to what extent, abatement in public housing will be required; adding dust containing lead to the hazard to be abated; and adding atomic absorption spectroscopy (AAS) as an acceptable method of testing for lead-based paint and dust containing lead.

Abstract: Section 1001(a)(3) of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Amendments Act of 1988 amended section 16(c) of the U.S. Housing Act of 1937 to prohibit project owners from selecting families for residence in an order different from the order on the waiting list for the purpose of selecting relatively higher income families for residence. In addition, section 1001(b) of the 1988 Amendments amends section 6(c)(4)(A) of the 1937 Act to extend the prohibition to public housing agencies.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1437g

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 990; 24 CFR 965

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule would implement section 118(a) and 118(d). Section 118(a) requires HUD to amend the Performance Funding System, among other things, to provide for a formal review process for PHAs to obtain a change in allowable expense level to correct inequities in the original base year expense level, to correct for changes in operating circumstances and to reflect the level of economic distress of the locality. Section 118(d) also provides for sharing of the savings between a PHA and HUD for energy conservation improvements, and for preservation of subsidy when several units are rehabilitated and combined into fewer units. In addition, the rule would specify what requirements an insurance company or other risk protection provider must satisfy in order for the coverage to comply with ACC insurance requirements.

Abstract: This rule would establish procedures for the approval and funding of replacement housing for public housing units that have been demolished or disposed of. In addition, this rule would require that HUD may approve an application for demolition if the project is obsolete, making it unusable for housing purposes and if no reasonable program modifications are feasible to return the project to a useful life. The rule would also require HUD, in allocating assistance for public housing acquisition or development or for Section 8 moderate rehabilitation, to give consideration to housing that replaces demolished public housing units in accordance with an approved replacement plan. PHAs would be prohibited from taking any action to demolish or dispose of public housing projects without obtaining HUD's approval and satisfying pertinent statutory requirements.

1120. PUBLIC HOUSING CIAP AND COMPREHENSIVE GRANT PROGRAM (P-8-88; FR-2488)

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: PL 100-242, Sec 119

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 968

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 119 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1987 (Pub. L. 100-242, approved February 5, 1988) began a two-part legislative process designed to develop a Comprehensive Grant Program (CGP) which would provide an improved means of allocating funds for the modernization of public housing for PHAs that own or operate a total of 500 or more units.

Section 119 contemplates the adoption, by the Congress, of a follow-up statute providing for a revised method for allocating assistance under the new program. Until this additional legislation is approved, HUD's current method of allocating funds will continue in effect.

The Department is developing procedural rules to govern administration of the new CGP under the new system outlined in section 119, and published a proposed rule on this subject on October 27, 1988. The proposed rule also proposed simplifying the current CIAP program and limiting it to PHAs that own or operate fewer than 500 units. (cont)

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Interior.

ACTION: Semiannual agenda of rules scheduled for review or development.

SUMMARY: This notice provides the semiannual agenda of rules scheduled for review or development between October 1989 and April 1990. An agenda is required by Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

ADDRESS: Unless otherwise indicated, all Agency Contacts are located at the Department of the Interior, 18th and C Streets NW., Washington, DC 20240.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: All comments and inquiries with regard to these rules should be directed to the appropriate Agency Contact. General comments relating to the agenda should be directed to the Division of Directives and Regulatory Management, Office of Management Improvement, Department of the Interior, 18th and C Streets NW., MIB-2242, Washington, DC 20240, or on 202-343-6191.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: With this publication, the Department satisfies the requirement of Executive Order 12291 that the Department publish in April and October of each year an agenda of rules that have been issued or are expected to be issued and currently effective rules that are scheduled for review.

Simultaneously, the Department meets the requirement of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) that an agenda be published in April and October of each year identifying rules which will have significant economic effects on a substantial number of small entities; those rules which will have such effects are specifically identified in the agenda.

This agenda also identifies rules determined to be "significant" under Executive Order 12498 and which are included in this Department's 1989-90 regulatory program. A more comprehensive discussion of this program and the rules are contained in the Regulatory Program of the United States Government, which is published by the Office of Management and Budget.

1123. NATURAL RESOURCE DAMAGE ASSESSMENTS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 9651(c) CERCLA

CFR Citation: 43 CFR 11

Legal Deadline: Other, Statutory, March 20, 1989.
42 USC 9651(c)(3) requires biennial review and revision as appropriate of the regulations.

Abstract: CERCLA allows natural resource trustees to bring a claim against a potentially responsible party for resources that have been injured by a release of a hazardous substance or, under certain circumstances, a discharge of oil. Section 301(c) (2) (A) calls for the promulgation of simplified assessment procedures. The first type A procedure for coastal and marine environments uses a computer model known as the natural resource damage assessment model for coastal and marine environments (NRDAM/CME). Section 301(c)(3) of CERCLA requires the biennial review of these natural resource damage assessment regulations. Since type A regulations were published as a final rule in 1987, the Department will issue an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM). This ANPRM will ask trustees, other interested parties, and members of the public to draw upon their experience with the type A procedure to advise the Department of areas where revisions to the type A procedure may be appropriate.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 9651(c) CERCLA

CFR Citation: 43 CFR 11

Legal Deadline: Other, Statutory. 42 USC 9651(c)(3) requires biennial review and revision, as appropriate, of the regulations. This ANPRM will begin the review process.

Abstract: CERCLA allows natural resource trustees to bring a claim against a potentially responsible party for resources that have been injured by a release of a hazardous substance or, under certain circumstances, a discharge of oil. Section 301(c)(2)(B) calls for the promulgation of a set of alternative protocols for the testing, sampling, and determining compensation for natural resource damages, referred to as the type B procedures. Section 301(c)(3) requires the biennial review of these natural resource damage assessment regulations. Since the general process and type B procedures were published as a final rule in 1986, the Department will issue an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) to begin the second biennial review of these regulations. This ANPRM will ask trustees, other interested parties, and members of the public to draw upon their experience with the type B procedures, and the general assessment process, to advise the Department of areas where revisions to the process and the type B procedures may be desired.

1128. NATURAL RESOURCE DAMAGE ASSESSMENTS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 9651(c) CERCLA

CFR Citation: 43 CFR 11

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Department has promulgated regulations, codified at 43 CFR Part 11, for the assessment of damages to natural resources injured by a release of a hazardous substance or, under certain circumstances, a discharge of oil. The regulations provide two types of assessment procedures: simplified procedures requiring minimal field investigation, referred to as the type A procedures; and alternative protocols for the testing, sampling, and valuing of natural resource damages, referred to as the type B procedures. The type A procedures that have been developed are for use in coastal and marine environments. The Department has stated that, when possible, it would develop additional type A procedures for other environments or natural resources. An advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) will be issued by the Department. This ANPRM will solicit suggestions and supporting technical information for possible development of other type A procedures.

Abstract: The Title IX regulation is intended to address the problem of discrimination on the basis of sex in any education program or activity receiving or benefiting from Federal financial assistance administered by the Department of the Interior (DOI). No alternative for addressing problems of discrimination in DOI's education programs can be considered due to the fact that Title IX requires each Federal agency which extends Federal financial assistance to any educational program or activity, to issue rules and regulations implementing Title IX.

DOI's recipients are anticipated to incur expenses in two (2) areas: (1) Data collection and recordkeeping; (2) rectifying areas of noncompliance with Title IX. With respect to DOI, expenses will be incurred in three (3) areas: (1) Development and publication of the Title IX rule; (2) Provision of technical assistance; and (3) Accomplishing compliance reviews and enforcement activities.

Abstract: This rulemaking will amend the regulation issued by DOI at 43 CFR 17, Subpart B, for enforcement of section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, in federally assisted programs or activities to include a cross-reference to the Uniform Federal Accessibility Standards (UFAS). The regulatory amendment is intended to encourage DOI's recipients to follow UFAS for new construction and alteration projects. No alternative exists to issuing this regulation. This amendment was found to be appropriate and necessary, and is being issued by DOI pursuant to directions received from the Civil Rights Division of the Department of Justice under the authority of Executive Order 12250. It has been determined that this rule is nonmajor and that it has no major cost effect. This amendment will promote governmentwide consistency and minimize public confusion by referencing new architectural standards that are presently in use by the Department of Justice and fourteen other Federal agencies.

Abstract: The procedures for administrative review of Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement decisions on (1) applications for new permits, (2) applications for permit revisions, permit renewals, and the transfer, assignment, or sale of rights granted under permit, (3) permit revisions ordered by the Office, and (4) applications for coal exploration permits vary. The Office of Hearings and Appeals proposes to remove the rules containing procedures for administrative review for (2), (3), and (4) (43 CFR 4.1370-4.1379 and 4.1380-4.1388) and to revise the rules in 43 CFR 4.1360-4.1369 so they will include review of decisions presently provided for in 43 CFR 4.1370-4.1379 and 4.1380-4.1388. The Office also proposes to amend 43 CFR 4.1351 and 4.1391(b) to provide for notice of OSMRE's decisions by certified mail or by overnight delivery service rather than by publication in a local newspaper. The proposed amendments will unify administrative review procedures and make them more expedited.

Analysis: Regulatory Impact Analysis; Regulatory Flexibility Analysis

Additional Information: SMALL BUSINESSES CONT: Small entities likely to be affected by these rules include some sporting goods stores, hardware stores, motels and hotels, restaurants, clothing stores, boat and marine equipment stores, marinas, gasoline stations, private hunting clubs, land owners' leasing hunting rights, and mail order houses selling hunting equipment and supplies. Originally scheduled: April 1985. E.O. 12291: These rules are major because of the economic values associated with migratory game bird hunting; however, the need to obtain and consider the latest population data for these migratory birds requires that the regulatory schedule be shortened. The regulatory impact analysis, as required by E.O. 12291, and the small entity flexibility analysis, as required by 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., have been combined into one analysis as provided for by both authorities. Copies of the combined analysis will be available from the Agency Contact upon publication of the Notice of Intent in March 1985.

Abstract: The Service proposes to list the Desert tortoise (Gopherus agassizii) population north and west of the Colorado River as endangered. Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory. Final, Statutory.
In accordance with 16 USC 1533, the Service must take action (list, withdraw, or extend the rulemaking for 6 months) on a proposed listing no later than 6 months after such proposal.

1179. ● MIGRATORY BIRD PERMITS

Legal Authority: 16 USC 712

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 21

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Service will modify two existing depredation orders (50 CFR 21.43 and 21.44) to prohibit killing of the tricolored blackbird throughout its range and seven species of western meadowlarks, American, Lesser and Lawrence's goldfinches, acorn woodpeckers, Lewis' woodpeckers, and northern flickers. This action is necessary because these species are no longer serious agricultural pests, and some have been declining in numbers such that their continued existence may be in jeopardy without additional protection.

1190. YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK: COMMERCIAL TRAFFIC ON U.S. HIGHWAY 191 WITHIN YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 3

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 7.13

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed regulation will exempt the section of U.S. 191 within Yellowstone National Park from the prohibition on the use of National Park Service roads by commercial vehicles when such use has in no way a connection with operation of the park; delete the special regulations establishing the speed limit on U.S. 191 within Yellowstone National Park; and restrict the amount and type of hazardous materials which may be transported on U.S. 191 within Yellowstone National Park. The special regulation establishing the present fee schedule for commercial traffic within Yellowstone will be eliminated and the Superintendent provided the discretion to establish and adjust fees for such use on an annual basis.

These actions will clearly define the management and regulation of commercial traffic on U.S. 191 through Yellowstone and assure a certain measure of protection against hazardous waste spills.

Abstract: Amendments to the Archaeological Resources Protection Act of 1979 (PL 96-95) made by Congress in 1988 require amendments to the uniform regulations.
